

Mammoth on the run

Once upon a time there was a man who lived in Alaska. His name was Alex and he lived down the road from this park but no one goes there anymore since it was a really cold day and the park froze. One day alex decided to go there but he had to wait for tomorrow but he got ready put his clothes on the desk and boots on the floor.

Alex put on a warm jacket a beany and gumboots and a extra layer just in case and then he took off. "Brr It is really cold" Alex told himself As he walk down the street he finally made it up to the park gate. He strolled through the lonely park when all of a sudden he saw he biggest thing he has ever seen a great big mammoth stuck in the ice.

Alex ran back home he was thinking about if he should tell someone or if he should act like it never happened. Alex chose to act like it never happened he went back the next day and it was still there but he brought a hair dryer and started to blow the ice. It started to melt the ice and by the end of the day the leg was out. He could hear the mammoth growling so eager to get out . He went back and forth each day and then one day the ice was starting to crack and the mammoth came out.

He slept there for a couple of days then he heard people talking and smelt someone's nice morning pie and the mammoth suddenly went wild he ran out of the park and he crushed anything in his way. Alex tried to stop him but Alex was way too small so he went to warn the people in the world's slowest car I don't know why I chose this car but at least I got there in time. I just ran up the tallest tower to the mayor of this town told him there was a mammoth on the loose. He was like to me stop being ridiculous they're extinct but then all of a sudden the mammoth was in sight then the mayor believed me and put the warning siren on. Everyone hid I tried to get the mammoth back to the park but I didn't know how.

Then I thought of something I could get its favourite food and lay it down but the mayor said. "No it is way too dangerous". Alex still did it.. I thought and thought and thought again but I couldn't get it. What would a mammoth want to eat? I have an idea what about the big juicy leaves that fall off the big tree into my garden. And so Alex ran back home and got 10 of the biggest branches and went to the park where the mammoth was Alex got the branches and climbed on the ice and waved it in the air the mammoth saw it and turned around and came back.

From now on the mammoth got the park to itself and we can come visit and see it but we also built a big wall so it can not go on another rampage, and we found out that in the ice was another mammoth so we got it out of the ice but this time Alex had help getting it out of the ice. A few months later the little town was all rebuilt and everyone could feed it some big leaves and some grass and the mammoth and the little town lived safely and happily ever after.