

Guesses so far...please add yours!

base of a tea pot or tea cup
nice letter L with flower... like a dropcap.
Could we be making a sleigh?
"Panic Pete," the squeeze toy whose eyes and ears bulge out when you squeeze his body. Here is a link to a picture of "Panic Pete."
Dachshund. Those two remaining picots on the round bit will be used to join the long part of the face.
Gingerbread boy. The picots on the round part will be for a lopsided hat.
Something with pointy ears on top-- either Hello Kitty or Batman (with a flower in his hair?).
Holly leaf with berry. Additional leaves to be joined to those two pesky picots.
I see a tatted flower ribbon. Imagine a pretty satin bow. The flower replaces the bow and the piece we are working on now will be one of the hanging ribbon strips. We will make another ribbon strip that mirrors this one. The motif can be centered and attached to the front of a blouse or tee shirt.
Is that an elbow?
It now looks like a ship.
I'm wondering if it's the front end of something with a wheel...
maybe a little piggie? The initial motif could be the head, the first curley-q the tail, and the second the hind legs?
perhaps a basket for a hot air balloon or an outline for a sweet little photo frame?
It looks like it could be flowers in a vase except there's no picot to join the rest of the vase later.
It looks like Paisley to me now
Maybe a birdwing?
My latest guess is an ostrich

gourd

Lavern's fancy letter
She wore on her sweater.
Yes, that I can see
A unicyclist it might be
Or a bike fallen over is a possibility
A dog with a flower upon his head
Is what another tatter said
All good guesses that is true...
But we will see something new
As Sherry adds each another clue

a bride with a flower bouquet. So far we did the bottom of the dress and flowers

Could it be the tail of a bird?

The Little Engine That Could

easy chair with a big cushion at the foot, I thought it might be one leg of a pair of trousers, When I first tatted Day 7, I thought it might be a cannon with a flower on the back end (hmm... the two ideas don't go together). But then I thought it made more sense as the top part of a ballgown

maybe a tractor?

It looks like a slipper to me.

I can see a poodle dog's head or maybe a bell.
