

Laws:-

Laws are the most essential connections and rules between things in a certain field. They are not subject to any will in the field. They are the embodiment of the highest wisdom in the field, supporting the stable existence of things in the field and affecting the changes and development of all things in the field.

universal law

The law of the universe is the most essential connection and law between all things in the universe, and it is not subject to the will of any creature in the universe. The law of the universe contains the wisdom of the entire universe, supports the stable existence of things in the universe, and affects the changes and development of all things in the universe to a certain extent. The law of the universe can be regarded as the supreme will in the universe. In order to maintain the balance and stable development of the universe, it will exclude or be friendly to some things, magnify or reduce them according to its own characteristics, and then create or destroy certain things.

energy core

The energy core is the foundation of all cultivation in the Douluo Universe. The level upgrades of planes, creatures, and objects all revolve around a certain energy core. Generally speaking, the stronger the energy core a person possesses, the greater his cultivation potential and the faster his level upgrades.

The energy core of a plane is often a certain element. For example, stars have the fire element as their core, resources have the gold element as their core or one of their cores, and the energy core of a higher planet that breeds intelligent life is the life element. The energy cores of creatures and objects have different properties, and the corresponding cultivation methods are also different, such as the martial spirit of humans, the dragon cat of the dragon clan, and the source core of soul guides.

Core of Life

The life core is an energy core that can generate life energy and breed life. It can also absorb the huge life energy of other planes, and output it to the plane after transformation, to enhance the energy of the plane and help the plane evolve. Generally speaking, only advanced planets that breed intelligent life have life cores. For example, the Golden Ancient Tree is the life core of Douluo Star, Long Tianyang is the life core of Longma Galaxy, and Shuzu is the life core of Falan Star. However, the Abyss Plane and Crimson Domain do not have life cores.

Time and space turbulence

Space-time turbulence is a powerful and mysterious cosmic phenomenon. When the various planes in the universe rub and collide, parallel spaces collide with each other, and high-dimensional spaces are destroyed, a special energy that affects time and space will be generated. This energy will either dissipate on its own or merge and grow, and can have a powerful destructive force on non-physical planes, sweeping them away or even destroying them.

Planes:-

A plane refers to a relatively independent space, which is similar to the concept of "world". The level of a plane is related to the total energy of the plane. After the plane is born, it will face a variety of situations. Some will die over time, while others will give birth to life and wisdom, form plane laws, and affect the evolution of the plane to a higher dimension.

From the perspective of the plane's existence form and structural dimension, the plane can be divided into physical plane and energy plane.

The physical plane has clear edges, and the plane energy is relatively stable and can resist many cosmic disasters; the life forms in the plane are independent and autonomous, and may transcend the laws of the plane; the plane can produce or accept physical objects, and the plane master of the plane may exist in a more abstract or immaterial form. Planets, the undead demiplane, and the demon plane belong to the physical plane.

"The energy plane is also known as the non-physical plane. It is the opposite of the physical plane. Its edges are virtual and the plane energy is not controlled. They are considered part of the plane master. The objects and fields in the plane are composed of energy. The plane is stable and easily affected by cosmic disasters. It is almost impossible for the life forms in the plane to transcend the plane master. The master of the plane often has a physical entity. The God Realm, Dragon Realm, Abyss Plane, and Crimson Realm belong to the energy plane.

From the perspective of the diversity and independence of life within the plane, the plane can be divided into the main plane and the demiplane. The main plane is often formed by the splitting of cosmic energy, and has complete natural laws and rich ecosystems. Life forms in the main plane survive and evolve according to their natural laws, and have a certain degree of independence and autonomy. The main plane can be a continent, a planet or a galaxy, where various species thrive. The divine world, planets, and demon planes belong to the main plane.

Demiplanes, also known as small planes, are often created by some powerful force. They have measurable size and limited access. The internal ecology is single or cannot breed life, and the internal life forms are controlled by the creator. Demiplanes usually need to rely on the main plane to exist, and are sometimes regarded as extensions or branches of the main plane, used for refuge, high-speed movement and tactical attacks, etc. The Dragon Realm, the Undead

Demiplane, the Seven Sacred Abysses, the Abyss Plane, and the Crimson Realm are all demiplanes.

Plane Laws

The plane law is the most essential connection and law between things in the plane, and it is not subject to the will of any creature in the plane. The plane law contains the wisdom of the entire plane, supports the stable existence of things in the plane, and affects the changes and development of all things in the plane.

Lord of the planes

The Plane Lord is the ruler of the plane. Each plane has its own Plane Lord. By controlling the energy core of the plane, that is, the plane core, he controls everything in the plane and can even make the entire plane self-destruct. Different planes have different forms of existence of their Plane Lords. It can be a certain energy or an independent entity. For example: in the high-tech era, the Plane Lord of Douluo Star is Tang Wu, the Plane Lord of the Abyss Plane is the Abyss Saint, and the Plane Lord of the Ten Thousand Beast Platform is Daming and Erming.

God Realm Center

The God Realm Center is the core of the God Realm. In a narrow sense, it refers to the vehicle through which the rulers of the God Realm remotely control the operation of the God Realm. In a broad sense, it refers to the palace where the vehicle is located, which is also the location of the God Realm Committee.

The God Realm Hub will not be used easily. It requires members of the God Realm Committee to integrate the Law Enforcer Badge into the God Realm Middle Frame Key (the golden key in the shape of an octagonal star) before it can be activated. It allows them to communicate with gods in any corner of the divine world, only the holder of the Law Enforcer Badge can short-sightedly block the control of the divine world center.

"The headquarters of the god realm is magnificent. The main hall is octagonal, with a round table in the center. The surrounding walls are undecorated, but a light curtain with countless scenes of a certain star field flashing on it. The members of the God Realm Committee can monitor every corner of every planet in a certain star city through the light curtains on the wall.

GODS:-

Gods refers to pure and immortal creatures whose strength is equal to the elements of heaven and earth. They are divided into two categories: creatures born in the realm of gods, and those who cultivate to become gods. Gods often have halos behind their heads to prove their identity, that is, divine rings. Gods from different realms and different positions have divine rings of different colors. For example, in the Douluo God Realm, the divine rings of level 1 gods have five absolute rings, the divine rings of first-level gods have seven rings, the divine rings of god kings have nine rings, and the colors of gods and spirits are all gradients of the original colors of the gods. The further inward, the lighter the color. The divine ring of the Supreme God King is a nine-color halo.

Creatures born in the divine world have the right to live there permanently, but they may not have a divine position.

Those who cultivate to become gods in the subordinate planes must rely on their own understanding of the great way of heaven and earth, obtain a certain position in the divine world according to their ability attributes and cultivation level, and then arrive at the divine world with the light of guidance, obtain permanent residence in the divine world, and become immortal and indestructible under the nourishment of the immortal spirit. When a god passes on his position to others, he loses the power given by the position, but his own attributes as a god remain unchanged, and it does not affect his continued life in the divine world.

A god-level strongman is not a real god. When a god-level strongman cannot obtain the status of a god because his plane has no protection from the gods, he can only stay in his original plane and cannot enter the gods' realm to become a real, immortal god.

God's throne

The throne of God, also known as the seat of God, is the position of God in the God world. It is also the coordinate of the God world's ability to control the five-dimensional space, which can give God the power to control specific areas.

The godly position will affect the character of the god to a certain extent. For example, when Tang San uses the Sea God position, he gives people a sense of moderation and peace, while when he uses the Asura God position, he will be affected by a strong murderous intent, and thus fight more calmly.

Authority

Authority is the power and strength given to a deity by a certain deity to control a specific area. There are two known types of authority: breeding authority and cosmic origin authority.

Authority in the Divine Realm

Control the power of water, fire, earth, wind, light, brown sugar, space and other elements in the divine world and its lower planes. For example, the authority of the sea god controls the water element. The authority of the fire god controls the fire element.

The original authority of the universe:-

The power that controls the origin of the universe is not restricted by the space of the divine world and can be used throughout the entire universe. Only gods who have reached the level of divine king can control the authority of the origin of the universe.

Artifact

In a broad sense, it refers to weapons used by gods/god-resistors. Their quality is divided into four levels from high to low: super artifacts, pseudo-super artifacts, artifacts, and quasi-artifacts. In a narrow sense, it refers to weapons between the two levels of pseudo-super artifacts and quasi-artifacts.

The quality of divine weapons is divided into three levels: low-quality divine weapons, medium-quality divine weapons, and high-quality divine weapons. The quality of divine weapons affects the strength of the gods, and at the same time, divine weapons can also evolve due to the nurturing of the gods' cultivation. Divine weapons can also be used to demonstrate and enhance the authority of the gods.