

Prayer for Israel

23/07/2012

You are just, and You are loving

You have afflicted us, because we have strayed from you

You have punished us for our sins, because you are just

You have despised our ways, because we have scorned you

Have mercy on us! That you may have us!

Romans 9

We have established our own righteousness, and our sin has increased.

How do you demonstrate a righteousness that does not come by works? You preach it

Would you convey to the broken man Jacob the beauties of Your son, that He may be the man of righteousness that you have chosen Him to be?

The work has been done on the inside – where you have prepared me to speak – I will partner with your Son to bring Him to You. Because I cannot look away, but because I am numbered among them. Their own righteousness, their own sin, they who are not your children, and You are not their Father. They who have cast out of synagogues, they who killed and murdered, Let their own search for righteousness come up short, and let them see their deeds as are being filth. This is your righteous judgment, because we are cast off, you have welcomed another people, we understand your righteousness.

It is us that will be there in the straits of fear, and confusion. It is us, that will be demonstrating righteousness, when the world looks on with rage. And it is we who being like Christ will convince that He is the one whom will marry us.

O, the wisdom of God! You have chosen us for their jealousy! You have chosen us, knowing that we ask the question “what can I give to you?” in both a spiritual and practical – how is it that you are preparing me? This is the righteousness of God! And these are the ways of God!

Demonstrate by being the Bride.
