Using Reusable Food Wares

One thing that cannot be separated from our lives is food. We need to eat and consume food to regain energy for our activities. Several people have time to cook and serve food by themselves, while others can by food to be served in their dining tables. When people tend to by food from food stalls or restaurants, they have to use plastics as the food wrapping. Can you imagine how many plastics used in a day just for food wrapping?

Wrapping food using plastics can affect our environment, because those plastics are not reusable or only being used once. When plastics are burned after being used, whether to produce electric supply or to eliminate them, the residues are dangerous. The ash from the burning is poisonous to the water and the soil. The fog and smog from burning process contain metal polluting the air and it is dangerous to breathe in

Then, plastics are made of chemicals. Plastics used for storing or wrapping food should be food friendly which are made for the purpose. These kinds of plastics are not dangerous for the food inside of them when they get heated. For example, when you want to buy gravy food to take away, which is fresh from the pan, the seller will wrap it using plastic. However, are you sure that the plastic is safe to be used at high temperature? How about being used at low temperature such as for iced tea?

For those reasons, we should consider to use reusable food wares. We can start using our own bottles for our favorite beverages and consider to use stainless or glass straws, instead of plastic ones. Drug users are actually ill people who need to be helped. Rehabilitation is one of the main things that they should get. Instead of punishing and stacking them in prisons which are getting full, the government should provide rehabilitation for them.

Most users are actually victims of persuasive peddlers and they suffer from consuming the drugs. Therefore, by rehabilitating them, we are actually helping them out of a trap, which they might accidentally step on. They then, can start a normal life again. On the other hand, if we only arrest drug users and send them to jail it doesn't solve the problem because the drug users will still be addicts unless being properly treated. Jails will be filled up with drug users. Moreover, the users will still be users after released from prison. They then, will be arrested again.

By providing rehabilitating program for drug users and forcing them to participate on the program is way better than only arresting them and do nothing on their illness. Moreover, the prison will not be so full and packed up with users. Only drug dealers, traffickers, and wholesalers should be imprisoned instead.
