

Name: Lem Graddings

Age:15

Occupation: Helper (Slave).

Biography: One of the teachers experiments, created in a test tube, homunculus type creature. From what he has heard Lem's existence was supposed to be a secret but was found out once people saw her sneaking food to the unused storage cellar in the basement. Although it wasn't against school code and received no backlash from the event she still seemed upset it wasn't kept a secret. Lem is a sheltered child learning what he can by listening in on studies and making sure no one sees him doing so. The other students there would most likely be afraid of his physical appearance and appalling the student body wouldn't be the right thing considering the main thing he wants but doesn't believe he can achieve is existing in a normal environment. On the rare occasions he is seen, he can see the confusion and disgust that forms, makes him just want to go back to his cellar and continue being tested on.

Core Power: Physical Mutation - User suffers from physical deformations that allow them to live in difficult environments at the cost of living in minor to moderate pain. Since this is caused by unnatural causes the user struggles with controlling their abilities. Usually limiting himself rather than exerting.

Side Powers: Tough Hide (similar to a rhynos),

Powerful Body (Enhanced Senses, speed, strength, durability, and healing.)
All around 4x stronger than the average human.

Caustic Bodily Fluids. All fluids in the body have a ph value of .3

Relationships: The Science Professor Ms. Graddings created Lem, so he sees her as his mother in a way. She never gave permission or told him of his last name or lack thereof, so he uses hers. After being discovered the school put Lem to work, Doing chores, fetching anything needed. He basically works as an unpaid janitor.

School: St. Latural's School of Academic Excellence.