

Hello 8th graders! My name is Al Lasch. I graduated from Monroeville High School, which is located south of Sandusky and in between Norwalk and Bellevue. I am entering my 17th year as an Intervention Specialist all with Sandusky City Schools. I did not start college right away, but I did work in construction and factory work for many years before I decided to go to college to become a teacher. I recently came from the Intermediate building, so you may remember me from your grade school years. I was the coordinator for the Open Doors Academy After School Program the last 3 years at the Intermediate building and it is still continuing under new leadership this year.

When I'm not teaching or at school, I enjoy spending time with my family and friends. I have a wife (Andrea), a son who is in 6th grade (Anthony), and a dog (Maximus). I also enjoy watching my favorite sports teams on T.V. or going to their games. I follow the Pittsburgh Steelers, Penn State Nittany Lions, New York Mets, and the New York Rangers. I also follow the Sandusky Blue Streaks, Edison Chargers, and the Monroeville Eagles in their sports. I have also coached football, basketball, and baseball in years past, and now help out with my son's teams when I can. He plays golf, basketball, and soccer at this time.

I only have a few rules in my class. 1. Be respectful to me, staff, other teachers, and your fellow classmates. 2. Be responsible in all tasks given, and 3. Have fun, relax, work hard, and ask for help when you need it! Let's have a great year, I'm looking forward to working with all of you this year and preparing you for high school. Go Streaks!
