HISTORY

The planet of Nicht Ka is located in the Sith Worlds Region of the Outer Rim Territories. Strategically located between Ziost and Korriban on the Nache Bhelfia hyperlane, Nicht Ka exists in a state of relative obscurity. Ammonia rains, treacherous terrain, and a toxic atmosphere make the planet inhospitable to nearly all life forms. Nicht Ka's obscurity and toxicity have resulted in the planet remaining relatively unknown to the galaxy at large and even within the Sith culture.

Capitalizing on Nicht Ka's status as an undesirable world, Freedon Nadd cultists transported large caches of ancient Sith relics to the planet. The relics, to include Warb Null's battle armor and lightsaber, were housed in a hexagonal fortress nestled on the side of a mountain. This fortress remained undisturbed for thousands of years until the arrival of Telloti Cillmam'n in 19 BBY. Cillmam'n, a failed padawan, was a member of the Exploration Corps and travelled to Nicht Ka with the Jedi Master Ekim Ryilli. Cillmam'n and Ryilli explored the hexagonal fortress and discovered Warb Null's armor. The armor's Sith magic unleashed Cillmam'n's emotions from failing as a Padawan and in a fit of anger he murdered Jedi Master Ryilli. Cillmam'n declared himself Malleus, the Hammer of the Sith, and vanished from known record.

In 35 ABY, the Sith Lord Esoteric occupied Nicht Ka and established it as his base of operations and intelligence collection. The hexagonal fortress has undergone extensive upgrades and is a testament to Esoteric's paranoia and insane lust for secrecy. Manned entirely by droids and automated defense systems, the hexagonal structure is to the One Sith's expansive intelligence databases and records.

Dark Jedi Brotherhood multi-source intelligence indicates that Esoteric is currently located on Nicht Ka and is accompanied by his lieutenants; Dark Adept Synin Torin and Dark Adept Janni Kuran.

GEOGRAPHY

Nicht Ka is a barren and inhospitable wasteland. Plagued by ammonia rains, a toxic atmosphere, and uninhabitable terrain, the planet is devoid of all life forms.

LANDMARKS

Hexagonal Fortress

Freedon Nadd cultists scoured Sith space for a location to hide relics associated with their dead master. At an unknown date in galactic history, the cultists erected the hexagonal fortress and filled it with treasures from across the galaxy. In 35 ABY, the Sith Lord Esoteric claimed the fortress as his own and discovered vast quantities of dark side relics. These relics were catalogued and recorded, to include a copy of Warb Null's massive lightsaber, elements of Queen Amanoa sarcophagus, and ancient Sith books tainted with the spirit of Freedon Nadd.

The fortress has undergone extensive upgrades over the past three years to protect Esoteric's intelligence databanks and operations. Planetary ion cannons, planetary shields, DF.9 anti-infantry turrets, and internal security systems protect the fortress. YVH-Series battle droids patrol the perimeter of the fortress while its interior is a collection of Sith traps, puzzles, and interconnecting defense networks.
