Online games can be dismissed as a waste of time by productive people like you. It may be true that people spend hours playing on their computers, but it is not true for those who use online games to increase their productivity.

Online games can be a great way to give your brain a break. These games can be accessed from any computer. You don't need to have the game installed on your computer. Instead, you can open any Internet browser and start enjoying all the games the internet has to offer.
