HISTORY

Kit - Born to Wormfang, who raised the three kits by himself. Batkit, Berrykit, and Wanderingkit played a lot and got into the trouble kits typically got into. It was easier with the 14 other kittens born around the same time as them.

Apprentice - Growing up with so many others was actually kind of exciting, not that Wanderingpaw felt that way, they tended to lean more towards being grumpy about not getting as much attention as they thought some of the other cats got. During their apprenticeship, they formed a friendly rivalry with Eeriepaw. Despite their lack of speech they both tried to one-up the other constantly. Wanderingpaw did enjoy training, he finally felt as if they were getting the one-on-one attention they had been missing. They did well in their assignments and worked very hard to try and stand out among the nearly 20 other apprentices the same age as themselves. Having the ceremonies postponed during the weird weather and freaky other stuff going on felt weird... but I understand why we were kept back.

Warrior - They gained the name Wanderinggloom, which they quite like. They haven't been a warrior for long but so far it's been interesting be able to explore on their own. They wouldn't ever admit it but they do feel bad Eeriepaw was held back longer, but they know once they apply themselves that they will be back to bothering each other.

Wormfang | Father | He raised us well!

Batbloom | Sister | She is very nice and will bite my ears off if she hears me saying that. But I'd do the same to her so.

Berrysun | Sibling | The least grumbly of us three. Extroverted as heck and very good at making new friends

Slugmoon | Mentor | A good mentor and made sure I had what I needed to thrive as an apprentice.

Eeriepaw | Rival | They are my rival in all things! It has been determined, it's a shame they got held back... er I mean yes I have triumphed over them!
