

l3irdie Today at 7:26 PM

Not here to start a coo

But, anyone wanna talk about the fact that they removed xSpirit's thread that linked suicide helplines
And furthermore, when concerned users point it out- they're suddenly hidden.

A dear friend of mine who was upset over this fact asked an innocent question as to where it went and it was removed

There was once a thread here

Point being.

I love censorship and pettiness is continuing, I'm perhaps no better bringing this to light but I'm genuinely annoyed that they're blocking mental health resources. 🙄

Jace||LaughingWolf Today at 7:33 PM

Pretending something doesn't exist doesn't make the problem go away, it tends to exacerbate the problem instead..

l3irdie Today at 7:33 PM

I'm just beyond upset because this is all done out of pure spite and to be petty.

I'm just beyond upset because this is all done out of pure spite and to be petty. It reflects poorly on staff that they'd hide these resources and any threads asking why. Like really? Are you really going to stoop to this level because you just happen to dislike someone?

 Jace||LaughingWolf Today at 7:35 PM
Agree. It's only going to serve to drive people away from the server..

 l3irdie Today at 7:39 PM
This was said thread that was removed. as you can tell, it was very innocent and just wanted to know what happened

 Jace||LaughingWolf Today at 7:42 PM
They treat it like the "why was I banned" threads and that's just not fair. It's not the same situation.
(edited)
I'm 99% sure it was xSpirit's thread btw

 l3irdie Today at 7:44 PM
Yep
That's why they're being spiteful. Because someone they dislike made it

Helpline thread?
« on: Today at 04:05:24 pm » Quote

I know its a little weird to ask about but a while back around Christmas somebody (they had an x or w or something in their name but I don't remember the rest) had posted a thread of helpline stuff for the holidays that I had bookmarked because well, I saw it here, of all places, and I know I could have found the same somewhere else but this was the first place I saw it and saved it in case of hitting a really bad mental spot or any of my friends over FH and games needing it, but now it seems like it got deleted? Did the person who posted it remove it or did it get taken down? I get helplines being a touchy subject but there wouldn't be any reason to remove a helpful thread

Yep

Jace||LaughingWolf Today at 7:44 PM

Sure as hell seems that way to me but that's why I'm moving to fhU

I3irdie Today at 7:45 PM

god same

I'm just infuriated

I shouldn't be, but I am

Jace||LaughingWolf Today at 7:46 PM

I wonder if someone else posted the info, whether it would be deleted too.

50% chance

Yes, bc fresh delete/drama; no bc good info

I3irdie Today at 7:47 PM

i'm debating on making a master list of mental health resources in absence of that one but i dont want to stoop to that level. instead i may make a thread asking what's up, and if that's removed my point's proved further

Jace||LaughingWolf Today at 7:48 PM

Same but I doubt little butt would stay asleep that long. Lol (for the research)

Let's have a talk about censorship

I hope to at the very least get some clarity

why are we like this

Laarikin Today at 8:40 PM

Imao oh on Calvary's old thread against X's kofi link Sura said this, so I'm like 90% sure someone will respond with the same thing

If you have a question why the iSpill links were censored that's because Razrict censored them days ago. Since this is his site and his server he will do whatever he wants with it as it is within his right to. Users of this website (you, staff etc) agreed to his terms and conditions. Raz reserves the right to make whatever changes he sees fit. If users don't like these changes they're free to respectfully voice their opinion but that doesn't mean he's going to listen or change things. If users continue to find their experience here less enjoyable or harrassed by these word changes they're free to stop using the service.
staff don't control this.

idk man, it's a very tempting thing to ruin lol

CALVARY Today at 8:41 PM

i am 100% certain that will be the response

Laarikin Today at 8:41 PM

Ye

ClarettaVerus Today at 8:41 PM

It's like a giant red button saying "DO NOT PUSH" just instinct to respond and push

Laarikin Today at 8:43 PM

It's at times like these I can't wait for FHU, not because of the links alone, but because of the unnecessary censorship and silencing of people. Startin to feel like a dictatorship up in her lmao (not really just exaggerating)

l3irdie Today at 8:43 PM

If my thread is locked or hidden my perceived assumptions would of been therefore confirmed

Laarikin Today at 8:43 PM

I mean Cal's thread was locked after Sura responded so there's a good chance but hell if I know

ClarettaVerus Today at 8:43 PM

It's at times like these I can't wait for FHU, not because of the links alone, but because of the unnecessary censorship and silencing of people. Startin to feel like a dictatorship up in her lmao (not really just exaggerating)

@Laarikin ^ 🙄

CALVARY Today at 8:44 PM

Censorship has become a recent problem and them locking my original thread was no surprise to me, not just because it didn't need to be locked, but because I'm tired of the pointing fingers bullshit.

One day it's Raz's fault, the next day it's community's fault, it's always someone else's fault and I'm tired of that shit, pardon my language.

Astralskye 🌟 Today at 8:45 PM

Ironic how things like that are dismissed. "Oh this is raz's server he can do whatever he wants." Suppose it explains the integrity of the staff (not that anyone but raz can "fix" that), but still.

Laarikan Today at 8:47 PM

Plus this game also carries the burden of being beneath the staff and the owner, it feels like we have little voice in what happens with the community or game, staff are scary to most people because they have a bad rep when it comes to punishment and they continue to dodge around stuff when people ask about "what's next?" just sad is all

Nothin' much to do tho

CALVARY Today at 8:53 PM

It is also wonderful to know that someone in this server is sharing messages directly to FH Administration in order to target particular community members in an escapade to slant a topic of genuine concern.

Astralskye ✨ Today at 8:54 PM

CALVARY Today at 8:54 PM

And how the FH administration underwent an entire IP search to further target individual members of the community on a topic that was genuinely something of concern.

That truly amazes me.

Astralskye ✨ Today at 8:55 PM

Calvary's correct, she's not me. She's an alt account of my real life friend and the only possible reason our IP addresses are linked is because we hang out in real life. She is someone who herself struggles with depression and is very compassionate, she just wanted to know where it went. But instead it was removed suddenly, and I was just a bit upset by that because it meant and intended no harm. But I love that you're painting this narrative that I did this on an alternative account just because we happen to be in the same IP range/address. Very cool.

But I'm not lying and it is not my false that I've come to this conclusion and firstly, I'm pretty annoyed you're using my status as a former MOTS and community member against me when I just wanted this to cleared up, I had no intention of ruffling feathers and/or starting drama. I just would've appreciated a simple clarification. Instead of politely clearing it up, you've found some way you've chosen to try and slander me. Publically no less, very mature. Do you feel big and proud of yourself? I'm sorry for getting cocky because I am, but the way in which you're doing this is even more explosive and unprofessional I asked a mere question.

A new thread shouldn't "have" to be made if one was already created.

Also, since when has having multiple accounts been a bannable offense? May want to update your rules there, hun.

Walk on the Wild Side 🌙

Let's have a talk about censorship

< on: Yesterday at 11:58:03 pm >

I know I said I'd leave forever and I will after this, but I just have a few thoughts and a question. I don't have any intention to start "drama" or to make anyone look bad, the only thing I wish to gain from this clarity because I've got emotions over this.

So... what's up with continued censorship and hiding a thread asking where the mental health resources went? xSpirit made it around Christmas with completely innocent and good intentions, it was just to lend a helping hand to the greater comm show that know, staff cared about users and their wellbeing. But it was suddenly removed from what I assume is because there are grievances between flu's team and yours. And I just want to say that, if that is so, that isn't really okay nor a valid reason to remove a helpful resource and something that gene well. Because it just appears to be done out of spite to me. I'm just frustrated that this happened and that certain threads or things are censored, hidden or removed. Especially things that are made with good intentions.

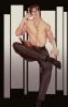

I apologize in advance if this ruffles any feathers, but I'm just seeking answers and reasoning for these things. I sincerely hope this isn't treated the same way as you treated the two threads I mentioned or is locked, because my frustrations and a would be solidified.

That said, probably my last thread (i hope)
Here's the national suicide helpline in the US: 1-800-273-8255
As well as some international resources for Europe; https://www.iasp.info/resources/Crisis\_Centres/Europe/

I could've sworn I brought this up before but in relation to something different. <https://feral-heart.com/smf/index.php?topic=68253.0>

If anyone remembers that thread. The only reason threads like that should be hidden is if it involves something against the rules, which asking a question about where a certain board/topic has gone isn't against the rules, so I'm not sure why it was even removed or hidden in the first place, which simply makes this whole ordeal more of a direct point.

this is getting ridiculous. seriously.

 But, anyone wanna talk about the fact that they removed xSpirit's thread that linked suicide helplines
 And furthermore, when concerned users point it out- they're suddenly hidden.

A dear friend of mine who was upset over this fact asked an innocent question as to where it went and it was removed

A new thread shouldn't "have" to be made if one was already created.

Also, since when has having multiple accounts been a bannable offense? May want to update your rules there, hun.

the fact that people are getting banned for either looking at this thread or commenting on it is really just,, a sign of mismanagement on the staff's end this is why, when polled, your community said that they didn't trust y'all. bye i guess LMAO

Why is this happening? Because, as a community, we're tired of being silenced for having an opinion. At this point, the game is dying. If you're trying to drive off your (tiny) active user base, this is a solid way to go. If you want a private game, Raz (& Sura) just pull the server offline and make it private for you and your clique. No need to take knee jerk reaction bans and just rip the life support off of this game. The virus-infecting ads and the (god awful) adf.ly links were bad enough but we tolerated it because we liked the game.

Step off of your pedestal, "immortal god" and realize you're like the biggest, meanest toddler in the sandbox, forcing your opinions on others and kicking those that won't hand over their toy. I mean, seriously.

I know I'm gonna get banned for this, which is fine- I'd hate to ever say I'd support this game anyway (adblock is a lifesaver around here to be honest)

When you delete this post, just know- you're silencing your member base and just proving to them that You do not give a damn.

About their thoughts, feelings, opinions, mental health (with the removal of the mental health thread), and the blatant random bans for people who have done nothing wrong.

Hard to have a game that doesn't have any users to be assaulted by your ads to pay your bills.

Okay but can we have a civilized conversation about this rather than resulting to irresponsible measures?

I'm honestly tired of being afraid to respond to topics like these because I always get the impression that people might hold a grudge against me for as long as I live just because of my opinion. I'm tired of seeing people get put down for genuinely trying to make this game a better place and finding ways to improve the game as well as enhance everyone's experience. I'm tired of seeing GOOD PEOPLE get punished for doing something that's right, which is standing up for the community and facing against these relevant problems when no one else would.

Censorship is a real issue on this game and it's really disappointing that it hasn't been talked about often. Most conversations that are brought up in regards to censorship get brushed off by the higher-ups from what I've seen. Heck, I'm not even sure if any action was taken to reduce to amount of censorship. At this point, we can't even open up and voice our own opinions because we'll end up in a bad spot. Even if we say it politely.

We're just talking to a brick wall.

Everything we say or do that relates to bringing up alarming and important issues get shot down.

It is severely disappointing.

I don't understand why Spirit's topic was deleted when it obviously benefitted a large amount of individuals who needed it. He was helping the community by sharing the hotlines and showing that he cares about everyone's mental health. The least you could do was edit it to your liking and pin it instead of scrapping his topic and recreating your own.

It's also quite upsetting that Birdie's role in former MOTS was used against her.

These kind of conversations deserve to be brought into light. I don't see why keeping them under the dirt for so long would be a better alternative. Imo, it'll only make the situation worse. There are wounds deep in the FH community that need to be tended to instead of ignored.

Literally nobody is being banned in this? The truth is, the staff were not involved in the deletion of aSpirit's post, so making threads like this is honestly childish. Stop trying to find SOMETHING to blame other people on. Honestly, if we're such a small dying game, why keep coming back and making threads and stirring up trouble? Is it worth it? Or is this all just to satisfy your guys's need for drama?

People voicing their opinions is not stirring the pot. I'm honestly so disgusted and disappointed in some of the things said and done.

There is absolutely no reason a community should feel as silenced as they do and it's been hinted at and even said time after time now. If you can't see the fact that you all are pushing your community away, I don't know what to tell you. very disappointing to see.

This is a horrible way to run things, you can't ban people for asking questions or stating their opinion. That is not how you staff a community! and I know some of you are better than that.

I don't quit my job or tell people not to come back or they aren't allowed back when people hurt my feelings at work, so why do you all get to go on a banning spree over a disagreement or a post asking a simple question wondering why a hotline was removed? 100% could have simply warned members and recommended the topic to not get taken off topic like it now has.

I've stayed quiet on most of these threads, but after accusing someone of being someone else, banning people for even simply looking at the thread is honestly upsetting to not speak on, this comes off as "abuse of power" to me. How many threads have there been that you all have had to remove and silence members for speaking on? This is ridiculous. If you can't see that the members are upset and trying to get you all to LISTEN then I don't see the community lasting much longer.

Best of luck to you all.

Is there anybody in being banned in this? The truth is, the staff were not involved in the deletion of @jgurd's post, or making threads like this in honestly stupid. Stop trying to find SOMETHING to blame other people on. Honestly, if we're such a small doggy game, why keep coming back and making threads and starting up trouble? Is it worth it? Or is this all just to satisfy your ego's need for drama?

Birdie, Calvary, AlphaEclipse, Leda, Auccultist, Claretta, Aureilius, Cilantro, and many others were all banned from the forum not too long ago.

 Although we completely disagree with every step that was taken by them in banning everyone, please be as calm as possible in all of this, please don't spread any "rumors" without first backing them with truth or evidence

 CALVARY Today at 9:28 PM
 No one should've been banned.

Paperboy Today at 9:28 PM

honestly amazed my alt hasn't been banned yet after calling sura a bee

likuu Today at 9:28 PM

Nobody should have been banned honestly

Dwyll Today at 9:28 PM

Yeah, it kind of baffles after a while. Like why are they so afraid of an honest discussion?

Laarikan Today at 9:28 PM

Oh no paper, someone is going to leak your info to the staff

l3irdie Today at 9:28 PM

I just think it's highly inappropriate of her in her position to come at me like that, publicly no less. If I wasn't FHU staff, I probably wouldn't of gotten this treatment.

I should further apologize to the people getting banned over/for me, I'm responsible for my actions. I stand by what I said and I'm not going to apologize for that, but I am sorry that it resulted in your guys bans.

Jace||LaughingWolf Today at 9:28 PM

What's funny and sad about this is it started as asking why a mental health helpline thread by xSpirit was deleted

I'm responsible for my actions too- I'm the one that decided to post. Not your fault I wanted to poke the bear. (edited)

Randomzzz Today at 9:29 PM

also since Im a little confused, are alts not allowed in this game or

Laarikin Today at 9:29 PM

Yeah but even then, you should be allowed to share your opinion without getting banned

Dwyll Today at 9:29 PM

Like, the game is so dead I don't think they're even in a position to act this controlling. There's only so much left to control

Astralskye ✨ Today at 9:30 PM

Your post, Birdie, in no way pointed negatively toward the staff. You were asking a valid question on why it was deleted and why a new thread hadn't been put up.

Auccultist Today at 9:30 PM its just so unbelievably ridiculous that people have been getting banned simply for being part of creating a new game. The banning of onlookers of a situation. Absolutely mental

Laarikin Today at 9:30 PM

Alts have been allowed for as long as I could remember, I don't remember anyone ever saying they were against the rules

CALVARY Today at 9:30 PM

Alts are not against the rules.

ClarettaVerus Today at 9:30 PM

They aren't

Randomzzz Today at 9:30 PM

So it shouldn't matter? if they have the same IP?

Astralskye ✨ Today at 9:30 PM

It's laughable that they have to find underhanded ways to ban their community.

CALVARY Today at 9:30 PM

But Sura might've seen it as a way to 'stir the pot' which even then, is a ban based on assumption rather than fact.

Randomzzz Today at 9:30 PM

Who do you have left to control when everyone's gone

barlic bread Today at 9:30 PM

they really have only like sixty active users left and they just fucked over a lot of them.

alphaeclipse Today at 9:31 PM

That was definitely the case

l3irdie Today at 9:31 PM

Absolutely, I can prove that we're not because I corresponded with said user this evening and proofread her thread so it wasn't like mean or bashful. AppleCider is a compassionate person IRL and she struggles with depression herself, it struck a cord that this thread was removed seemingly for no reason and just wanted some clarification.

If anything I feel worse for her because she was very well-meaning and just wanted some answers.

barlic bread Today at 9:31 PM

das all i gotta say for now

Dwyll Today at 9:31 PM
exactly randomzzz

Randomzzz Today at 9:31 PM

Dwyll Today at 9:35 PM

also it was a good question, why did they delete the thread, but it was a question sura seemed to dislike :/ she could have said "I believe Raz did this, we will remake it" and be done with it, but she borderline doxxed and exposed birdie for absolutely no reason, im in awe recap for those who dont know whats going on:

- xspirit made a mental health post around christmas and it got taken down recently without warning
- someone birdie knows irl made a post asking where it went because it struck a chord with it being taken down
- the thread got taken down
- birdie made a post asking about why that asking was taken down
- sura responded with a nigh-dox of birdie and banned birdie, birdie's friend didn't get banned
- quickly followed were bans of calvary, alpha, and anyone else who commented on the thread
- i got banned for looking at the thread without saying anything, i assume this is because im a FHU true, that's what i've been doing in case they decide they actually do want to ban viewers who aren't fhu staff

likuu Today at 10:21 PM

I informed azure that people were banned and she wasn't aware until now

speedrunner Today at 10:21 PM kind of out of place question but can anyone tell me approximately how long ago this banning thing kicked off?

likuu Today at 10:22 PM

she said she was going to bring it up to staff

CALVARY Today at 10:22 PM

it was about 30 minutes ago and lucius already brought it up i think, it was a decision made purely by sura i think, but then again im unsure the response to this by sura is really disappointing and upsetting. I've been a major lurker for a long time, but I still see the same out of proportion responses to genuine concerns about the actions of staff members of this game.

it's honestly really sad to see that nobody can bring up a problem without being censored. I thought maybe the staff would've been better at this eventually, this isn't how you moderate a community who have very genuine and valid concerns about things like this. It shouldn't matter who the poster is, the helplines for mental health is important regardless. even then, there's no room for being petty and removing a thread from someone you don't like, regardless if it's raz. you can't use personal bias as reasoning for banning or removing threads, it's nothing short of abusing your staff privileges. it's upsetting and inappropriate to use Birdie's former MOTS status against her as well.

I'm honestly tired of seeing the same things being brought up with no change and only coming to this same point. this isn't stirring a pot - it's genuine concern for an actual issue. there's a way better response to having your issues pointed out than this.

Quote from: Azura on Today at 01:28:51 am to keep coming back here and stating up things that have been long gone for god knows how long? You think this is going to fix anything at all?

this honestly really irks me. these things haven't been long gone, this has been a consistent issue with staff in particular. it never really went away, a chance to change it is speaking up about it. It's not on the community that the staff isn't willing to change it and instead sura bans people for pointing out their censorship and poor staffing practices in the past.

people have been silenced from speaking up about it, and here we are. fh is dying, and part of the issue is the staff's treatment of the community and raz's inability to let the game grow. sura's response to it was petty at the very least and just the fact of being banned and silenced for speaking out about it is censorship - she's proving the entire point.

there's honestly way too many issues revolving around the staff team to the community itself; lack of transparency, inactive staff, censorship, etc. etc. it's sad, how it's gone on so far. I've played this game since 2011, it's my only source of communication with people and unfortunately it's gone downhill to the point where I can't bring myself to do much else than work on maps or tab out in game.

I wanted fh to get better, but we can't even speak against staff without an out of proportion response that can be solved in a much simpler and more peaceful way. you can't moderate a community this way, this isn't brought up because we don't care, if it wasn't cared about we'd say nothing and let it stay the way it has been. and that's not good or sustainable for a game that isn't what it once was.

if you're trying to grow a community as the game does, the staff needs to grow as well. a community won't grow if they're being moderated by staff who can't grow past their mistakes and do better about them. I'm just saying, the game won't grow if you won't.

things don't improve if it's not brought to light, it'll keep staying the same if it's not talked about. if it's not changed after being brought up, it's not on us, it's on the receiving end. they made the decision not to change and continue making the same mistakes. unfortunately, this has happened here multiple times. if things had changed before, we wouldn't be here talking about it again because of another instance of the same actions. it could be raz, it could be sura or some other staff member, but either way, it still happened again with no change or accountability for it.

It's not about drama, people have genuine concerns about certain things and when voicing them being silenced is often a solution for some reason. Everyone makes mistakes but if you're going to silence those who point them out and genuinely want to help you with them, then you're not helping anybody.

On this topic alone, a majority of the people who replied here were banned without any reason at all. None of the rules were broken, some of the people banned hadn't even said anything or participated in this thread or any others. They just came online and got a big fat "You're banned" on their computer. With the way things appear to be run right now, I don't see why anyone would want to play come play this game in it's current predicament. Who wants to play a game and constantly fear that you'll be banned for literally nothing, or simply saying that you disagree with something. Sorry, but that isn't right at all. I think staff can improve I really do, but with the behavior being displayed and the way things were handled clearly screams things need to change. Otherwise the game will die either way.

If we didn't care about the game or the people playing and running it, then nobody would say anything.

Hecc the only reason I've waited so long to respond is because I was afraid of the staff banning me for expressing my opinion. I'm still afraid, I don't want to lose this game for something as simple as expressing opinion. But staying silent changes nothing.

Agree in part.

However.

We can talk more calmly. If you saw other's replies, you saw some full of attack. And sorry, but these banning reasons are fine. Wouldn't be mad if Sura would delete this thread. More, I would completely agree with her. We can talk calm. We can talk normal people. Not like... like animals.

I will agree, some things about this I don't really like. I feel as if it's thread should not have been removed. At all. Birdie did make a good point. But what I'm talking about that irks me is the fact all these other players came on saying stupid childish comments and just stirring things up. Instead of just, acting like mature people, they came on more or less picking at the staff and making a huge joke out of this.

That is the problem. Something happens in the community and where is everyone's target? The staff. Even when they actually TRY to do anything, it's not good enough for anyone. They literally CAN'T do some things. And people don't understand that. They just feel content coming on here and making fools out of themselves while trying to persecute the staff here.

We all wish things could be different here. For heck's sake, the STAFF THEMSELVES think things should be different. But they can't change things when the one person in charge of said things won't let them. It isn't their fault.

These comments should not have been made, whatsoever. They contribute nothing to the purpose of this thread and are, matter-of-factly, just pokes in the ribs @ Staff to cause drama and try and provoke a reaction to try and force answers. This is not how we, as part of the Feral Heart Community, should be dealing with situations like this. While yes I do not agree with the removal of a very innocent - benevolent thread - I think it's rather outrageous of the extent some of you guys have gone to 'get your point across' in a not-so-nice way. Some of these comments are not even to get your points across, but to be petty about actions happening towards you. Which I would also like to add, I do not agree with either! Yet disagreeing with it doesn't give anyone a right to then make further, unnecessary comments that don't benefit a problem we're trying to solve or a question we're trying to find answers to.

As for this:

Quote from: LordSuragaha on Today at 12:37:43 am

"AppleCider" aka Birdie,

The thread you speak of was deleted by Razmirz. None of us staff (admins or moderators) deleted the thread or even know why it was deleted.

l3rdie Today at 19:26

Not here to start a coo

But, anyone wanna talk about the fact that they removed xSpirit's thread that linked suicide helplines
And furthermore, when concerned users point it out- they're suddenly hidden.

A deep friend of mine who was upset over this fact asked an innocent question as to where it went

In the future do not lie to perpetuate a false narrative. It's not becoming of a former MOTS of the Feral Heart Community or anyone in general.

We will be recreating a new thread with helpful guidelines and information for those seeking help.

Regardless if Birdie was the same person as AppleCider, there is no need to have an underlying tone following the lines of 'It's not becoming of a former MOTS of the Feral Heart Community or anyone in general.' This seems to be coming from a place of frustration yet, it also seems very unprofessional to me. Perhaps I'm misreading this and correct me if I am. However, if a member of the community were to speak like this they'd be banned for it and/or spoken to in a PM, so this is just double standards. The thread could have at least been locked and AppleCider PM'd if THIS is how you're going to approach the matter. A reaction like this should be expected if that's the how you treat people, is all I'm saying.

why does a new thread need to be made?

The thread xSpirit posted was very informative and helpful, as simple as it was. If the Staff really had an issue with it, then the least you guys could have done as a team was work towards revamping it rather than a new thread altogether.

Could it be because of the drama between FHU and FH? Who knows, but from my perspective it's almost as if Raz would rather have a new author of the thread so xSpirit won't be praised for doing the original helpline thread, now that he's gone forward with FHU and has a very genuine Staff team behind him. He'd rather have a member of his own team take the credit. I doubt I'm the only one that thinks that either, now that Sura has stated "we're making a new one" even though it's completely unnecessary and quite frankly, unfair treatment towards Spirit - who took his time to make that thread in the first place. There was nothing wrong with it and nothing can prove otherwise.

As hinted earlier on in this thread, it's just a sign of pettiness if my observations are true.

To rhetorically ask if it's the members who are the problem is rather... I don't know what word to put to it, but that's not right. Sure, the community have said and done things just as unnecessarily as Staff. But if it's obvious that it's not mostly the community that is the issue, statistically speaking.

You say making a thread will encourage Staff to talk. Well, it hasn't always been this way. This thread has literally been made to highlight the fact that Staff (or Raz, really) has been archiving threads which defeats the purpose of users wanting to talk to Staff. This. Is not. Right.

Something happens in the community and where is everyone's target? The staff. Even when they actually TRY to do anything, it's not good enough for anyone. They literally CAN'T do some things. And people don't understand that. They just feel content coming on here and making fools out of themselves while trying to persecute the staff here.

While Raz refuses to speak to the community himself the majority of the time, of course fingers will be pointed towards the Staff instead. They are the next level down to the Server Master and are deemed responsible for the communications between themselves, Raz and the community. Sometimes, we don't even get an answer from them either, so by that point who are we supposed to turn to for answers? We're humans, we all like to know what's going on - secrets being held and answers being avoided causes rigidity and a sense of 'something is wrong'. So we start bickering. The more things are kept away from us for unjustified reasons, the louder the community will get. Of course there are some things we don't need to know. However, for something as sweet as offering help when we are at our lowest - we as a community, are OWED an explanation as to why the helpline(s) have been taken away from us. That's like person A putting up a poster about where to get help if they get injured. It's up a few months, person B actually gets injured but when they look for that nearby poster, it's gone. Why? What are they supposed to do now? Then why they cry for help, the people surrounding them are all like "Oh, nah Person A is stinky so we got rid of it and will do our own version in several years' time because we have other priorities. Soz, you'll just have to deal with the injury yourself, lol."

In this case, both sides are acting wrong. Sura acted too impulsively and some people came to joke. This is pretty wrong as previous users stated. Sura, you should have though more the situation to handle it right and for users, joking about this is not funny, you should act more maturely and talk like it is a real matter. It is possibly pressure that makes people act without thinking and that was what Sura did which was made by the fact that some started to joke about this. Handle this right ya'll. Thank you.

I feel pretty bad with this about being deleted, though I don't know what is happening between some users and staff and hope that fixes. Still, it was wrong because it helps many people with their problem and the thread should have left alone.

Honestly I'm just disappointed, and somewhat still shocked.

I thought old staff was good people. They were pretty cool to work with when I was on the team for map making. They helped me make one of my best maps.

That said, watching this happen last night, as it was happening, was shocking. I never thought the people who we worked with for those many months were capable of such horribly unprofessional behavior. I don't care if you have history with or against someone, this was an example on how not to be a moderator.

I could make the same point about Birdie posting this publicly. Instead of posting publicly under the guise of some friend etc she could have simply messaged us about it herself just the same. What was the need for all the extra steps?

The problem arose when she decided to take a dishonest route to fabricate a negative story right away. Which resulted in the immediate back flow of troll accounts coming on to leave death threats, hateful comments, etc.

If the question came from an honest concern there would have been no need for that, and nothing would have escalated the way it has. Let's be real here. The intention was to fan the flames of drama again needlessly and get a bunch of people to react. So before you point fingers at staff about how "poorly" they handled this situation let's take a moment to talk about the dishonest & petty behavior of Birdie in the first place that led us all here. There's a sequence of decisions and events that took place.

All she had to do was ask the staff a simple question. "Hey do you guys know what happened to this thread?" There didn't need to be any strings attached, alternate accounts to build a narrative, and drama mongering in between. This could have all been avoided.

The staff hadn't even realized it had been removed until the question was brought up. It took us some time to ask around and look into what happened with that thread. We couldn't give an answer until we knew ourselves. All that needed to be had was a little patience.

After we then gave the answer which is that Raz deleted it. But still some keep on doing things like this:

 A reaction like this should be expected if that's how you treat people, is all I'm saying.

I can say the same for staff. We have rules and terms and conditions the community agreed to when they joined. If users continue to violate those rules by causing unrest, turmoil, purposefully spreading misinformation, or causing drama etc we have to take action for the betterment of the rest of the community. We don't like for things to get to that point.

A big issue here is that you got your answer (Raz deleted it) as well as solution (we'll remake it) but it wasn't enough to you all. You never want to admit that some of you tend to make a bigger deal out of things than was necessary. Then once action is taken you act like you have no idea why it happened. This response would be fitting if staff just ignored you all and didn't offer a solution. But we didn't.

Quote from: Scallywag on Today at 01:10:26 pm
 why does a new thread need to be made?

The thread xSpirit posted was very informative and helpful, as simple as it was. If the Staff really had an issue with it, then the least you guys could have done as a team was work towards revamping it rather than a new thread altogether.

Could it be because of the drama between FHU and FH? Who knows, but from my perspective it's almost as if Raz would rather have a new author of the thread so xSpirit won't be praised for doing the original helpline thread, now that he's gone forward with FHU and has a very genuine Staff team behind him. He'd rather have a member of his own team take the credit. I doubt I'm the only one that thinks that either, now that Sura has stated "we're making a new one" even though it's completely unnecessary and quite frankly, unfair treatment towards Spirit - who took his time to make that thread in the first place. There was nothing wrong with it and nothing can prove otherwise. As hinted earlier on in this thread, it's just a sign of pettiness if my observations are true.

It's deleted. That means it's gone. Which means we need to recreate it. This jumping to assumptions and making false statements like this is what keeps breeding this drama and misinformation in this community. Raz deleted it. We don't know why. It's really that simple.

Staff are not against having such helpful material for the community. I was the one who talked about it with xSpirit when he mentioned it to me, and I told him to go for it.

Ah yes so this makes it right to publicly shame her for what you assumed. Instead of doing that you could have simply said. "Raz removed the thread, we will be making a brand spanking new thread in a bit, sorry for the inconvenience." Instead of going to her and asking her about it you banned her. Funny thing is she's still banned and her friend, isn't.. how do you justify that ban?

How is what she said dishonest at all? She was concerned about the hotline thread because it was randomly taken down and her friend used the thread. Of course everyone is either going to assume it was staff (since you guys do the moderating here) or Raz. Believing it has something to do with this weird rivalry with FHU is right to believe especially since you guys banned the remaining people on the staff team, all of which either never broke a rule, or didn't even message here, even. How do you justify that without coming to some quite obvious conclusions?

I'm not going to deny you receive death threats and hateful comments because I'm sure you do. People get a little crazy and go wild when they're angry. But blaming Birdie for it isn't even fair. She was bringing awareness to the thread and people voiced their opinions, then BAM banned. banned. banned. banned. Nobody was originally trying to start this weird fight until you poked at Birdie for breaking unwritten rules, that is still banned for.

If it was an alternate account why is it now unbanned? Also she did ask a question along with her friend who asked but someone hid the thread? Look at the censorship everyone is trying to show you guys, now the thread has been brought back out publicly just to accuse them of multi-accounting which isn't even against the rules.

Two wrongs do not make it right.
Fighting fire with fire, by then is near impossible to put out. While yes your reply could have been a 'heat in the moment' thing (and I recognise as well as appreciate that maybe patience lacked and I wasn't present when this occurred, so can only say so much), it could have been dealt with differently. For sure, this whole thing could have been avoided if Birdie had taken a different approach, but the response to this approach is, again, not very professional. Yet this comes from a POV of an outsider, so I won't go much further on that note - I mean no harm and only to highlight what could have been & what is from the view of... a ghost, perhaps.

This is not condoned behaviour, as you can see at the top of my initial post, I said the comments made similarly were ridiculous and uncalled for. As for staff being told to take their own lives, I didn't see this/these message/s so will leave it out, but it's vile and abhorrent for them to have said anything along those lines.
So I don't need to express my point further.

The community was in hope that you'd back them up on that. Instead we're faced with this thread and these sorts of replies, from both ends of the spectrum - not just Staff.
To think this is how Feral Heart is nowadays, is deeply saddening and also kind of eye-rolling.

It's really not a matter of 'jumping to assumptions' it's making an observation, based off of the original post of this thread. That's why I closed that point with, "...if my observations are true." because I didn't want to come across as trying to state facts, more so express how I felt about what's been said. I'm not spreading any information about anything, how people read it is just how people read it. I unfortunately cannot control that. My view, opinion, whatever you want to call it - is 100% not factual. If it were, I'd put a bit more effort into making a structure that describes the lead of events that occurred. Yet, that's now what I'm doing.

Raz deleted it.

He shouldn't have.

You don't know why.

We don't know why.

Raz > Staff > Community.

That's how information is relayed around here. At least, that's how FH has been trying to make it for many years now.

THAT'S why the community is a bit upset about your response, as you're all looked up to, to get answers (when you can, lack of patience is stupid) and how we deal with that is on our own grounds.

The reason behind why the thread was removed wasn't due to any kind of censorship, but simply that FeralHeart does not want to be responsible if something was to happen to their users. Let's say the thread told them to contact someone and they didn't get the help they needed. People who are struggling mentally shouldn't turn to a forum to start with, unless it is a genuine mental health forum. Why? Because there are trolls everywhere.

I've struggled with my own mental health since I hit puberty, it took a while but I can finally say that I've overcome my issues. The only reason I'm mentioning my own problems, is because I want you to know that I can relate to the topic. Not once have I looked to turn to feral-heart or a similar forum regarding my troubles.

The best thing anyone struggling with mental health can do, is call their doctor or local charity.

The thread won't be remade. I know some of you guys are coming from FHU, and I understand if you have concern for people's mental well being. I'm sure xSpirit would be happy for you to post a similar thread on his forum.

Quote from: PrettyReckless on Today at 07:31:12 pm

The thread won't be remade.

I am so glad that FeralHeart has a transparent, well-communicating staff team (especially among the admins) <3

Here's the thing, suicide awareness =/= increased suicides. By posting those hotlines, you're telling people where they can reach out. If they don't get help, that's not on the staff's shoulders. Posting and providing those resources for a community that has many young people, many of which who are suffering mental health issues as they go through growing up (as many of us older members can relate to and understand), is a good thing. A helpful thing. It gives them somewhere they feel safe going (The FeralHeart forums or games, although that feeling of security is not the same as it once was), a place that- maybe if they were to look up these resources on their own, they could get in trouble from a parent or guardian. But if they get the resources here? That can help.

I'd also like to point out- at this point? The fact that the thread was removed was moot. If this had been handled in a more professional way, such as "Hey, it was removed, we're going to address this." that's all that needed to have been said. l3irdie posted it publicly because- hey, this is an issue that needs addressed. A question that needed an answer, moreso than sending to a staff member in a DM and either getting dismissed or ignored, or waiting multiple days for an answer.

Where it was handled poorly was assuming that because two users are friends in real life, they are clearly the same person, and it was all just a fabricated narrative. Dragging that into the public eye and not addressing it properly was the issue, and that's why this thread continues. What I have an issue with is the way this was handled, and I guarantee that there will be no consequences for blatantly mishandling this issue.

I would also like to point out the very high number of permabans that have been dished out over all of this. That's inappropriate. Banning users without reason, without any indication of why, or what they did wrong, and with no warning- severing their connection to this game swift as an execution. But you wonder why some of your member base has trust issues with the staff members.

Ban me if you'd like- I know the reasoning is going to be "discussing a ban publicly," but do not think that anyone of us is just going to roll over and forget how you completely overreacted to an innocent question, and sent many of your long-time users off with a ban. It really proves that unless they've been licking your boots for years, you don't care about your user base. If you did, you'd pull your head out of your butt, read what the community is saying, and maybe... do something about it.

Raz isn't a valid excuse. "Raz did it," "Raz won't let us," "We have to wait for Raz's approval," as if... what. Maybe if he isn't around, the administrators should take over and start informing the community of what is going on.

For those lurking- uBlock Origin is a great adblocker to use and sever your support of this site. You can also use Universal Bypass to get around those terrible adf.ly links that Raz uses to pay his bills.

There weren't alternate accounts. You're right, there's no need for "alternate accounts to build a narrative"... that's why there weren't. There's plenty of reasons people's lps would overlap. It's very disappointing to see a staff member cling to such an assumptive story enough to post it publicly on the forum and basically soft-doxx someone??

Even if it were the case, it doesn't change the question. Could have just answered what you knew about it and left it at that.

Genuine question, did you actually receive death threats? I see a couple silly posts and maybe some mean jabbing at the staff but I don't see anything that could be constructed as a death threat, and I did not see anyone from anyone on Discord with that intent. Did you receive these over PM's or something? Death threats aren't an allegation to throw around lightly, so I'm curious if that's true or just an exaggeration. If it's true I do apologize, I don't think that's acceptable behavior from either end.

Admittedly it took me a hot second to find the sentence saying Raz deleted it, it was a bit overshadowed by the weird big doxxing screenshots :/ I think people genuinely just didn't see it.. not sure why this random user got thrown under the bus for that. People skimming posts isn't too surprising. Annoying, sure, but it's not usually malicious.

I don't think anyone has an issue with the answer and solution... there's quite clearly something else that happened there. I won't deny some users were just stirring up trouble for the lolz but there was a lot of issue with how you accused Birdie, and coincidentally there was a ban wave of users who posted on this thread or were connected to FHU, with no reason given.

Had the topic been left at "Raz deleted it and we don't know why, we'll remake it", of course there would still be issue with that statement, but I don't think the fault would fall directly towards staff. It's the accusations and banning that were causing this unrest.

Ok i was literally JUST about to post when Ressay posted, so sorry if the above responses are outdated now

Thank you for saying that, I might not agree with the decision but that is a reasonable thought process behind it. However, why is there such a large difference between you and Sura's answers? "We don't know why it was deleted"/"It will be remade" vs "There was reason to delete it"/"It won't be remade"? Is it just new information just being learned rn or a lack of communication or? i tried to not to give any elaborate replies to this thread to avoid getting into more funny business on this forum, but w/e i just want to put this out here.

the responses to this thread is absolutely atrocious and it really shows the true nature of all of y'all who moderate this forum. i don't want to point fingers but some of your replies were negatively charged and y'all are acting surprised getting backlash for it. sure i can say the same for both sides but honestly, what do you expect from a group of people who are sick of being mistreated, including the people you used to work with and be friends with?

i know this already has been established but i'm gonna repeat it. you've banned people for making replies to this thread, plus the people who are just associated with another game (most of them previously being in the dev team not so long ago!). some of them have no previous bans or otherwise bad records. y'all say you don't have any biases but it's certain that you do.

i'm sorry people are/have been sending you death threats and hate messages but it's not the fault of Birdie at all. it's horrible and uncalled for but those people made a personal choice to do that and it's only their fault. the way you try to curb the blame on Birdie is not cool and actually kind of manipulative?

you guys can do better, seriously. no jokes this time.

The reason why there is a big difference between Suras post and my post, is that I was asleep when previous comments were made. Meaning, so was Raz.
 I had to read back on the posts and then have a discussion with Raz as he was the person who deleted it, to see what his reason was.

May I ask a question?

How is it that Razmirz can just do things without even talking to the other staff members about it? How is it that Razmirz can do things and not even the other staff members know about what he did until a community member notices it, makes a thread about it, and then a staff member has to directly ask Razmirz about it in order to give the community some weird answer?
 It's not about this being his website. That doesn't grant him leeway to just do whatever. All of you are equal staff members with an important job to moderate the community and all of you should be working together and yes, this includes Razmirz. It should never be that only one staff member does something random on their own and the rest have to find out and when they do, they just sit and watch.

Why is there no communication whatsoever?

I really want to be a positive person and I don't mean to come back to Feral Heart and jump into drama, but it's been this way for a long time and the poor responses made by LordSuragaha and PrettyReckless in this thread really solidify it. My first notion was when I was shot down because I simply mentioned my mental health in a post I made a long time ago.
 The community is not talking about it because we hate you guys, want to start drama, and see Feral Heart's downfall. We're talking about it because it's important, we care, and we want to see positive change. You guys have the power to change it so easily but right now you seem to care more about replying to us in defense for yourselves rather than just.... doing what you previously said you were gonna do.
 But also, one administrator saying "We don't know why he did it and we will remake it" and then the other administration saying "He has a reason why and no, we will not remake it" later on in the thread.... the mixed signals and the lack of communication.... whew.

EDIT: I also have no idea what happened with FHU if someone can explain that to me? I tend to have inactivity periods where I don't look at the forums for a while just because I'm busy doing other things. I keep seeing FHU brought up but I have no context for why it's relevant and I'd like to understand the situation better.

Good luck Feral Heart.

The reason behind why the thread was removed wasn't due to any kind of censorship, but simply that FeralHeart does not want to be responsible if something was to happen to their users. Let's say the thread told them to contact someone and they didn't get the help they needed. People who are struggling mentally shouldn't turn to a forum to start with, unless it is a genuine mental health forum. Why? Because there are trolls everywhere.

what kind of backwards thinking is this in what way would having helplines accessible (where people are likely to see them) make ppl more likely to harm themselves? i guess keeping a suicide prevention line stuck to my fridge is bad because if i call them it might not help? yes that does happen but that logic is the equivalent of saying don't call an ambulance when someone is having a heart attack because it might not arrive in time... would u rather recreate the thread so people have a chance at being helped (and even if they dont from experience it's still a distraction) or leave them to deal with it on their own and potentially end up in a harmful situation? all this is theoretical but i seriously dont see what the issue is. it's just a thread with some phone numbers that happened to be made by the owner of another game. do you realize how ridiculous that is

Quote from: LordSuragaha on Yesterday at 12:37:43 am

In the future do not lie to perpetuate a false narrative. It's not becoming of a former MOTS of the Feral Heart Community or anyone in general.

it's not very becoming of an administrator to ban random fhu devs and people who dared to speak out against your dying furry game either but here we are sura. if you keep covering your ears and perma banning anyone who criticizes you and your team you will never grow as a person. if you want to ban me and prove my point you're welcome to it, but you're always welcome to have a civilized discussion with myself and the rest of the rightfully frustrated people in this thread.

We'd like to take a moment to wish these devs farewell and thank them for their work and efforts with Feral Heart. Due to creative differences and conflicts with Raz's schedule and overall visions for Feral Heart this development team has decided to depart some months back. When you're listed as a 'departing dev' but were never, ever part of the FH development team. Neither were some of the others listed.

Zomb3h Today at 10:27 PM

Hmmm, suppose so.

I get the intent, but I was never part of the FH's dev or staff team. And in that respect was never even contact about my map submissions a year ago when they were doing that whole thing on the forums.

All I've ever done since joining FH in 2011 has been made things publicly for the community. Public maps, mods, etc.. And I don't want to be listed falsely on a thread when I was not ever a part of anything in regards to FH development.

So uh yeah my question still stands, why was the post deleted? Regardless of being involved spurrratically by his own standards, he is still the man who deleted it. Would really like to know why, because so far it just seems to be because of FHU affiliation, which has no grounds for deletion or ban.

So when are the staff going to unban the people that they banned on their streak? Are they even going to apologize? Nobody on this thread has broken the game rules... It's pathetic that the staff banned people just for associating with fhu. Why? Because you're afraid that people will jump ship? Who blames them?

Shouldn't you three be asking why half a dozen people were banned? How about you step into the shoes of those who were banned. Imagine being barred from a game YOU spent days putting work and effort into and got banned for simply being apart of FHU because they supposedly have a vendetta against FH. (Note I am NOT an FHU staff member posting this.)

I cannot imagine what is going through your minds to think it is totally okay to just be numb to everything that happens just because it doesn't effect you. This game has no future given the immaturity of some of its staff, and I cannot believe people still ignorantly sit aside and let a rogue staff member (without even notifying the ENTIRE staff team, ex.: SpicyDirt) ban some of its most active players because of a goddamn post asking about a deleted thread. Absolutely ridiculous.

If you three actually care about the future of this game, take action and realize the staff team you know and love has some serious administrative bias and deep-rooted problems. Don't tell people on a board dedicated to discussion to stop discussing something just because you do not agree with it. Birdie has been MOTS and has worked with staff quite a bit, I think they know what they can/cannot bring to the public. There is absolutely no reason this shouldn't be discussed publically.

Suragaha, I previously respected you, but this is absolutely disgusting behavior. If you care as much about this community as you say, RESIGN. If Raz is such a problem, let someone else handle it. I hope you realize how large of a mistake this is. You can always use TOS as an excuse, but you will not have a game to moderate if you continue treating your active members like this, especially if those members have a connection to more of the community via Discord than you do via forum. Reckless, you are no better for not even reading your fellow admin's reply to this thread before replying yourself. An absolute embarrassment in regards to how staff communicates.

If this account gets banned, I will be wholly disappointed. Silencing people will only cause more retaliation. Plus, side accounts are disposable on a dead game.

The answer is simple, actually.
These are issues that need to be brought to light and talked about. It was never a 1 on 1 conversation and it's not "drama" to be dismissed. I'm glad we're talking about it because these threads have helped me and many others see the issues with Feral Heart that need to be addressed. We can blatantly see that members are being banned because they hold a different viewpoint and it's unfair. We can blatantly see how unprofessional and rude the staff members can be and how they lack proper communication and community.

It's... just a game. That's what's going through my mind, I have no proof anyone was or wasn't banned but those things aren't even supposed to be discussed on the forums anyways. I check the forums to see if anything interesting is happening then I move on with my day. I'm not going to let something like this ruin my day. If something upsets me then I either take care of it or walk away from it. The future of this game will be uncertain. With the mystery of Raz's status always looming and people always pointing fingers, everything will always be up in the air. I have made my memories on this game and will not let silly drama replace those for me. And it sure would be nice if the newer members could make some nice ones too without seeing all this on the forums. Dunno if I'll come back to this thread, nothing but negativity.

The memories aren't ruined unless you purposely go out of your way to ruin them yourself. I have so many bad memories here and have been wronged by people so many times and yet I still keep coming back because I mostly remember the good times. I can barely even remember 1/3 of the poor events that have happened to me here because they have been blanked out of my mind, I just remember that yes I've had hardships here. And again, it's not "silly drama". You're turning a blind eye to an actual issue here with how poorly everything is ran and how the staff.... I don't wanna say abuse their powers, but they basically abuse their powers from time to time.

Hello fellas, Calvary here. My deepest apologies for using an alt-account. Frankly I do not mind if this one gets banned as well, but I'm going to out myself here for the sake of proof.

My main account was banned, both forum-wise and game wise. Many others, not just me, with valid proof, have also been banned.

"Why can't you just ask the reason for your ban?"

As I said, many of us are banned in-game wise and forum wise, which means we cannot message any staff unless we dig around discord. Even then, many of the staff members have me blocked on discord, but I cannot speak for everyone else who also got banned. It is also apparent that no individual on the staff team can give anyone a direct answer to the reason regarding the ban. "This is a question for Sura" people will say.

"Why didn't you just DM the staff team about the topic instead of starting drama?"

First, this wasn't made to start drama. The censorship happened again with a post made by AppleCider. Keep in mind as well, fellow community members, that there isn't any reason you can't discuss the topic on the forums! Maybe it's something a group was genuinely curious about, and wanted to discuss to reach a possible conclusion.

Instead, the topic itself was met with removal, and prompted, the aggressive IP matching between two users where it was unnecessary. If you do not find this compromising or unsafe, I truly think you should reconsider what kind of game you are playing and who holds access to your information. Do you trust them with your personal info?

"Just leave the topic alone! Stop causing drama."

Now this. As much as I enjoy differing opinions, this is probably my biggest pet peeve. This is the same sort of mindset equivalent to why people get bullied. Why people don't speak out about their trauma. If everything was just swept under the rug, how long do you think it'll take before too much dust piles up under that rug? People aren't intending to cause drama. I'm not here to cause drama, but I am here to be clear. This sort of banning spree, the sort of assumption that these topics were brought up to stir the pot, that's what they are, assumptions.

If you truly believe everything and anything should just be swept under the rug, please be my guest. I have no qualms with that. What I have qualms about is trying to silence people who have the same rights to a voice as you do. Stop trying to shut everyone up just because it rocks the boat for you. Do not be a bystander to a problem, because then you are simply part of it. But you can choose to be if you really find that best suited for you.

I will be deleting this account following this post in order to protect my personal information.

I just beg you all to be a bit more open to the idea that this kind of behavior isn't okay. I also ask that anyone else posting on this thread holds the same amount of civility that Birdie did. Civility brings us peace, but I beg you to be more open and holding people accountable where they should be held accountable. Just because nothing happened to you doesn't make this situation fine and dandy.

Much love, I do hope those undeserving of their bans will be unbanned and a public apology will be issued.

All of this because someone asked a question about a mental health resources thread that got deleted?? What is going on in here? Demanding transparency isn't "drama", and it probably shouldn't be a bannable offense in my honest opinion ..... So long as it's not fallacious or disrespectful, aren't we as a community allowed to ask questions and give our thoughts on a situation? Is that not why we have a discussion board? Maybe I've only seen one side of the story so correct me if I'm misinterpreting this, but this is ridiculous.

Excuse me but can someone give me a rundown on what happened here while I was gone?
I've no idea what is going on and I'd like to know so I can base a strong opinion on it, but I'm too lazy to read through 62 whole replies-
Sorry for butting into this thread with this, but from what I gather from Cavalry; something BAD has happened. Truly terrible happenings, related to some censorship & unfair bannings, aswell as some issues with the staff..?
I'm just confused and would like a detailed list or timeline of the events.

Again, sorry for butting in. Take care everyone, hopefully whatever's been happening can be fixed up properly.

Sometime around December, xSpirit made a post with mental health resources, such as suicide hotlines. Then one day, the thread mysteriously disappears and AppleCider makes an innocent thread asking what happened to it because they had it bookmarked and needed it. Sura felt it was necessary to do an in-depth research on their IP and found it was the same as l3irdie's, immediately taking the stance that AppleCider was l3irdie's alt account made to cause trouble under a disguise when the reality is that AppleCider is an iri friend of l3irdie's who lives in the same area, hence the IP addresses being the same. After AppleCider's post is locked, l3irdie comes here to make this thread.

This thread was NOT made to cause problems but the staff themselves made it out that way and took offense, going on a banning spree to ban multiple members, including users who didn't post and simply lurked on the thread. They also banned users who were on FHU staff, even the ones who hadn't been active here on FH forums. Basically everyone here has an issue with the abuse of power, unprofessional behavior, lack of communication and community, and censorship of certain topics.

Yes, this is a double post real quick. Ignore that part, though. There's a reason and it doesn't fit with my previous post.
But the thread Bird posted earlier, right above TimesNewRoman, either they deleted or a staff member deleted.
I'm going to assume it was a staff member who doesn't want others to truly see the extent of what happened because there's also an admin viewing this topic at the same time I'm posting this.

I'm gonna repost the links real quick, because the post was deleted while I still had them open, but if it turns out Bird did delete the post herself then I will remove the links at her request.

To answer the original question asked in this thread, I will quote what Ressay has said:

Quote from: PrettyReckless on July 18, 2020, 07:31:12 pm

The reason behind why the thread was removed wasn't due to any kind of censorship, but simply that FeralHeart does not want to be responsible if something was to happen to their users. Let's say the thread told them to contact someone and they didn't get the help they needed. People who are struggling mentally shouldn't turn to a forum to start with, unless it is a genuine mental health forum. Why? Because there are trolls everywhere.

I've struggled with my own mental health since I hit puberty, it took a while but I can finally say that I've overcome my issues. The only reason I'm mentioning my own problems, is because I want you to know that I can relate to the topic. Not once have I looked to turn to feral-heart or a similar forum regarding my troubles.

The best thing anyone struggling with mental health can do, is call their doctor or local charity.

The thread won't be remade.
I know some of you guys are coming from FHU, and I understand if you have concern for people's mental well being. I'm sure xSpirit would be happy for you to post a similar thread on his forum.

Quote from: PrettyReckless on July 18, 2020, 08:44:31 pm

The reason why there is a big difference between Suras post and my post, is that I was asleep when previous comments were made. Meaning, so was Raz. I had to read back on the posts and then have a discussion with Raz as he was the person who deleted it, to see what his reason was.

FeralHeart does not want to be held accountable if anything were to happen to a user who used our platform to seek help and failed to get the help they needed. As Ressay has said, the best thing for anyone to do is reach out to their doctor or local charity for these types of situations, or to seek out a specialized organization with professionals who are trained properly to handle these types of situations. Not an online roleplaying game. I understand all of your frustrations regarding this, however Razmirz has given his reasoning as to why he does not want that kind of thread on this game's forum, and there is nothing we can do to change his mind. If you do not agree with how he wants things to be run here on FeralHeart, then you are more than welcome to seek out a platform that meets your standards. I am terribly sorry.

As for this thread itself, I will be locking it due to an answer being given to the original question, as well as the subject being thrown off topic with continued harassment towards others.

Wow..
on: Today at 12:07:21 am

The events of the past few months, leading up to and peaking at the events of the other night [US-time, anyway] are, in my opinion, extremely disheartening, disappointing, and infuriating as a member of this formerly-awesome place to hang out. It's a shadow of its former self, and there's plenty of reason why.

Firstly, communication between anyone and everyone is.. appalling. As moderators can't or don't even confer with each-other before any action is taken. That was most obvious when one member of staff says one thing will be done, and another, not hours later, says the complete opposite will be done. We all know Raz doesn't communicate for anything or anyone, for whatever pompous ass reason he has. At this point it's willful on his part. He knows there's a problem and he's refusing to deal with it.

Secondly, the absolute hate the staff has towards fhU. I get it, it's the hot new server that is doing everything that you as staff couldn't because Raz couldn't. At the same time, there were one or a few of you who were undermining fhU's development. I don't know the details, and I am not here for that. I just think that it's despicable behavior unbecoming of a moderator, or staff of any game. You guys are so wrapped up in your hate of the other team that you are shooting yourselves in the foot with every single one of these events.

I understand what happened the other night was likely just a snowball that got out of control, but that does not clear you from your actions. You chose to do what you did, and you need to man-up about it, in either case. Ignoring the elephant in the room only makes it larger. Right now, that event, bringing it back to the original problem, is what is going to be your downfall as a cohesive group. You thought it was a good idea to delete any and all threads that question staff decisions instead of discussing it amongst yourselves and responding appropriately. Instead, you let your ire build up and responded with a huge ball of emotionally-drawn reactions, which snowballed into everyone else doing the same thing.

There is one thing that I am just.. pissed off about.. and that would be the reasoning you gave for the removal of the thread that started it all. Raz likely removed it out of spite for X, to be honest, but you decided to throw up a giant middle finger to anyone who has ever needed to use any of those programs or hotlines by suggesting that someone who is contemplating suicide, in that moment, TO GO SEE A PSYCHIATRIST. When, in that moment, you might not even be able to think long enough to GOOGLE 'HELP'. Do you know how asinine and self-righteous and over-privileged you make yourself sound? It's absolutely insane to me, that you would suggest that by putting up HELP lines that they would make FH responsible in some manner, if someone USED THEM TO HELP THEMSELVES. Your logic is broken, and perhaps you really haven't dealt with true trauma in your life just yet, or you can afford or don't have social or familial stigmas to deal with that would prevent you from trotting off to a doctor when you need it. BUT NOT EVERYONE DOES. So don't dismiss EVERYONE ON THIS FORUM by saying if they're having trouble "just go see a doctor". Gods, that is a redamndiculous thing to say. I said on that thread that Suicide isn't a joke, but you know; writing something like you wrote there, just makes it crystal damn clear that you don't give a rats bleep about anyone but your own appearances. That goes for the Forum too. You're so scared of people arguing a little that you're censoring EVERYTHING.

Okay, at this point, there are so many of the staff members that have just dropped off my respect scale in a matter of weeks, if not months. Raz, for his MIA incommunicado, then throw a tantrum when shit isn't going right when he gets back; and the way he treats his staff and his dev team. Whoever is left. He's the entire reason FHU exists. He just doesn't want to admit it in his stubbornness. If he treated his people right, they wouldn't have ditched him and began making a better game with better staff, that actually focuses on the community instead of the incessant drama between staff and himself. Sura; I'm sorry, luv, but that was the worst thing you could've done the other night. Mistakes happen, maybe you'll be forgiven, but that was probably one of the last nails in the coffin for this server of FH. The banning of people for disagreeing with you, or questioning you; that's just uncalled for. Ame - that self-serving bullshit answer for why anyone would remove a self-help thread. I already explained my thoughts on that. Red, thought you were a cool guy, but I guess there was a lot of background that I didn't know until recently. I suppose my only note there, is you really should've given up your moderating 'powers' when you resigned. Otherwise, you're living pure-and-simply with an abuse of power any time you use it. And you have. I've seen it myself. You're not a moderator, you're not a creator, you resigned. You should just be Red. But no, you're Red with a ban-hammer that uses it when he gets mildly irritated. There are more, but I don't want to continue my list anymore.

The thing is, guys; by acting the way you are, disorganised and going full-throttle on anything that might question anything, is going to end this game. You've already started it. While you guys sit here banning anyone that questions you or anyone that has to do with fhU, you lose members; every time. You're sitting here at <100 ppl online all day, during peak summer hours in a time when most of the US isn't supposed to go anywhere fun due to this damn virus. Less than 100 people, including the inflation caused by either Raz' bots, or the login page queries. Every single time you decide to lash out at the community, fhU gets a HUGE boost in numbers; we're at nearly a thousand new members now, just itching to get on a game that listens to it's community, talks to, laughs with and even argues occasionally with its community instead of silencing it. It's what FH should've been, instead of this .. meager shadow of itself. Y'all aren't helping yourselves with your behavior. TALK TO EACHOTHER.. and hell, UNDO Raz' bullshit if he's not going to come out and tell us why he's doing it.

I write this with the full understanding that I will either be banned, or this post will be removed or locked immediately. I don't really care. The point is, I wanted you to read it, and accept its truth along with a lot of my opinion instead of FIGHTING those truths.

One of the few times the LaughingWolf doesn't laugh. It's sad what this place has become. Really it is.

Preaching this while it's still here!!
Been playing this game since it's release. I grew up with this game, as many others did alongside me. But anymore, I cannot stand all this constant drama. I stand with FHU full-heartedly, and if I seriously get banned from saying this, that's pathetic. But honestly, I don't care anymore, which is why I'm here, alongside you. Very well said, Jace. Thank you.

#IStandWithFHU

Honestly, this game has been swirling the toilet for a while. Sura just flushed the damn toilet.

The lack of communication and consideration for your community is appalling. I can understand your hands being tied with updates and changes. I can understand that you can't always control what the server administrator is doing.

There is nothing that will ever excuse soft doxxing someone, or reacting the way that Sura did. There is no magical outside force that forced her hand- nobody stood there with a gun to her head and forced her to react that way. That was, pure and simple, malicious. This goes beyond the point of "a mistake."

Sneezing and peeing a little? That's a mistake. Dropping something? That's a mistake. Hunting down the members of FHU and members that agree that the wrong action has been taken? That's malicious. Pure and simple.

If you act out of such malice, at that point, you should no longer be a staff member. But of course- this is FeralHeart. Where even if you're removed as a moderator or allowed to step down as an administrator, they let you keep all of your staff powers so you can still punish people you don't like, and protect the bootlickers that act like you're a god on earth.

Don't really know what point I am making. I'm just- frustrated. Glad to be getting out of this game and community. You may as well lock my account too- you've nuked the rest of them.

I truly do not understand why people who despise this game so much and have "left" it keep coming back. If you stand with FHU so much then why do you keep posting on FH?

Because they are concerned for the community, and still love FH for what it was. If they want to post, why stop them? Believe it or not, you can like/love both games.

Nobody hates the game. We speak out because we want to see positive change. Said change is what will help bring this game back to it's former glory.

Everyone deserves the know that the current staff are "corrupt", unprofessional, and "abuse" their powers on people they don't like and if nobody says something, then it will keep happening. And it will keep happening. And it will keep happening.

privacy policy concerns
on: Today at 12:57:28 am

Did administration borderline break their own TOS/privacy policy by suggesting/disclosing the proximity (in regards to location) of two separate users to the public just because of forum post? Not addressing this doesn't look too hot for FH's image, imo!

Also, barracading some of the community's most active supporters from the forum so they cannot contest their unjust punishment with the excuse of staff being able to do whatever they want because of TOS is so, so sketchy. I cannot believe I have to resort to this to even speak to staff because many of them have me blocked elsewhere. Also, the people sending threats are not those actually trying to make the FH administration more just. Don't relate them to people with actual ill-intent. People that threaten the staff are completely unrelated and vile. Cannot believe this has to be clarified.

Those posting #IStandWithFHU certainly seem one sided. Calling FH a "swirling toilet" doesn't sound like critiques. The game will never be back to it's "former glory" too much has happened and I'm sure things will continue to happen that put a bad name on the game.

Whereas I understand where you're coming from, that's not the case. It's fact-stating. The game is dying, and the staff has not been acting in a way that supports any growth whatsoever. Whether you pick apart their argument for your own statement or not, they are speaking truths. You're right though. This server won't ever be what it was before, because you can't go back.. but the problem is, they're losing their future too, with events like this.

What do you expect? Several people, including me, have been banned for no reason by Sura, Sura should have issued warnings, and locked the thread to begin with. Yet she permabanned several users, soft doxxed another two, and isn't even trying to apologize. SpicyDirt has been answering our questions, but she is just as out of the loop as us.

If the game is never going to 'return to its former glory' then why are you still here and posting as well?

I'm not sure all of these statements are facts. Some seem more like opinions.

I post because I do not care about it's former glory, again....it is just....a game. I accepted it at some point.

But I better skedaddle before I get mobbed on for standing up for FH lol. Thought I had escaped these FH vs FHU talks when I left Feral Neighborhood.

Wow. This has nothing to do with FH vs FHU. This has to do with people being banned in order to avoid "negativity," as well as an administrator essentially exposing a user's proximity to another. I cannot believe that this isn't obvious or concerning to you. I cannot believe you haven't realized that most of the accounts posting are alts as well. Have you not questioned the lack of response from staff?

Is it an opinion when people were banned even just for looking at the thread and not even posting in it? :/
Deleting posts that had valid criticism and points...
They deleted Birch's post with the links and then removed the links from my post all because it "discussed bans" but that's the entire point. Because people are being unfairly banned.

I'm not sure you're standing up for FH. If you were, you'd expect your staff team to act like a staff team, instead of supporting a staff that has shown themselves to ban or delete/lock/move things that they disagree with instead of pushing them to do the right thing. You, as someone who supports FH, should push for better behavior of your staff team too. The hashtag above that they're using is more a solidarity in acknowledging that Raz has caused all this, by his mistreatment and neglect of staff, makers, and devs'. Raz is the entire reason why xSpirit went to talk to Kovu in the first place. The staff, by doing what they've been doing, isn't helping, it is in fact harming the community.

Pretending there is no problem and putting your head in the sand isn't going to solve anything.

This is a quick Google search that I did not research fully (yet) and it does say from Washington D.C but here's what I got when I googled what happens if you were to violate privacy policy.

When a company violates its privacy policy, the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) can cite them for an unlawful trade practice, and the individual states or federal government may levy fines against them. As a consumer whose privacy has been violated, you may also take action against the company in the form of a lawsuit.

anyways, saying 'it's just a game' doesn't excuse the abhorrent actions staff have taken and the disrespect with which they treat their userbase. yes, it's a game, but do you not think things are getting a little out of hand when someone gets soft-doxxed? if you don't care because 'it's just a game' don't bother commenting to tell everyone else their concerns aren't valid - you did this exact thing in the same thread that was locked and got nowhere with it. you may be able to close your eyes and ignore staff corruption and injustices done to users, but you can not expect the rest of us to stand idly by alongside you.

I used to be very active in FH and on the forums. I became super active for a time being because I wanted to help people out and my friend was also involved with helping. (This lead people to believe that I was only in it for MOTS, which I actually didn't care about, and I don't even know if I knew it was a thing at the time. I just wanted to be social and help out.) I have another account now, one that I don't generally use for the forums, and this is the first time I've typed anything on here in a very long time.

Feral Heart was a HUGE starting point in my life. I joined later on in the game, took a long break and then returned (only to find out general chat had been removed but I digress) FeralHeart actually effected my life because I found a true friend through it, someone that actually moved states away to live with me afterwards. This person remains as my absolute best friend to this day. So FH was very important to me at the time. Now though, it's very sad to see what it has become.

Users may be defending the staff for their actions, but as someone who was a moderator in a completely different site at one point, I know that this isn't how to deal with public relations. The reason why people are so upset about this, is because they really care about FH and want it to have a good future, unfortunately right now, the future isn't looking very bright.

Those may say that it's just a game, but putting someone's IP address out to the public is actually a dangerous thing to do. There are stories of people being tracked down to where they live and harmed with the IP address known. It can be a very serious issue, and the fact that the staff seems to be brushing over that is problematic. Has any action been taken involving that? That's what's so worrisome. That people are being banned for trying to input a voice to make everything run better, that's not going to help FH grow.

While my activity on FH dwindled over the years, its memory has been important to me. It truly saddens me that it has reached this point. From the standpoint of someone who moderated a place before, I will say this; silencing people only makes things fester and brings up trolls and doesn't lead to any possible change for the good. The best thing to do is to listen and take into consideration what the users are saying. There's a saying "Without your people, you are a king of nothing." Communication, it can be so easy, yes criticism can hurt, but it can be turned into a positive. That's what FH needs right now, better communication, and while the staff are probably held on short leashes, their actions are still their own. For a place to thrive, people need to come together. And this place is in such a state of separation.

I don't know how much longer FH will be around, I was hoping it would exist for a long time, but without open communication and proper leadership. This place is going to be extremely stressful, for the staff and the users. I hope for the best, but without change, these problems are going to continue reoccurring. Nobody wants that. They want the best for FH, and right now, there's too many issues. It can rise from these ashes if only people would take that step, if only people were allowed to take that step. Only time will tell what happens next, but I truly hope it will improve.

Agree with above. We can be more positive. If you don't wanna let this game die, you should propose some solves, ideas nas we can agree Both sides, etc. Of course if you don't wanna let it die.

Well, if Raz wouldn't delete helpline thread, we wouldn't have censorship drama. Unnesecary comments. Swearing. Pure rude. Did you ever think how can we look for game interested guests? It's horrible. Agree, we need thread about whole game & forum discussion, but it can be chillout. Y'all know that people - and forum - can't live by ONLY drama. We have upcoming Prom. Arts. Prasetts. Of course I'm not saying we need to stop. No. Just saying we can be human. Not animals.

Honastly I don't like FHU. After censorship drama not sure why I'm still here. Almost every day you can meet new player or returned. "I can teach you about the maps!", I said happy. We ran on every map, guy was really interested and happy that they came back... and then they ask about Feral Heart Unleashed. Said that drama between Raz & xSpirit. Blah blah blah, you can also look on forum. They looked. And said it's horrible what is doing on forum. Did I meet them anymore?

No.
And don't tell me that I haven't luck to meet them.

Dramas are ruining Feral Heart. But if we wanna stop it damn circle, it need collaboration from every side. Community. Staff. Raz. We can't be mean, everyone have their role here. and respect it. But if one of part deean't work great, whole system brokes. Raz with his inaccessibility. Staff with banning FHU staff. Community with they awesome pure rude. To everyone; try understand that we must try do these roles as good as we can. Community can be kind. Staff can teach us what Has happened, why they banned them. Understand if that cannot be easy, but we need answer. And Razmirz. Post anything logic anywhere. Just. To make sure that you're still here.

Truth be told, even before the issue with Raz deleting the thread, there has been lots of issues with the staff's reaction. I remember there were quite a few cases in the past where staff did what they could to shut people up instead of discussing things with them. (Even if the posts weren't rude) Issues among the staff actually caused a big destruction of the staff team at one point, when Raz reacted very badly to the release of information about new maps. It was a huge set of drama, so this isn't a one time thing. Anyone that spoke out about it had a big chance of getting in trouble, and quite a few staff quit. At one point, instead of trying to work things out, Raz actually temporarily took down the server, after pointing fingers. It was believed for a time that he was going to completely get rid of FH, he even admitted to lying about having a source code.

Throughout recent times, there has been quite a bit of drama involving the staff, and then users ended up retaliating due to the seeming mistreatment of them. While there definitely are some users that have been rude, a big issue for sure needs to be worked on within the staff themselves. It's actually these reasons that a lot of people don't trust the staff to work things out properly, the issues within the staff themselves seems to lead to people turning on each other, or not having their own voice. Raz himself, basically disappearing quite frequently, and at times when he does return, he tends to take things out on the users or staff members with an air of superiority rather than trying to reconcile or fix things for the better.

And that's the unfortunate thing, I feel like a lot of stuff can be traced back to Raz's negligence and combative nature stressing people out.

I completely agree. There's little I can say at this point that hasn't been said a hundred times over, however...

I have no clue what is going on behind the scenes w/ the staff team right now or what their plans are, if any, but the complete silence is unnerving and is only going to further cement people's negative views. If there's nothing to disprove them.. people are going to assume the worst. I don't want to directly accuse staff of trying to sweep this under the rug so everybody just forgets about it and things go "back to normal", but if the lack of communication and disregard for the actual issues people are upset about continue, that's exactly what's going to happen. Might be the easy way out, but it sure isn't the right way out.

As to why people are still discussing this despite FH 'just being a game'. Feralheart is a small furry game and part of its charm has been the fairly tight-knit community. Staff are all former members, and it's easy enough to talk to them like any other player and see them engaging in threads the exact same way a regular member would. That's why this discussion keeps getting brought back up... staff read these threads. The way the community is, ideally it would be very easy to resolve issues, because they can talk out and it's not like larger games where you can scream on forums all you want, the staff and devs won't even see your post. There's a large possibility issues will be brought to light and discussed, maybe things won't be done about them most of the time (we know how raz is (: ) but concerns are recognized. Ok I'll admit this paragraph is a ramble of poor wording but I hope someone's understanding my point lmao basically staff and members are on a fairly equal level relationship-wise so it's worth bringing these topics up and discussing them to hope for a solution.

There's no way to satisfy everyone, especially after the damage has already been done, but the solutions seem so obvious. My deepest apologies for discussing the forbidden topic, but give those who were (PERMA)banned an actual concrete reason why they were banned and for such an outrageous time, or if there's no rule that can actually be seen as being broken, revoke/lessen it. Allow banned users to delete their accounts (as I'm aware there's been issues with that, correct me if I'm wrong). Publicly admit the wrongdoings of softdoxing just to create a false accusation and show that you were in the wrong. Issue a sincere apology showing you realize your actions were wrong, acknowledging the harm it caused, and showing steps to prevent it in the future. Don't create a strawman just to avoid addressing those issues... people notice.

I hope these points all make sense and are reasonable. I'm not directly involved in anything, however I have been lurking the forum and Discord ever since the events unfolded, and seeing everything that's happened has been incredibly upsetting and disappointing. I do think there can be an appropriate solution reached between both parties, and effort has been put in by one side to amend it or at least get answers... though at this point I am seeing little cooperation from the other.

I... could not have worded what you said better myself. You took the words right out of my mouth.

To the few people who think we should commit to FH with continued hope, faith, benevolence... some of us have been doing this for years. It's tiring to see that go unappreciated sometimes. On occasion, it is taken note of, but not enough.

All of the feelings I had towards FH has somewhat been drained. But I'm here out of loyalty. I may not believe FH has much of a chance to survive the next few years because of ongoing events and the wrongful decisions being made but, I owe this place a lot.

I only hope this thread isn't locked unnecessarily like the last one. The least that should have been done is the posts deleted that were more to do with harassing the staff than it was to do with the actual topic about Censorship. The more they lock, the more these topics will come around. It's really not fair to shut people out, especially when that thread didn't break any rules.

It seems we're expected to come forward with problems but, when we do, we're snapped back at for it. Why? Because some people are hearing what they don't like to be told.

Imagine Proving a Point

on: Today at 01:08:02 pm

Quote Modify Remove

Three threads were created, in which all of them were "taken care of" by either staff or Raz. Honestly I don't really care who did it, but by hiding/deleting threads about concerns about the game and the community, you're simply proving our point about unnecessary censorship.

First there was <https://feral-heart.com/smf/index.php?topic=68702.0>, talking about how the hotlines were taken down simply because they were posted by a "rival" of the game. That thread was locked, though I suppose I could understand why as some posts were aggressive, including one of mine. Which I apologize for, however I feel the aggression from many users is justified. Due to the staff essentially threatening to reveal personal information of members of the community, as well as removing several people who either did nothing, or literally did nothing. People who hadn't even logged into the forums were forcibly removed from the community that day, and staff still have yet to either apologize for the action taken against these users, and/or let these people back into the community (at least to my knowledge).

Then there was "Wow..." : <https://feral-heart.com/smf/index.php?topic=68721.0>, which is no longer active. I believe all of the posts here were very tame and non-aggressive as people voiced their concerns about the situation as well as the actions of the staff. I did not notice any obvious aggression from anybody giving critique and/or tips to the staff here. Anyway, I'm just saying, this thread came out fairly passive and was still removed. Further proving the point of concerns listed anyway. It has come to my attention that this thread was hidden/deleted due to the discussion of the forced removal of users. In which I apologize as it is a rule, however, I do not necessarily agree with this rule, given the circumstances. Reasoning being that unjust removal of users should be brought to light. Yes, I understand why the rule exists, but in the case of this situation, I feel it should be overlooked simply because of what has happened concerning this topic.

Last but not least, "Privacy Policy Concerns" : <https://feral-heart.com/smf/index.php?topic=68722.0>, this link is also now dead. The original poster had posted this because they were genuinely concerned about what happened in "Let's Talk about Censorship" (the first link), mainly concerning the threat of personal info of two of the community members from staff as doing this would seem to be against the privacy policy. However, upon reading the entirety of the privacy policy, <https://feral-heart.com/terms/> it does not state anything about redistributing member information, outside of emails. However, the threat or action of revealing another's personal information is actually illegal. Making this thread very much valid. I will not say that the staff in question did straight up reveal information on the users; however the way the information was provided publicly, backed by claims of the user posing as multiple people via multi-accounting (which isn't against the rules to begin with, last time I understood), it appeared and presented itself with malicious intent, and/or as a threat by the specified staff member.

Of course I could be wrong, I am not that person nor do I know what they were thinking outside of proving a point when they posted the blocked out content. However, that does not make the actions taken, justified or right. As they still haven't bothered to edit out the contents of the post, or even delete the reply as a whole, and as stated previously, appears malicious. On top of this happening, no other staff member has even bothered to point out that this specific staffer's actions are wrong and/or justified. They simply danced around the questions and topics, having yet to let the people who received unfair and unjust punishment back into the community, along with apologizing for the way things were handled.

On top of the actions taken, the staff (or any members of the higher-ups) continue to damper out people's concerns by deleting or hiding threads containing such concerns. Which only further proves the point and reasoning of the original concerns posted.

I'm sure everyone is sick of seeing these threads popping up and then disappearing, but this is actually a serious issue and puts the community in a place in which they're no longer safe. Take the information provided as you will (I have more links to things, but they have been posted multiple times and were deleted), but I believe this is a serious issue that needs to be addressed not only by the community but by the staff and their "leader". The staff cannot back out of the pit that was dug, however that does not mean it's impossible to right the wrongs or at least try to improve, using the past actions seen as wrongs to better the way things are handled and managed.

Firstly, I think starting by allowing removed users that were removed days ago would be a fantastic start. As none of the rules (to my knowledge) were truly broken. Secondly, I think sending an apology for such events and the way things were handled would be another great thing to see, as well as a private apology for the two users whose information was threatened on a public thread. Punishment for actions taken, I myself do believe because of the action taken inside that one thread are punishable. Things like this should not be taken lightly, especially within your staff team, this is a serious issue. If one of your staff members is threatening to give off personal information on users to "prove a point" then they should be removed from the staff team, as that is not right or justifiable in one bit. Of course, this is just what I believe and feel on the matters at hand. Take them as you will, but these are just a few things I think could be done to start improving the staff team and management of the site and/or game.

I apologize for the passive aggressive title as well, but I am genuinely frustrated with the actions staff have taken against members of the community. It would be different if rules were broken, however this is not the case and I think such things should be known by both the community and the staff, and I also believe the information should remain available. I do truly believe things can be improved for both the game and the way things are managed, however that requires the willingness to take feedback more seriously and the willingness to change the foundation you've previously built. Times are changing and actions speak louder than most words I think it's time Feral-Heart changed too.

Thank you for coming to my TedTalk, have a wonderful day!

Also to all who may or may not respond to this post, DO NOT attack staff or generally anybody, nobody deserves this as everyone has an opinion that may differ from your own, in which case you should respect that even given the circumstances and situation at hand. Attacking people or threatening them solves absolutely nothing, so please if you wish to voice your opinion, do so civilly.

There many thing Has happened when you weren't online, Bloo... Well, links to posts are above (I say posts, cuz these removed could be just hidden).

For Lark - unfortunamently I agree. I could understand a little blocking censorship thread but hiding/removing needed discussions? Really? I'm sad and confused. Anyone delated these threads, it was bad step. Very bad. As someone said already (I don't remember who, so sorry) as staff would be muting community, as community will scream louder.

I'm not attacing staff here. But I just wanna know - why are you doing this? Banning FHU staff. Now delating these threads. At beeginning I defented staff, but... with these steps i'm really not sure what is right for now.

As Laarikin said, there are links that have been posted multiple times and deleted before.
But I would like to drop them in again for everyone to see, including Bloo. who has missed out on this information.

Here's the video: 2020 FH AMV: Sweet Caroline
Here's the Google Doc, which is updated every time we have more information: EVERYONE GOT BEANED OMEGALUL (Please read this document to it's entirety. I know it's a lot but we have a lot of valuable information, including stuff about the admins actions outside of this specific situation. Thanks!)

It's been said before my many people over and over again but I'd like to restate it also.
We are not here to attack. We do not hate Feral Heart nor the staff.
We want to be heard and action to be taken. We want positive change.

Adding on to this statement, the reason why the titles are the way they are is because you wont take us seriously. Therefore, the golden rule applies.

I will delete the video if all of our bans are taken off the record and undone, the community will get an apology, and Birdie and her friend get private apologies. I don't care if they are genuine or not.

Thank you.

Maybe Raz will toss a bone our way at some point to clear the air. He could freeze the site again like he did a while back ago with his screenshot post. Just to at least stop all these new threads being created and deleted and created again, so he can explain why or something. Who knows tho. Thank you Laarikin for keeping your post calm/civil, was able to read through it without getting fired up lol.

What else are we supposed to do? I can add more to the 'ultimatum' if you want, Bloo. I'm sick and tired of this.

Look at this. This is not okay. This screenshot was posted in a server a few minutes ago.

Personally, I just want to know what staff has to say for themselves. I am only guessing that the fhU related "silencings" were 100% planned, as with those that were "silenced" before they even had a chance to have their voices heard. People are going to keep posting and keep posting and keep posting until you guys say something of value instead of redirecting. Eventually you're going to run the entire community out of your game. Just look at the numbers.

You shouldn't claim to know things you don't and state them as if they are fact. That's all I have to say about this thread.

Can the false claims be explained/ironed out then? Genuinely- if any of the claims Laarkin made were incorrect or inaccurate, could you please explain what truly is going on?

Because from my perspective, as someone who has silently been watching this all go down up until this point, nothing is incorrect about those claims. Nothing is far-fetched. I've watched things get locked or flat out disappear. I know people who were directly affected. Everyone is confused and frustrated by the lack of explanation and communication, and I believe it will only get worse the more and more it's pushed to the side. The more it's swept under the rug, the more irate the community gets.

And I know- I understand all of this may fall into the drama category, which the forum rules do not support. But, speaking on behalf of others, I believe a lot of folks are simply trying to find answers/unity, as opposed to blatantly starting problems.

So, with all due respect, I would like to know where we're wrong if we're wrong. I would like to know what's causing this cascade. Feralheart means a lot to a lot of people, myself included. Many of us have grown up with it to some degree, and have been there for all the big shifts. So again, I think I speak for a lot of people when I say that we don't want to see this happening. We don't want this unrest to be occurring. Especially during a year where unrest is so prevalent already. We just want to come to this game as a type of safe space.

And I think the foundation of any safe space is open communication. Also please, I'm not trying to start further trouble, nor am I pointing fingers. I understand everyone is thoroughly frustrated. I just feel further communication is what this situation needs.

1. The staff evals are anonymous, I don't know what y'all expected when trolls can easily take advantage of this. Also! This doesn't make anyone else's civil opinion any less valid. You think you're the only ones in staff history who got messages like that?
2. Don't act like you all didn't vote and name names on who to ban on the forums, you all were in kahoots with that.
3. You're going to blame someone with genuine concerns pinned against a couple of comments on the staff evaluations when they aren't even correlated. If that's your excuse as to why you guys went off the rocker and started banning people, my condolences to your game. You can't blame everyone else.
4. Stop acting like you're the only ones sick and tired. If you couldn't tell, your community is done with this. They just wanted genuine answers, but instead all that's been done is shifting blame.

Thanks for everyone who responded civilly. I wish this game luck.

This still..... is a horrible response, honestly.

The people who are sending terrible things (like death threats)? Those people are not us, they do not represent us, and we do not agree with them in any way. We have already condemned those kinds of actions and asked people to stop.

Aside from that, you're still dodging what we're saying and this is why we keep going.

The staff here are unprofessional, "corrupt", and "abuse" their powers. You guys don't listen to us and that will be the reason why this game dies. We're not here to see the game die, we're here to see it thrive. But you guys won't let it thrive. If you care about Feral Heart so much, please clean the wax out of your ears, wipe the sleep from your eyes, and please pay attention to what the community has to say.

Even people who were on the staff's side are starting to see what's going on and are turning sides. You're not convincing anyone of anything, especially that pity party of a first sentence.

And to say we have "no idea" is absolutely disgusting and I'm appalled that you even thought to say that. I cannot believe I read a moderator, someone with power, say that.

Bloo. You can't use this as a "gotcha". All the people arguing have made a point to tell people not to harass staff. The actions of some rogue people don't undo the real criticism you're facing. Anon hate sucks, and I'm sorry you're getting it. But if you want us to "stop pretending that we know things" then perhaps you could tell us things? Some clarity and transparency would've stopped this whole thing from the beginning

At the end of the day, ever single "drama" that's every erupted on this site (which in my opinion is usually just some, albeit sometimes heated, criticism. Ignoring the people to take it as a chance to lash out, of course.) comes down to lack of transparency

If you tell us things, then we can stop making assumptions. Because then we won't have to guess why staff are behaving the way they do.

And when I say tell us things, I mean prove them. You guys have, frankly, trashed a lot of the trust you might have had. Screenshots are needed.

Eh, no matter what happens I'll stick around. I personally don't know what is happening on the staff side of things but I do worry for them. With everything they have dealt within FH's past and still having to deal with it now, it sucks. Coulda been Raz doing most of this deleting and banning but he hasn't spoken up about it yet. Coulda been more drama than any of us know behind the scenes. People say the staff have a job to do but they aren't even getting paid, so mad respect to them from me. I woulda left ages ago lol.

We stick around because we care about this community and want to help it. A lot of people already have left or are in the process of leaving, those of us sticking around are trying, once again, to get our voices and our concerns heard.

This is from a genuine place of wanting somewhere I spent 7 years to flourish. I made some of my best friends here. I want the best for this game. Which is why I continue to chime in. Saying "lol just leave" in response to people presenting problems you can fix to better your community is horrid behavior for a moderator or any staff member.

We are not sick of the game. If we were, we wouldn't be trying to make an effort.

We are sick of that exact same behavior you keep exerting over and over again. But you're right Bloo, maybe we should all dip if we really care enough to speak out since we are 'sick of the game,' thank you for the advice.

If you were still in FN, like the some of FH staff is, you'd know what was going on, and that their behavior is not only condoned, but inspired by Raz. (@wolfdog)

Jace I left that server because of drama. Because of the hype FHU was getting and the trash talk FH was getting. It was so very frustrating when you had your own channel and your own Patreon discord server. I am so glad I left now, seeing all this, saved me a lot of anxiety lol.

The problem isn't the game itself. We're not asking for forum updates. We're asking that you guys take accountability for your actions when you're wrong. And we haven't seen anyone do that. At all. Lord Suragaha literally soft-doxxed someone and it was just.... brushed over. Nothing happened.

Raz is the one behind the progress of these updates, additionally he's also the one not allowing us to share that progress. Once again, it is out of our hands but who's taking the blame?

I'd love to send proof of the threats and the nasty messages, I mean absolutely God awful, sickening messages we get, but they greatly go against the forums rules.

We stay because we care. We're here on this thread because we care. We're not here to damage the game. Quite the opposite actually- we want to see it flourish again. I've been playing this game off and on since 2011. I've been through all the giant updates and changes. I know there have to be a TON of veteran players like myself, who just want the best for the game/community they've grown up with. If I didn't care, I could have EASILY peaced out/not spoken up. Same with everyone else.

But no- there are problems. We're addressing those problems. We're attempting to iron out those problems. And we're trying to level out any sour relationships. But what that requires is open communication and explanation.

Why would that be frustrating? FN has never been an official home for FH players. In fact they don't like that there is a discord server that was so closely tied.

Give us a reason why not to be excited for a game whose staff was neglected at best, by Raz, went out on their own and found Kovu, to get permission to run a server that listens and truly, openly, communicates as much as possible with their ever growing community.

fhU is what fh could've been if Raz didn't ignore and neglect his staff.

That is also not what all the hubbub is about right now.

Okay. But what about Sura's soft-doxing? What about the fact ex-mods and admins still have admin/mod powers in-game?

The staff say you can't control Raz, and sure, you can't, but if he's just doing whatever he wants, then what's the point of staff?

Raz won't let you talk about game progress. Okay. Sure. Why don't you just tell us what you're planning on doing about staff blatantly breaking the rules then? And the lack of basic maintenance like removing old staff?

Then you acknowledge that you have nothing really to add to the conversation except more frustration. And that you have no answers for us. And that, using your admittedly new position as a mod, you've likely just worsened the staff's image by getting quite passive aggressive.

I'm saying this trying to point out that you are not in a position to be speaking down to us "if we only knew what was going on behind the scenes" as it seems you are as out of the loop and upset as we are.

As staff it is your job to be civil even when the members are not. That is your job as the ones who signed up to keep the order. You are still human, and you are allowed to make mistakes and get angry. But it's your job to maintain civility, and therefore it is your responsibility to own your mistakes and step back when you feel you are too upset to do your job.

Your comment was the exact opposite of that.

Just another comment in the wind, don't mind me.

I mean this sincerely and with no intent to insult- how are staff convincing themselves that this is absolutely the most professional, mature, and constructive means to handle this situation?

I've been watching and reading through this since it started a few days ago and I'm amazed how terribly this has been treated. No point in restating things, since that gets avoided in favor of acknowledging how the staff are doing first and foremost, but you all know what I mean. Also no point in bringing up the past threads- my focus is in this one. I don't presume to know staff, not what they're going through, and not what they've got going among themselves. But this? Passive aggressive one-liners? "Leave if you don't like it?" "We've done what we can?" "You don't know what's going on behind the scenes."

Well yes, that's the point. Transparency has been a major want from the community for I don't know how long. Sure, updates are nice. New things are lovely to have. But what's the use when the staff, the people who are supposed to be running the show, don't change at all?

Anyway, my main point, as this thread updates by the minute, is that staff have absolutely no reason to be jumping into every thread putting their opinion in. Well thought out and carefully researched [with evidence as the cherry on top] posts are coming from the opposition, sealing it off with civil statements that they do not want staff to be bullied and that FH is still their passion. The staff? Half-hearted remarks, "blunt" statements, contradicting statements, no essence of accountability, nor recognition of wrong-doing. The mention of anon hate is unfortunate, but also irrelevant to the people here trying their best to get something positive done.

People were quick to want proof about the wrongs committed these past few days, but the favor isn't being returned on your end. This is a circle because instead of truly tackling the issue, it's being dodged, redirected, or completely muddled by various perspectives from what's supposed to be a united staff team.

As stated by others, you're people. Everyone knows that. People make mistakes, people get heated. But as staff of a rather large community, it is your job and responsibility, I say this generally not individually, to be professional, mature, and the safe figure people can look up to. Paid work or not, you accepted the title and therefore the responsibility to do so. This is not an opinion, it is the truth, and so far it looks like it's an awfully difficult concept to grasp.

I believe many have reached a point where they're beyond "being civil," because there are still no answers. There is still zero justification for anything that has happened. A lot of users, like myself, are just wanting some sort of explanation, some sort of open communication! Yes, we're all frustrated. Yes, we're all human and acting out of annoyance. Like y'all, I can only say it so many times as respectfully as I can manage: we need communication and answers.

There's a sort of giant wall up. You're seeing it from your perspective, and we're seeing it from ours. So that needs to be broken down!

You signed up for what is essentially a customer service job. This is what customer service is, and in my experience we've been a lot more civil than what you'd get working retail.

And like you said, you're not being paid. If you feel the responsibilities of a moderator are too demanding, you can leave any time you like.

But yes, as a representative of the FH staff team, essentially working in customer service and representing a brand, it is your job to remain professional

Mate, nobody is personally targeting you. We're replying to you. We're still being as civil as we can be about this. And you're not being "calm and professional". This is actually the most uncalm and unprofessional I've seen ANYONE. Not even just on FeralHeart. It's incredibly disgusting and disappointing and I can't believe these are words coming out of a MODERATOR'S mouth.

You shouldn't have replied in the first place because as you admitted yourself, you don't know the full situation. You weren't here to see it all. We have been, though. And at this point... they weren't opinions. You were being passive-aggressive and acting like you were factual and we weren't. It's upsetting the way things are being ran here and we're calling for change, accountability, and for everyone to be unbanned and apologized to.

However you'd like to interpret it, I'm human just as you all are, y'all seem to forget we donate our time to this game, we dont get paid. I have to stay absolutely calm and professional while I'm personally targeted and you guys can just go off? I guess so.

I'll just roll over and back off of this thread, sorry for my opinions lol

Mate, nobody is personally targeting you. We're replying to you. We're still being as civil as we can be about this. And you're not being "calm and professional". This is actually the most uncalm and unprofessional I've seen ANYONE. Not even just on FeralHeart. It's incredibly disgusting and disappointing and I can't believe these are words coming out of a MODERATOR'S mouth.

We have not targeted you. There has been no passive aggression or talking-down like you have done. We have provided evidence for our claims and have stated clearly what we want, and yet you dodge the question and claim victim.

We are being civil, but we are not letting you dodge the point, if you call the "targeting" then I don't know what to tell you.

Okay, this thread says I can't leave forum alone for TEN MINUTES. Excellent.

It looks like There's only one person who can solve it.

Raz.

what would raz do to fix this? just shut everything down like he's done before?

Why should we turn to authority when many who he's put in a position of power are abusing that power.
(Ex, "soft" doxxing, unjust removal and punching-down of criticism)
How can you possibly trust him to handle this?

Whoever is making people disappear needs to address why that's happening (perhaps not explaining each individual case, since that'd be an alleged break of the rules; just in regards to the current situation as a whole). Whoever is deleting posts needs to explain why that's happening. Because this has caused such a response, motives need to be visible to the community. Yes, we don't know what's going on behind the scenes. But why don't we? Why is that shrouded in such secrecy? It might help us get a better understanding of what all is going on. Maybe now is the time for us to know.

Dodging topics, dancing around questions, and deleting...ironically falls back into the issue of "censorship." And we shouldn't be two separate sides here. We're a community.

In the effort that nothing is properly addressed and this "war" waged between everyone continues, here are a few negotiable terms for FH staff to make amends for the mistake made.

Razmirz
As someone who wanted Spirit banned in the first place for false rumors, it is your duty to hold yourself accountable and apologize to xSpirit for the harm your rumors caused. You should also apologize to your current staff for creating further havoc that brought them down the rabbit hole with you.

Suragaha
For your constant and pressing attacks targeted to specific members of the community, it would be in your best interest to not only apologize to those you targeted, but to hold yourself accountable. Punishments should be in order for an abuse of power, a list is provided for your choice.

1. Termination (removed of your position entirely)
2. Demotion (promptly dropped to Moderator)
3. Abstinence (you will remain uninvolved in future FH projects for the next 3 projects, not contributing one ounce to what is decided)
4. Exposition (you will create a public post apologizing to the community as well as exposing your wrong doings, allowing the community to witness your mistakes as well as what went down in the staff room during your ban-spree decision)

Ressy
You will be the one to post a new helpline thread and dedicate your time creating an easy and suitable guided topic to assure the safety of your community. You and Ame will create a public apology highlighting your disagreement, and work toward creating a new thread to help provide a safe haven for community members.

FH Staff
You will comply and contribute to a public announcement detailing why you chose to agree to the banning spree and apologize for your behavior. You will also publicly contribute to exploiting your alt accounts used to target community members and apologize for exploiting information used to target others. Together, you will all form a post and create and rewrite a new safety policy that allows users to request account termination if they find their information as been compromised. You will also allow users who have been banned on the forums from any time presently into the future, adding a section to the forum for banned users to appeal a ban or have their account terminated upon request.

Furthermore, FHU and FH will be kept separate and all rumors spread by either team will be subject to be removed promptly and swiftly. Both sides will be left alone, and allow both games to run independently without rumors or strife.

Thank you for your consideration.

Anonymous asked:

Hey, did you know all the ad revenue goes to fund Raz's own personal server system and like none of actually goes back into FH itself and we've been running on straight up bandaged diarrhea ? Cool cool cool

I did not know that, but thank you my sweet anon for the information

I wonder if they actually believe they're under some NDA.

I highly doubt Raz has made anyone sign any NDAs, so the fact they're just like "yeah can't be transparent, soz. Its because uh.. uh. hey look over there!" is literally mindblowing

Solar Today at 8:18 PM

I mean

I can assure: Low post count  $\neq$  inactive/alt

alphaeclipse Today at 8:19 PM

That is true

Supposedly it is post count dependent on the typical SMF forum, for example a newbie may not be able to post but a sr. member could

Unless the admins have some other ability to individually target, they definitely went that route.

Hi, I'd like to take a moment to show you all something that a good handful of people are experiencing in the Feral Neighborhood server! This also effects new accounts, as I've learned while in the middle of typing this.

We made a thread a while back titled "Let's have a talk about censorship," which asked why was the mental health resource thread that xSpirit made in December suddenly deleted. Everything eventually delved into how Feral Heart staff are abusing their powers to censor people who speak out against them. What happened to that thread? It got locked, so nobody else can talk about the unfair censorship happening on the forums. 2 more threads appeared after, one condemning the actions of Feral Heart staff's behavior ("Wow...") and another about how Feral Heart staff have possibly violated their own privacy policy ("privacy policy concerns"). What happened to those threads? They didn't just get locked, they also got moved to a board that only Feral Heart staff can see, thus censoring the situation further by hiding everything that happened. Right now, there's 2 more threads up, "Imagine Proving a Point" and this one. Everything has been backed up with screenshots and put on the Wayback Machine.

This right here in just 2 of the images I gathered out of all the ones being shared in the server, is BLATANT censoring. You're not even trying to hide it anymore and it's repulsive and appalling. I have no other words for how this situation makes me feel. It sparks a kind of sadness inside of me, especially seeing how in one thread you told a member that there is no need to be rude to those with opposing views because when you open a discussion thread, you must be open to discussion .

Feral Heart staff.

We want to believe in you. We want to trust you. But right now.... we can't.

You guys are corrupt, unprofessional, and have been consumed with power. Your hearts are filled with a lust to control.

Despite all this, we do not hate you and do not have ill intent for you or this game. The rouges who have sent death threats are not us and are not represented by us and we actively agree that those actions are terrible and we condemn those people. But this is not meant to be weaponized against us and this does not invalidate our genuine concerns and criticism. If the rouges are affecting you this badly, please step down from your position and away from your device and come back with a calm, rational head.

Please clean the wax out of your ears, wipe the sleep from your eyes, and pay attention (That may sound rude but that's not the intention). We aren't asking much of you. We are trying our best to give you a chance, even when met with such passive aggressiveness and poor responses.

Communicate with us, the community, and with yourselves (including you, Razmirz). There are no more excuses, exaggerations, hyperbole, sugarcoating, jokes, nothing.

Unban the others and let's have a direct conversation about this.

If anything in these posts gets hidden/removed/deleted or any of these actual posts gets hidden/removed/deleted... you're proving our point.

If this thread gets locked, hidden, and/or deleted... you're proving our point.

Do not turn this into a "dictatorship".

You dont think we're sick and tired? Lol if you guys could only read the disgusting anonymous messages we've been slammed with in the staff evals. You have no idea so stop pretending you do to make a point.

This is an example of acting in a way that has to do with emotions. If you have been receiving nasty messages, then that's wrong. However, taking it out on the rest of the users that have legitimate concerns does not pan out. When someone is a moderator, the best course of action is to treat things as not personal, but for the betterment of the community. Take criticism and use it to alter your own actions to make things more clear, and be more professional about them. I've seen things being claimed as harassment in threads that clearly weren't. A staff member is just that, a staff member, it's important to push personal feelings aside and do what's best for the community. Responding to the community in a manner that isn't aggressive or flippant.

When discussing problems, and interacting with people normally, there is a big difference of how it should be handled. Interactions with people normally, be yourself. When doing anything involved with the staff, it's time to put on a professional persona and forge through it. There's a time and place for everything, and a proper way to handle things.

There are serious issues here, and getting defensive instead of re-evaluating everything will not work. Bias, will not work. There hasn't even been a proper apology for putting a user's security at risk. The staff have responsibility to deal with situations maturely instead of silencing users. Being combative doesn't help anything, silencing people only festers more issues. If pride and doubling down on things that are making a lot of people unhappy is how something is being dealt with, then the staff needs a serious revamp or a leader that can properly guide them and teach them how to act professionally. They also need to take personal accountability instead of trying to shut people up and make it all go away. It's not going to work. You can remove as many users as you want, it's only going to hurt the game. It's not like FH has such a plethora of users that things can so easily be overlooked as small isolated cases.

On that note, Laarikan, you are absolutely correct. I'd like to formally apologize to everyone regarding my behavior earlier in this discussion. I was frustrated and let my emotions get the best of me, I can't say whether or not my heavy medication contributed or not, but regardless it was immature, irresponsible, and unprofessional for me to have reacted the way I did.

I can understand if this apology goes unaccepted, but I wanted to do it anyways because it was eating me up for awhile. You all make really great points and I really hope you see the changes you want in a capacity that benefits everyone.
