

Hangout OnAir Howto

Prerequisites

You need a Google account which has to be G+ enabled. In addition to this the account needs to be confirmed and linked to YouTube! Confirmation is done by a phone call or a SMS, which gives you a confirmation-code you need to enter in YouTube, so you can record videos longer than 15 minutes. Be sure to do this in advance of your broadcast, or you could be running into time problems!

Steps

1. Create a event for you Hangout and mark 'Make this an OnAir Event' (not as a normal G+ Hangout, but this gets inaccessible anyway, if you select OnAir).

2. Shortly (but not too short!) before the Hangout is scheduled to start you need to create the actual On Air Hangout using 'Hangouts On Air' in the menu on the left. Click 'Start Hangout On Air'. The newly created Hangout will be OFF AIR initially. Now invite the people that should participate using the invite button in the upper left corner.

3. Copy the YouTube URL of the video from the Hangout On Air. You need to click on 'Embed' right beside the 'Start transmission' button to see it. Copy theyoutu.be URL.

4. Edit the details of your initial G+ event (click the arrow right of Details and select 'Edit Events') and select 'Show more options'.

5. Paste the URL into the "YouTube-URL" field.

The screenshot shows the Google Hangout On Air setup interface. At the top, there's a header with a stylized title 'Die Sklavengruben' and a 'Change theme' button. Below this, the event title is '[Dungeon World] Die Sklavengrube von Dr. ...'. A red 'On air' button is visible. To the right, an 'Event options' dropdown menu is open, showing 'Basic' and 'Advanced' sections. In the 'Advanced' section, 'Make this an event on air' and 'Show more options' are both checked. A red arrow points from the 'Show more options' checkbox to the 'YouTube-URL' field at the bottom. The 'YouTube-URL' field contains the URL 'http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ly8jX-JNUgl', which is underlined in red. Other fields include a date and time selector set to '24 May 2013 20:00 - 23:30', a location field, a description field with text about the system and software, and two other URL fields.

6. Done! Now the YouTube video is shown with the event. To start your broadcast you only need to click the 'Start broadcast' button. It will take a while till the event really starts, watch for the indicator.

7. Focus control: the recording will show what the Hangout initiator sees. So if you as the initiator select a certain person, the live broadcast will show that person. If you deselect, focus will switch back to automatic (show who talks). You can see the current number of live viewers in the top of the Hangout window.

8. Aftermath: Google will start transferring the recording to your YouTube account only after the OnAir was closed (by clicking hangup). This takes a while. After the transferral is finished you can start editing description, tags, etc using your YouTube video manager. The URL stays the same as the live URL you copied.
