

Privacy Policy for Automated Replies Tool

Effective Date: December, 2025

1. Introduction

Automated Replies Tool ("we," "us," or "our") respects your privacy. This Privacy Policy explains how we collect, use, and safeguard your information when you use our Chrome Extension.

2. Information We Collect

To provide our services, we process the following data:

- * Website Content: When you choose to generate a reply or use session mode, we access and process the text content of the tweets visible on your screen. This is necessary to generate context-aware AI replies.
- * Authentication Information: We collect and store your API Key locally to authenticate your access to our AI generation services.
- * Usage Data & Settings: We store your preferences (such as reply styles, auto-like configurations, and session lists) locally in your browser's storage.

3. How We Use Your Information

- * AI Generation: The text of tweets you select is transmitted securely via HTTPS to our external server solely for the purpose of generating an intelligent response. This data is not stored permanently on our servers.
- * Service Functionality: Your API Key is used to verify your subscription status and credit balance.
- * Local Storage: Your settings are stored locally on your device to improve user experience.

4. Data Sharing and Disclosure

We do not sell, trade, or rent your personal identification information to others. Tweet content is shared with our backend system strictly for processing the requested service (reply generation).

5. Data Security

We implement appropriate security measures to protect your data. Communication between the extension and our server is encrypted using SSL/TLS technology. Your API keys are stored locally within your Chrome browser environment.
