

Name: Towai

Species: Dark Spirit

Age: 5000 (in human years)

Gender: Male

Height: 6'3" feet or 190'5cm

Personality: Compared with Twill, Towai is quite cocky and confident of himself. He likes to show off and make fun of others, but deep inside, he cares deeply for his friends, especially Twill. Of course, he also will never miss a chance for... personal experiences with others, if the opportunity rises

Backstory: Originally, Towai was the Law of Darkness: a very powerful entity capable of manipulating darkness to his will, meaning that he could also corrupt others with it. His age of power would soon end when a hero defeated him and sealed Towai in the green stone Twill has on his chest. The stone remained sealed away for years until Twill accidentally found the box and opened it, allowing Towai to permanently fuse himself with Twill and live in his body with Twill as his host. At the start of their days together, Towai was always in control, trying to regain his lost power, but after Twill gave him the classic emotional talk, Towai decided to give the "good guy role" a chance. As they progressed through Twill's journey, they grew more and more attached to each other...

Powers:

- Scythe of Corruption: Towai's main and signature weapon. Despite what the name suggests, it's simply a scythe made of darkness, although enemies shall beware of him, since his battle skills shall not be underestimated
- Enshrouded with Darkness: Cool evasion name :p
- The Nightmare Shall Begin Once More: Towai executes a domain expansion. Anyone who is caught in a 50 meter radius will get transported (not literally) into an empty, infinite void where Towai's strength, resistance and stamina is doubled. This can last up to 15 minutes, after which the void will disappear and put Towai in an exhausted state, forcing him to put Twill back in control