

<https://drive.google.com/file/d/1kMM6FTRY8eMcuYtXV20Twt43ukWHvWQL/view> ← copy from swipe file I created that email from.

Hi, My name is James...

And just 90 seconds from now I'm going to let you in on something every man is secretly obsessed with.

It's Something He CRAVES...

More than love, more than money, even more than sex.

And the craziest part is this one secret obsession holds the key to winning a man's love, attention, and total devotion for LIFE but not one woman in a thousand even knows it exists!

Avatar

Who am I writing to?

I am writing to women who are in a relationship with a man and fear losing him. Where are they now?

They are mostly sitting at home, overthinking the possibility of losing their man.

Where do I want to take them?

I want to lead them to a page that will help them solve the problem of fearing that their man will find another woman.

What do I need to do to take them where I want?

I need to grab their attention with a headline that will make them click on my email. Then, I need to use fascination and sensory language to create a mental image that will prompt them to take action. I will incorporate elements of fear and curiosity at each stage to increase their willingness to take specific actions. Additionally, I will use intrigue and unanswered questions to stimulate their desire to find a solution to the problem related to the fear of losing their man.

What are their sufferings/desires?

Fear that my husband will leave me eventually...

I'm (20F) scared that my boyfriend (18M) will leave me for someone better. (LDR)

I'm always scared he will leave me...

My boyfriend (M26) is one of the sweetest man I have met. I know he cares a lot for me. However, I (F22) live in a constant fear that he will break up with me. It's really hard for me when we are not together. I am always thinking about him and intrusive thoughts start to peak in. The accumulation of these thoughts during the week often results in big bursts of emotion, where I cry a lot, when I finally see him. He is the best boyfriend and always tries to comfort me. But I'm always scared he will have enough one day and will break up with me. This only amplifies the intrusive thoughts I had to begin

I am afraid that my bf will leave me because of my mental illness

I (20F) have been suffering from depression and severe anxiety since elementary school. Recently I've gotten into a relationship with a wonderful boy (22M) (been going on for a few months), who has (thank god) no experiences with depression, anxiety, or any other mental illness. I've told him about my struggles, how bad they can get, and how he can support me in those moments, but I don't think he understands the gravity of the situation. My depression and anxiety were one of the main reasons why we've broken up with my ex and I am very afraid that they would be the reason for him to leave me once things get complicated. I've tried talking to him about it many times but I am not sure if he really understands what he's getting into...

reason to believe he would just lose feelings one day, and I know he isn't the person to cheat.

Yet, despite how great everything is I still have severe anxiety about him one day finding someone better as in a month he's going to start college. Even with nothing wrong I keep telling myself that when he's at college and he meets new people he'll find a girl that's prettier, better than me and is actually there physically for him. (We're planning on living together by this time next year.) If it wasn't obvious my self esteem is down the drain right now, almost nonexistent.

I worry maybe I won't rise to whatever challenges may come with being his partner. I worry I won't be good enough someday, as the precedent of beauty and success of others around him rises steadily. I worry I will always be in this house, stuck, alone while he travels for months at a time on the other side of the world. I worry I will take pictures with him and look horrible and his fans will rip me apart. I worry a lot. Can't help myself. But I love him too much to give up.

I'm scared my boyfriend will leave me, even though I have no reason to think this.

to text or see me I get paranoid. I can't get the thought out of my head that he is going to break up with me or that he's losing interest.

- Everytime we see eachother and he has to leave I get really sad. Sometimes even to the point that I cry.
- I have nightmares of him leaving me and having other girlfriends sometimes.

Im scared that the guy Im dating is going to leave me if I open up about my childhood trauma and SH ?

spiritual leader. Since our third child was born, however, I cannot shake this fear that someday, my husband is going to leave me for a prettier, younger woman. Or even if he doesn't actually leave, he will eventually become bored and dissatisfied with me.

I'm scared for when my boyfriend leaves me.

I constantly feel like my boyfriend is going to leave me eventually and that his love will become conditional eventually.

He talked about getting a cat I doodled on a napkin during our first date tattooed on his arm, and I feel extremely flattered and lucky don't get me wrong. But all I can think is "that's going to really fucking suck when we break up."

I just worry that I'm not being a good enough partner. He makes more money than me and I do rely on him financially at times, which makes me worry about what if I unconsciously start using him for his money.

I constantly worry about hurting him and I just. Blegh. I love him so much and he deserves so much better than what I have to offer.

Worried That My Boyfriend Will Leave Me for Someone Who is Better or In His Area or He Losing Love. Am I overthinking?

For some reason I always have this lingering thought in my mind that he could end up leaving me for someone else. I am aware I have insecurities and overthinking issues due ny past relationships. I can't shake that thought out of my mind or him losing love for me.

I still have the thoughts whether it's a new person he talks to or something. I know he can be a flirt. That people love to flirt with him. When we had our a call last night, near the end he got a message

I'm scared my bf(m19) will leave me(f19) for someone else

I'm scared my bf will find someone better and leave me like all the guys before him

One thing I'm scared of is that in our uni a better girl will ask him out as I'm not smart like him and I'm scared he'll just leave me for an upgrade as that's the rational thing to do as that's the last 2 guys did while the first just used me for my body.

I [F/27] keep feeling insecure my boyfriend [26/M] will realise he can 'do better' and leave me for someone better looking.

I've been with my boyfriend for about eight months and I just can't shake off these feelings that I'm not pretty enough or good enough for him and that one of these days, he's going to realise it and go date some pretty girl. Because I've really, really fallen for him.

i always think and fear that my boyfriend will get bored of me and leave me for someone who's better than me in the end - how can i turn this thought off?

Aren't you afraid that your partner(s) will leave you for someone else?

And what to do in that case? I try to do my part, I'm super upfront about my relationships and how I feel and I try to be the best version ever of myself for the sake of everyone, but that doesn't really solve this problem. The thought that a person I have a special bond with will find someone else they like better and just break up with me is heartbreaking even if I have other wonderful people in my life. Do you experience it? How do you handle it?

LegitimateFunny2351 · 2 yr. ago

I do worry that my partner of 32 years might leave me for a different partner, especially as I get older (65). But more than physically leaving me is staying and being loved less than before. I

Quietj · 2 yr. ago

I remember telling my spouse that I was afraid that they would leave me when talking about opening up.

Does anyone fear being left for someone better?

That's one of my ideas from having been alone for so long... that if there were any chance of me and a girl going steady, I'd be quickly embarrassed by not being as sexy (talented, knowledgeable, charismatic) as certain other people. Air Force. Musician. Scientist. So there'd be no point anyways. And the agony of knowing you weren't cool enough. That's my big fear of the whole experience. Anyone

I worry all the time that he will leave me for a more attractive and succesful woman. Whenever we are out on a date and there's an attractive girl walking by I suspect he is thinking to himself he should found someone who's in his league.

This worry is killing me because I know men are far more visually drawn to women than anything else so why would he choose me? Makes no sense

EMAIL

SL: How to make your man obsessed with you so much that he forgets about other women's existence?

Women are constantly competing to win the man they desire.

Do you think you're the only woman who wants your man?

I can tell you that you're not, think back to the times in the grocery store when you see a girl take a longer look than she should at him

And here's the best part you'll experience...

I want to tell you that there's a secret that will eliminate your fear that he stopped doing those cute date ideas and instead, he is taking longer to respond to your text

In your man's eyes, you will be the one and only, and he won't pay attention to any walking women near him.

After spending intimate moments together, kissing and cuddling, you will feel overjoyed, experiencing a deep love for your partner.

Your man will feel a BURNING desire inside him to give you attention.

Your jaw will drop when your man pays no attention to any other woman but you.

This guide provides a step-by-step explanation and is accessible on any device with internet connection.

Do you want to become the ONLY woman your man desires and won't leave for another woman?

>> If so click here to discover more <<

P.S. Thousands of women want this method, so the sale is limited.

