Subject line: The single biggest mistake that could have cost me everything

How you can make sure you get a hold of your life.

Used to be the kind of person who'd always come up with an excuse as to why things weren't working out how I wanted in life.

Especially when it came to things that I knew were essential to me.

It didn't change much even as I got more responsibility, like working a job.

My constant stalling began to affect not just my personal life but professional as well.

Your partially notice you have a problem when there is nothing else left in your life,

And your boss tells you,

“Pull yourself together, or you're out”

But on today's way to work, to my office in my white Mercedes benz, my watch glistened in the sunlight.

I feel proud and grateful that I made the right choice and I got myself together.

I have been moving up ever since.

Who knows where I'll be in another two years?

What about you?

Are you willing to do what it takes to be the best?
