Privacy Policy — Anywhere

Last updated: April 2026

Anywhere browser extension does not collect, store, or transmit any personal data. The extension only activates when explicitly triggered by the user through the Anywhere web app. It interacts solely with Google Maps to assist the user in saving places to their personal Google Maps lists.

No browsing history, personal information, authentication data, or website content is collected, stored, or shared with any third party.