Song Inspired: Don't Blame Me Taylor Swift

Ron sprinted while using his wand as he fired spells behind him as he turned the corner of the corridor of the school he ends up coming to an abrupt stop as he had turn around due to him realizing he was at a dead end as he breathed heavily as he knew there was a war going on around him at his school. He had managed to kill the death eater and was a little tired after what seemed like hours of fighting, he was soon reunited with his friends Harry and Hermione as the three of them hugged as they were standing in the middle of the great hall that was made into a temporary hospital wing.
