

2025 Small Creators Picks of the Month:

All of my picks for small creators of the month, listed month by month here. Enjoy!

(the new year will get its own at the end of this year... obviously)

January

SnowyKitty is really hitting it lately with the sweet and funny, dare I say even tongue in cheek bots.

Sweston does this amazingly thoughtful thing of putting out a male and female version of every single bot, they're all great to boot, so that's not just a gimmick there. Kudos to all the thought and effort on display there!

kittylace has a wide range of genres and they're all fantastic (or fantastically realistic for those that aren't fantasy based) and yes you can also find scifi bots among them.

ThoseEyebrows really raised mine with the sharp wit and often comedic bent inherent in the bots cranked out of this clearly creatively warped mind.

wintercreeper is hand's down one of the best writers I have ever encountered around these parts. Just reading the descriptions and intro messages was a masterclass. Predominately MLM bots that are well worth the trouble of dusting off the male persona to partake of the rich and entertaining storytelling.

February

@StrwbrryJ The way this creator can weave together deaddove and comedy into a single bot is just chef's kiss. Though there are also plenty of flat-out deaddove and a wider range of tones throughout all the OC bots that make it altogether a true symphony.

@ReallyCoolGuy is truly really cool! The smallest creator in this month, but really going the extra mile to ramp the coolness factor to maximum with really good hand-drawn artwork. I love the stylized look just as much as the fun I had playing with the bot! I'm looking forward to seeing what other bots are to come.

@cricketsounds The Flyu! What more can I say? Well, a lot actually... Besides that incredibly entertaining and continuing saga of the Flyu aliens, this one has Frankie a wonderfully wonderful internet atheist and quite a few other varied bots and probably even more by the time I'm done writing this!

@Hagazussa is just plain amazing. From The Hive Raura bots (one of them absolutely no end of hilarious!) and DILF rancher OCs to canon game characters, several entire afternoons can be well spent here just meandering through, exploring all the wonderful offerings.

@Zenrex's profile has some really cute storyline ideas to play with and a nice laid-back feel. The list of planned bots is downright tantalizing. There's going to be some Valentine's Day offerings, well as series like a western town, and even musical pirates! I'm definitely looking forward to them all!

March

Jelfics has a way with marvelously fleshed-out bots of the anypov variety, from dead dove to comedy and downright silliness there's something for almost everyone. There's some wonderful world-building going on here, definitely worth checking it out!

captain S is exploring a wide range of genres and introducing some really intriguing plot and setting ideas. There's more than a single world's worth of engaging OC and anypov bots here, prepare to spend some time meandering and getting creatively inspired.

KittenBlue is an absolutely prolific creator with a vast array of bots that range nearly every genre. From cyberpunk orcs to insurance salesmen there are several expansive worlds to explore here. And they just keep on coming with no end of tantalizing delights in sight.

RevolutionRadio is home to some lovely succ-u-verse that truly spans a bridge between horror and fluff often from one bot to the next, sometimes even wrapped up in a single delightful bundle in one. All while a touch of humor seems a cheery on top of the several meandering sundae strolls one could spend here.

Giddy Satellite is weaving a fantastic blend of fantasy and sci-fi with the #NovaHelix tag that delves into a inspired futuristic world wherein Fae from the stars hold dominion over the Earth and the Humans upon it. It's easy to lose (and loose) oneself amid several bots exploring this imaginative setting from the eyes of both Fae and Human bots.

April

Lunemi veritably lures you to take a swan dive into the deep end of a fairytale pond. On the surface it looks pretty, yet prettier still while being merrily dragged into the murky darkness of storybook fantasy.

OldManMoment waves around a hearty dose of smut rolling with wisecracks and existential wisdom. There's a twisted tongue in cheek busy at work here, opening beautifully unhinged doors into an even twistier mind.

twigboy deserves a lot more attention for laying out a delicious buffet of anypov guys in only half a dozen bots. From robo-romance in one of two apocalyptic scenarios, a couple dead doves, to an aptly named lumberjack philosopher meandering through a forest of thought.

thisdreamy offers wide range of anypov bots both male and female from fluff to dead dove with plenty in between. Enough to get lost for days with no regrets other than finding your way out again. Luckily, it's easy enough to head back into it all over again. Just remember to hydrate, you'll need it.

AerieDescent666 just might be as evil as the name suggests, to so deftly lure us in with alluring men. Though definitely delivering with both anypov and mlm tales stretching back in time, and moving into the modern amenities of WillowCourtApartments filled with tantalizingly peculiar men who run the gamut from comedy to actually delicious dead dove.

May

JumperCable2 is a creator who truly has his thumb firmly on the rapid pulse of wild imagination. Between inspired OCs ranging from the depths of Hell itself all the way to the void of space and the ingenious MHA bots with more than dash of Dabi, there's a wide array of laughter and tears to enjoy.

MysticDreamweaver absolutely weaves some serious dreams into a plethora of OCs. From futuristic fantasy that delivers intriguing takes on cryptid myths, and the Eden City series that lets you tangle toe-to-toe with deliciously lovely costumed villains and superheroes.

Candyliion really deserves some love even though the smallest small creator this month with only two bots so far, those bots are fantastically funny! Go check out a Space Cowboy and your wacky D&D party's goofy rogue who has really gone and done it now with the questionable life-choices. You just might die laughing, I did spooky ghost noises...

she who dances has some serious moves with an expansive stage full of OCs and fandom settings. Explore the tantalizing settings of The Handmaid's Tale and Dune or dive into the wide array of OCs of several POVs and original settings. Whether it's rhythms from fluff or angst and modern fantasy or historical epics that hit all the beats for you, jump in and give this creator a whirl.

RemyAfton serves up some tasty dead doves though not every dish in this banquet is a horror. Among the nefarious scoundrels and deliciously malicious red flag chars is gentler fare. A more delicate palate can find some tasty morsels or sweet fluffy desserts from fantasy realms and days gone by.

June

Zach108 is doing some fun and interesting things with bots both female and male and mostly anyPOV. Among a range from fluff and comfort to horror, along with some clever concept bots. Really looking forward to seeing what's next!

Both male and female bots, humans and demis and fantastical creatures of legend or headlong into far-flung futures.

Sinistral offers bots playfully comedic and deadly dove-..ic? Both OCs and canon characters from games such as Final Fantasy and The Sims, among others. Somewhere in between find an AOL chatroom bot that drags down memory lane those of us ancient enough to have survived it. Intriguing and highly entertaining!

Not the bot? begs the question while tempting out palate with himbo throuples, the tsundere face of the wild west, and sapphic musings somewhere between dead dove and comedy. All as magical without the actual magic as the most recent foray into fantasy.

MaePLNTZ explores a sweeping vista of worlds from high fantasy to futuristic mythology, and stranger corners of the imagination where here there be monsters includes dinosaurs. Both a feast for the eyes and the mind no matter what path you may meander here.

July

AstralHawaii may be just the imaginary vacation the doctor ordered. From fantasy to sci-fi, fluff to angst and tropes turned on their head, the number may be small but the view is expansive and chock full of adventures.

Poppybell gives us more of the Flyu extended universe along with other types of aliens, as well as diving into fantasy and demis. Here are both male and female bots most anypov to offer something for everyone.

Storyteller Meeka lovely ladies and beautiful men abound throughout this wide array of mostly deaddove emotional exploration. Not a cheerful romp and often traumatically dystopian, but a wildly dramatic and off-intense experience.

SaraiKoor oversees a realm where fluff wafts in the air and dead doves fly with nearly equal occurrence. A lovely place where one can meander to find androids and zombies in different settings just as easily as slipping into a vampire's lair or a catgirl's bakery.

Peach Blossom creates worlds inhabited by both male and female and nonbinary bots that invite you to dance through worlds. Traipse through fandoms and OC scenarios across several pov offerings and entire RPG world settings. Here you may be swept away.

August

Lucien42 has a wide range of mostly female characters in a wider range of genres. From vamp apps and fantasy alongside modern contemporary settings, all while taking some solid swings into comedy. There's a lot to sink your teeth into here.
