

[Welcome to Hope's Peak Academy! We hope that our guide robot Monodam will not disappoint you!]

Name: Monodam

Gender: Male, He/Him

Age: Unknown, but he is a minor.

Job: Depending on the verse, either the Last Runner of the Killing Game, or guide and peacemaker of Hope's Peak.

Appearance: Monodam's appearance is similar his father, Monokuma, but the part that is black on Monokuma is an olive green color on Monodam. Likewise, his right eye is gray with a red pupil while his left eye is white. He also has light gray cheeks, meant to represent blushing, and a yellow pacifier in his mouth to show that he is a child. The pacifier doesn't fall off of his mouth when he speaks, as its made out of an extremely weak magnet.

While all the siblings are robots, Monodam is more robotic in appearance; his limbs are made of gray, bendable metal, his ears are flat and his body, his face and his forehead appear as different connected parts. The two halves of his forehead also appear to be different parts with the left half being slightly larger than the right half.

Personality: Monodam is a child-like robot. Unlike his overly talkative siblings, he is very quiet. For the most part, he doesn't speak even to his fellow siblings, and he is somewhat of an outcast in the group.

When he does talk, Monodam speaks in a typical monotone robotic manner, making him appear very emotionless and unpredictable. He tends to silently stare at those he sees as strangers, with no visible reaction, when they speak to him. It takes a while for him to answer things, and he occasionally talks in a rather loud voice, which may startle others due to his usual silence, while trying to keep his sentences as short as possible. The rare moments when he laughs sounds especially unnatural due to his very robotic voice.

Despite all the oddity surrounding him, Monodam is a peaceful robot who wants to be helpful for his family and friends. He doesn't like fights, bullying and arguments, and does anything to mend a broken relationship between his family members and students. He is very chill with joining the shenanigans of other students as long as it's for the sake of their happiness.

Backstories/Verses

Hope's Peak Verse, main verse: For years that the academy existed, Monokuma was the only mascot in there. But then, some students came together to do something inspired by Monokuma, and the Hope's Peak. Creating few mini robots. Being the second oldest sibling of Monokubs, his creators decided to get a little bit creative with his design and made him different than Monotaro. But because and lack of resources, Monodam was the only one that looked different than his siblings and adopted father. Seeing the love and hard-work that's put on Monokubs, academy accepted them with open arms, and the siblings decided to work at the academy for the good of students; with Monodam choosing to be a peacemaker and guide around the Academy for those that need it.

Facts: When he gets nervous or anxious, either his ears pop up and releases cold steam from the inside of his head, or he sprays it from his nose and/or mouth. The steam itself can also used as a self-defence technique, but instead of cold, it's extremely hot when it does. Like a rocket, Monodam is also capable of flying forward very fast, leaving behind a trail of bright light while doing so. Though, he can't soar because of his weight, he can only go up just a little bit.

He can extend and retract his limbs to a small extent.

His voice box is different than his siblings, which is the reason why he speaks in a numb way. He has no problem with the way he speaks or sounds, though.

He has oil running in his veins, or rather, wires. It's to keep all of his body energized all the time. But sometimes he overworks himself to the bone/endoskeleton, which results in him missing his oil change moments and shut off.

He likes giving others hugs, as well as getting hugs.

Monodam likes watching jets and planes fly.

He is waterproof, both inside and outside.

His red pupil starts shutting on and off when he is tired, like a broken light bulb. He calls that "flickering".

He suckles his pacifier when he gets irritated or bored. The speed of suckling shows the intensity of his emotions, as the more irritated and bored Monodam feels, the faster suckling gets; and slower it gets, more excited or calmer he feels.

He got marine snow as a gift by Shuichi and he made a decoration out of it at "his" room.

Speaking of his room, it's a big storage room near the headmaster's room. He shares the place with the other Kubs.

Mun notes:

- I like the way Monodam speaks, but I understand that writing him that way will make it very hard for some people to read. So, i will write his lines in a normal way and instead of dashes, i'll put exclamation marks between the words. Ex: "!! Like! That!"
- Please let me know if you want your muse to be in the part of the Ultimate group that created him or not, as that'll affect the relationship between Monodam a lot.
@mechatique s Kazuichi from Tumblr/Discord is among the group, but I'm open to accept other characters too, along with other Kazuichi's.

[Thanks for choosing the service from Hope's Peak Academy! Unfortunately, our robot has to be shut off for various reasons right now. Please be patient until his consciousness opens again!]