

These webinars are from the organization Teaching Tolerance. Click to check out the master list of free webinars from Teaching Tolerance. Updated 6/1/2020

- Let's Talk! Discussing Black Lives Matter (Duration: 34 minutes) In this first webinar in the Let's Talk! series, we'll explore Black Lives Matter, an activist group that media, schools and communities often struggle to understand.
- Let's Talk! Discussing Whiteness: (Duration: 47 minutes) In this interactive webinar, we'll discuss whiteness as a racial identity with the understanding that acknowledging whiteness and the privilege and power attached to it is a necessary step in working toward racial justice
- What is White Privilege. Really? (Duration: 1 hour, 31 minutes) What is white privilege, anyway? And do we really need to teach about it? Join Teaching and Learning Specialist Stef Bernal-Martinez and anti-racist educator and scholar Ronda Taylor Bullock for this interactive, research-rich opportunity to explore white privilege and help you create a more racially just classroom and community.
- Equity Matters: Confronting Implicit Bias (Duration: 47 minutes) The third Equity Matters webinar delves into implicit biases—the subconscious biases we all have that influence how we respond to others.
- Prejudice Reduction and Collective Action: Integrating the Anti-Bias Framework into All Disciplines (Duration: 1 hour, 2 minutes) View this webinar to learn how the anti-bias standards can dovetail with your curriculum and subject-specific standards to help students develop anti-bias attitudes and social emotional skills.
- The Color of Law: (Duration: 1 hour, 17 minutes) Join Teaching Tolerance and Director Maureen Costello as we explore the role of U.S. segregation in everything from housing to employment to wealth accumulation—and the policies that made it all happen. Tune in to learn why the “bootstraps theory” doesn’t hold up and gain some useful tools for your classroom practice.
- Let's Talk! Teaching Black Lives Matter (Duration: 56 minutes) This sequel to Let's Talk! Discussing Black Lives Matter in the Classroom reviews the education related policy demands within the Movement for Black Lives' platform: Invest-Divest and Community Control.
- Let's Talk! Discussing Race, Racism and Other Difficult Topics with Students (Duration: 56 minutes) Join NEA and Teaching Tolerance for our second of three school-climate webinars. This time, we will provide guidance on how to have relevant and rigorous conversations with students about race, racism and other important topics.