Welcome!=

<center><small>"None of this would happen if it weren't for The M.E.O.W. King (for making the series), Rare Dandidoo (for reviving it), and Chilly Bean BAM! (for reviving it again, and making the wiki). Thanks!"</small> <hr />

"Welcome to the biggest RP in the wiki, ""In a Locked Room""! Despite the name, you aren't in a locked room. Traverse through different areas across the world and the multiverse, based off videogames, movies, or just your plain imagination! Interact with anyone and anything! Complete crazy challenges! Defeat mad villains! There's so much to do here in the endless multiverse trail, but only one thing matters: You and your friends must escape the rooms!

Rules=

Just like any other RP, laLR has rules you must follow.

===General Rules===

"Don't use other people's characters without their permission." Exception is if you co-own them (i.e. got permission), or if they are free-use. Mind-controlling a character for a brief time is okay, but playing as someone else's character without it being free-use or co-owned is bad.

Same goes for alternate universe counterparts: Unless the owner gives you permission to make an AU version, you can't make an AU version.

"No godmodding." You can't just make a character step to the right and magically solve everything! It ruins the plot, the fun, and can cause a lot of problems. We had a case of this with the character "Script" in Season 1B.

"Follow the plot if needed." Nobody likes a derailed episode!

"No spamming." It just fills up the episode with useless crap, thus leading to derailment of plot.

"Swears are allowed, only if they are censored." Minor cusses like "crap" are allowed uncensored.

"No chronological errors." In a Locked Room's "Challenge" episode styles take place in June-August 2016. "Post-Challenge" and other episode styles take place in the present day.

"Mentioning real-life companies, places, and other stuff won't break the 4th wall." laLR's Earth is supposed to be similar to real-life Earth, except with a few fictional places, people and items added.

"Do not join if you plan on ruining this RP." If you're just here to spam and spew hate among other stuff, you are ABSOLUTELY not welcome.

===Thread reservations===

*When the episode ends its story, we will think of creating another room. If the episode ends at 300 posts and hasn't even completed its story yet, we will make a new part.

*If the next episode is reserved, that episode must be made. Example is if the next room is Episode B, it shouldn't be Episode C. Go check [[w:c:in-a-locked-room:Template:Navbox laLRepisodes|this link]] for a list of episodes.

*Same case goes for the outro as well.

Exceptions are if the next episode is set in the present and/or after the gang retires from the LR Challenge (which is September 2, 2016-present).

Signup=

You're free to sign up for laLR! All you have to do, is just barge in! However, you must explain what your characters are, and all that junk.

If you are planning to join in a Post-Challenge episode, your characters know who the other characters are and vice versa, since they already met up in the rooms. This is to prevent chronological errors from happening.

Confused? =

If you are confused about who are the other characters, what are the episodes, and other oddball questions, then join the laLR Wiki! It's your go to place for all the info about your favorite roleplay. It also functions as a place to hangout with your favorite roleplayers!

So, join now if you're interested! The link is above this tabber box.

Templates =

If you're planning to make the next episodes, use these templates!

===Challenge Episodes===

Your classic area. It usually goes like this: The gang must complete tasks, fight a villain (if there is one), and find the key to the exit door. But it doesn't always have to follow that pattern: you can make an episode with no real plot!

===Post-Challenge Episodes===

Takes place after the gang retired from the Locked Room Challenge. In this episode, the gang is usually doing normal activities. The episode may or may not have a plot. The episode doesn't have to be about the gang relaxing, it can have a plot similar to Challenge Episodes!
