

1. Overpopulation and wanting access to forever growing bamboo made Persians go Southeast Asia to maintain, control and harness agriculture to use and trade.
2. North America frequency makes fun of anyone below a certain skin tone.
3. Fin.

So living in North America is a circus. Whites vs Chinese vs Muslims in the World.

You have to stop going on the Internet with North American perspectives and focus on the pure education one if you are not White. If you do, you always win. Win something. Better to have the dream of yours done because that is the least thing that is worthwhile.

The people saying negative things are one way and you are just another.

But born in Canada, everyone is a First Peoples and the only way of preventing isolation in the forest is grouping up doing education and some kind of work that is good.

But according to another angle from Persians and Northern Chinese, Vietnamese are the Dalit of the Dalits. Their sleazy uncle made them or their dad/grandfather did and they had to move east from Persia. I think I understand sleazy ... I am a product of it.

The Chinese just moved down again to re-obtain access to the rice and fish. Maintain the channel.

So if I don't have my mother and father who are immigrant refugees in my life I can not fight for myself because out of the womb I am a First People who is invisible, dark, and ugly who happens to be here to work the jobs in the dark and margins because even working in supermarkets they don't want you because you are not the race fighting to make surplus and control North America against the unlimited issues immigrants and beyond.

So the thing is that I finally achieved balance. I studied enough computer science to build from dual identities (First Peoples) and (full South Vietnamese).

That is the trick. The culture you build is based on the logic of logics = computer science to build from a scattered mess of emotions.
