

🐉 If you could pick a location, where would your GnS character(s) choose to live?

Azha: Azha is a nomad, so they'd likely move around. The Western Trail would catch their attention as a botanist and mycologist. They'd ultimately end up being based in Salvia—using the constellations to wander and seek out new knowledge.

Beau: Initially, he'd live in Delphine and thrive on the vibrancy and excitement. However while outgoing and lively, he's actually rather solitary and he'd move on after getting burnt out on the crowds. Traipsing around Hyemale with his leafree guardians Belle and Bête would be best for him!

Camry: On the edge of the Blooming Fields, close enough to visit the city on foot—or floating, since they're a guide. They're rather mischievous, so playing with people in the peaceful yet maze-like fields seems like a good time to them. Whether it'd be a good time for others is debatable.

Dio: Flamola, on Phlox. He's sure to be intrigued when he hears about its labyrinth of fantasy, as well as the general culture revolving around dreams and illusions on the Fleet of Dreams. Well worth studying and manipulating for his own purposes, in fact.

Leilani: Sky High Coast! She's a beach gal through and through. She'd also take secret comfort in the fact that it's similar to her original home over in Paradise Oasis. Just with more... suspension.

Nagi: Nagi would find a home on the edge of Cereus, overlooking Rosa's Sakura Seas. He has no real interest in the occult ongoing in Thanatos, would likely be uncomfortable with them due to his history, but he'd appreciate rural Cereus' unique sights and the overall quiet.

🐉 Where would your non legendary GnS character(s) like to visit the most?

Azha: Any place with plants to study is fine. Preferably with as few legendaries as possible.

Beau: Beau wants to see everything, but the concept of the Hyemale Sea, an ocean in the sky, intrigues him the most!

Camry: The Rainbow Rapids Amusement Park! There's nothing quite like an amusement park date, who will be generous and share theirs with Camry? 😊

Dio: Dio wouldn't go out of his way to visit anywhere. He'd be pleased enough with Calathea City and a captive audience of guardians who love the living.

Leilani: Hyemale might be enough for her. She'd get pretty overwhelmed at the scale of the legendary isle, so starting her off with something similar to the isles below would be best.

Nagi: Flamola's Poppy, he'd like to see the fishpond. (Another hobby in the making?)

🔗 Would your non legendary GnS character(s) visit the legendary isle at all?

Azha: Azha has mixed feelings about this new portal development. On the one hand, after seeing them for years it's satisfying to have the reality of the shades confirmed. (Not that they ever personally doubted their sanity.) On the other hand, they've felt (one-sidedly) tormented by the shades for so long and have spent such a long time ignoring them or treating them with scorn that it's difficult to do otherwise. Still, their intellectual curiosity will nag at them to study the isle's fungi, so perhaps they'd end up visiting but in a tsundere way.

Beau: He's pretty isolated so it'd really depend on the news of the portal reaching his non-existent ears, but if it did and he had the opportunity? Absolutely.

Camry: Who knows? They wouldn't make an effort for it but I doubt they'd turn down the opportunity either.

Dio: He's very intrigued indeed. An entire isle of individuals who have reached the peak of hopelessness and ascended past it? It's wonderful.

Leilani: For sure! She'd love to hit some cosmic waves and experience some 😊 legendary rebounds (bad.)

Nagi: He doesn't really feel the desire to since he has everything he needs on the isle of guide and seek. However, the likelihood of his bondmate Aspen wanting to check out the legendary isle's flora is high and Nagi would follow him anywhere.

🔗 Please write a thank you letter to Don Rocko for making the legendary portal real.

Beau wrote this. Well, technically he dictated it to Belle who wrote it down because he's illiterate. Do you know how hard it is to write with wings...?

Hey Don Roc,
You don't really rock.
In fact you smell,
But this is pretty swell.

Almost makes up for the fact that,
Underneath your hat,

[Belle, what rhymes with bald? Called? Ehh...]

The facts are called:

You are super bald.

There's lots of stuff to see,

Including a whole new sea.

But the best thing will be,

It's Don Rocko free!!

So bye-bye,

'Cause I'm gonna be the first mortal,

To head through that portal!
