The Book Fair is coming!!

Spring Deep-Freeze

This week, students worked on Topic 12. The focus is on fractions. So far students have used number lines and shapes to identify and label fractions less than one whole and more than one whole. It's a long topic, so we'll be focusing on fractions for another week or so.

Third graders also took a spelling/vocabulary test this week. New words will be out on Monday. Some students are forgetting to practice at home, so a friendly reminder to them would be a great help! Students also designed a Bradley town flag, complete with symbols of the past and present. These will be displayed very soon at the Bradley town office for the community to enjoy. The students put a lot of thought and effort into them, and it shows!

Students finished two persuasive speeches this week. One was written to Ms. Leonard about a real school issue the students wish to change. Some students are writing to request a new basketball net and basketballs, and others are writing to request simple locks to be put on the bathroom stall doors for privacy. We'll keep you posted on how convincing their writing is!

Students are still coming to school without hats, mittens, gloves and other warm clothing. This causes problems at recess and in the morning. Please make sure students remember to bring their warm gear for these chilly days.
