The Library Booklist:

You will not need most of these, but libraries vary greatly in their offerings, and children vary greatly in their preferences, so the list of options is long. The first list are the books that I think are the most important. The second list is book substitutions-although the first list works for that as well-and special interests of the student. Then we have the lists for "read aloud," "some can read independently," and "most can read independently."
