From Mom:

The important thing about Emma is her bravery.
She sleeps with a nightlight, but she likes her door closed all the way.
She loves to sleep in nest beds and to snuggle under lots of blankets.
Her brown eyes are full of emotion.
But the important thing about Emma is her bravery.

The important thing about Emma is her hugs.
She loves to read all kinds of books.
She draws beautiful pictures of her friends and teachers.
She is the oldest child in our family.
But the important thing about Emma is her hugs.

The important thing about Emma is that she's the only Emma Kathryn Faulhaber in the whole wide world.
She loves pizza and chicken nuggets.
She rides her bike as fast as the wind and wrestles with her brothers.
She loves to win at board games and is a grump in the morning.
But the important thing about Emma is that she's the only Emma Kathryn Faulhaber in the whole wide world.

From Dad:

Okay, Em, it's time for a pop quiz in front of your whole class!

1. Who is older, you or Jacob? (Answer: Emma, by two minutes)
2. What is your favorite food to eat with Mom when I take the boys to a baseball game? (Answer: reese's PB cups)
3. At bedtime, what's the last thing we say? (Answer: I love you)
4. What is my favorite sound in the whole wide world? (Emma singing)

Have a wonderful day! Love, Dad
