What is a clairvoyant?

Someone that sees things that others cannot, this may be spirit or energy or a vision that transports the viewer to another time or place or set of eventualities.

Wikipedia says “The term clairvoyance (from French clair meaning “clear” and voyance meaning “vision”) is used to refer to the ability to gain information about an object, person, location or physical event through means other than the known human senses, a form of extra-sensory perception. A person said to have the ability of clairvoyance is referred to as a clairvoyant (“one who sees clearly”).”

A clairvoyant is something other than a medium, clairvoyants see and experience more of the world than those less sensitive, this may include seeing energy and visions, experiencing sound and smell and sensations, they are connected to the living world and not the dead.

What is a medium by Wiki definition is “Mediumship is defined as the practice of certain people—known as mediums—to mediate communication between spirits of the dead and other human beings. While no evidence has been accepted by the scientific community in support of the view that there has been communication between the living and the dead, some parapsychologists say that some of their research suggests that such communication may have taken place. The practice is associated with several religious belief systems such as Spiritualism, Spiritism, Candomblé, Voodoo, Umbanda and some New Age groups.”

- Hi Chrissie, I have had a strange experience for the second time. The first time was several years ago but recently I was when I was in a building I am very familiar with I had a very strange feeling and a series of memories comes over me. I can interact with other people but it is like a film in my head. I do not recognize these thoughts. After it is over I can't remember anything and I have a terrible headache. I have looked all over the Internet and I can't find anything like it described. Any idea of what is going on?

4. Hi Effie, thanks for your comment. The concept is not really a concept at all, pretty basic and couldn't be simpler to understand really – psychic-forum and clairvoyant-forum – the names of the domains – tarot readings, crystals and reiki healing – being just a few of the main forum discussion topics.

I was born on the 21st of the 11th 1988 in Sydney, Australia with a birthmark the shape of a bullet wound on my stomach. I was born into a disadvantaged family and was taught nothing by my parents and was neglected in many ways. I grew up to be a troublesome and rebellious child who questioned everything. But deep down I knew, from a very young age, that I was somewhat different from everybody else. But I just didn't know how I was different, I just always felt out of place. As my parents are drug addicts, I soon followed suit and became one myself from when I was a teen up until a few months ago. I have had a ruff run in life, I have learned everything the hard way and I have seen the worst of poverty, drugs, and crime. Even though it took me approximately a decade to give up drugs, I could never give up my fascination I have always had for the universe as I have indulged myself into its mystery of the universe as far as I can remember. That fascination alone, I believe, has led me to the path I walk today.

Although I have been fascinated with the universe as far as I can remember, I am also fascinated with computers and over the space of 5 years I managed to teach myself a vast array of programming & scripting languages which led to me developing gameservers, websites, and software after I managed to afford my very first PC due to a government grant. I use to be an aggressive atheist and did not believe in God to the point where I would be banned from scripture in primary school, for aggressively questioning things in the bible that either didn't make sense to me or seemed far-fetched. After years of programming, and the world at my fingertips(the internet), I soon developed a larger IQ along with a complex way of thinking and started what I can only describe as "the search for the meaning of life".

I started my search by going straight to what I knew was the source of life, the big bang. I soon discovered Quantum Physics and after years of extensive research I developed my own philosophy of life and became a believer of God, or what I like to call, the master-mind behind this astronomically advanced program-like illusion we call reality. At the time, I described this as "my own religion".

But then, I started to get overwhelming urges to look at the time and started to see 11.11 on clocks all the time, and from my understanding on how the universe works, that seemed a mathematical impossibility to me. One day I got a thought to Google

"why do I keep seeing 11.11". This is when my life started to change, as I realized, what I thought was "my own religion" is actually called "spirituality".

I have always had an anxious feeling about changing the world in some way, with a sense of urgency, and after searching for the meaning to 11.11, I couldn't take my eyes off a link on the webpage saying "lightworker". I soon clicked it and the description it gave me related to me on so many levels, not only due to the fact it answered why I have always had an anxious feeling about changing the world, it also led me to the meaning of birthmarks and the significance of 11 being in your birth date and much more. I learned I have every single trait a lightworker does. But this, this was only the beginning of my journey.

I started seeing 11.11 late last year and since then I have been seeing 5.55, 3.33 mostly with the occasional 2.22, 4.44 and even 1.11, but I still get the odd 11.11, even to the point of me waking up out of a sleep to look at the time, without realizing what I am doing, and my eyes locking onto the time at 11.11. Since the end of last year, I have been on the biggest roller coaster of my life, and I have gone through more this year alone, than I have ever gone through my whole life. I have learned so many lessons this year alone and I have gone through so much pain. I cannot begin to explain the things I have learned from each and every lesson which seems to be just piling up as time goes on, it's like I am evolving by the day on a level I cannot begin to explain. I have even come close to a massive breakdown over a relationship and come close to killing myself before a dragon-fly totem seemed to appear in my living room, aggressively fluttering around until I looked at it. It then stopped and flew next to the light and stayed there showing me a bronze color. It wouldn't move even the slightest bit and I woke up with it dead on my window frame...if you know or research the meaning behind a dragonfly totem, you will understand I needed that message more than anything in the world at that point of time.

Before I continue, I must explain how I had a face-to-face psychic reading over 10 years ago which I am still confused with how he could have possibly got it all correct, to mathematical precision. I am going to keep the details of the things he told me private, as they are pretty personal, but he told me everything about the relationships I have had this year, he told me the numbers 5 and 3 are strangely significant in my life, and I am here for some sort of "divine" or "higher" purpose and I have had many lives. He also told me a certain year will be a very big year for me to do with the numbers 3 and 5 ($3 \times 5 = 15$, 2015) along with many many other things that have come true to mind-boggling precision. There is only a couple left out of the dozen odd things he told me, and I can almost predict the last couple are most definitely going to happen as I can see them falling into place, day by day. He also said the last couple of things will happen around my birthday, which is just over 2 months away, and if they do come true, he managed to hit the head on the nail with the "big year thing" as 99% of them happened this year, not to mention my massive growth in consciousness.

I now have come to the understanding that 3.33 or simply 3 means I am guided by my grandfather who has recently past as I cannot begin to explain the feeling I got when I was sitting down with a spiritual girl(who seems to absorb peoples emotions and bring mine out which I can't seem to do alone) who said to me, when I was saying I was guided by God, that "No, you are guided by your grandfather.", it shocked me as she stopped, and asked me bluntly "Has an older male figure died recently you loved?", and I said "Yes, my grandfather", that is when she told me I am guided by my grandfather and I instantly got an overwhelming hot/cold feeling that brought me to tears. I also have come to the understanding that 5 means change, and 5.55 means big, almost forced change is either coming or just happened, as I see 5 all the time when something is about to change and then it does. But one day when I lost control, I seemed to have a burst of anger with a massive release of acceptance and made a phone call that changed everything right before my eyes locked onto the clock at 5.55. If I didn't make that phone call I would of went through so much more pain at a time when I was struggling to deal with it at all, by holding on to my outlook, which was an illusion-based outlook.

I have come fascinated with the precision of tarot readings since early this year and use an online program to ask questions with crazily accurate responses every time. I almost use it to predict the future, but that is not what it is doing, it is simply giving me insight of the outcome based on my question.

This is what brought me here today, I stumbled across the number 9 encoded into some of the laws of physics. For instance, there is 360 degrees in a circle, $3+6+0=9$, when you halve that you come to 180 degrees, $1+8+0=9$, halve it again to 90 degrees, $9+0=9$, halve that yet again to 45 degrees, $4+5=9$, and halve that yet again to 22.5 degrees, $2+2+5=9$, and again to 12.25, $1+2+2+5=9$, if you add up all the minutes to a day you come to 1440 minutes, $1+4+4+0=9$, if you add up all the numbers from 1 to 9 you get 45, $4+5=9$, and if you times and number with 9 you will get a result that can be added into 9, example $9 \times 9 = 81(8+1=9)$ or $9 \times 7 = 63(6+3=9)$. But what was very strange is when I told my friend about this, his instant reaction was "I am going to put money on number 9 for the horses", I then got a weird feeling and encouraged him to do it with a strange sense that it will win without a doubt, He soon came back and told me that he tried 3 times but the number 9 horse was scratched, all 3 times, but the 4th time he put money on number 9 and it won!

At the time, I was tossing up the idea of creating a complex algorithm in a program to shuffle and display tarot cards but in a past, present, and future format as I have been using this spread with great results. But my idea is to perfect the algorithm to a working state where I can get accurate readings off of it and re-brand it into a modern version of ancient tarot and strategically market it to the world to help change peoples lives with positive readings as it has done so much with me. I wish to re-brand it in a way where the common person can understand the science behind it, rather than the standard tarot brand people have learned to stereotype. I want people to stop looking at it as a "card game" and more along the lines of a "message from the angels".

I have a strong feeling about this, and my questions about it are getting positive answers, I keep being told, along these lines, that in the past position(what I have just done, started to manifested this idea) that I have all the tools necessary to succeed in my goal, and in the present position(how I am feeling, a sense of inability) that I need to use perseverance to achieve the desired outcome regardless of what people think of the idea now, and in the future position(what will happen if I stay on my path) that I will reach a level of accomplishment, and I will be admired for what I have achieved and everyone will then see my vision and embrace it. I have had around 10 readings on this question, and each and every time, I get a result along those lines. I was also told in one of the final outcomes, that I may lock paths with someone with the same outlook as me and it will magnitude the outcome. This is why I am here, as I have had the urge to get this story out to others, and couldn't go to sleep last night(the 5th) and ended up jumping out of bed to try find another forum(as I failed to find an active one before) and stumbled across this forum for the first time. What is holding me back, is being able to interpret tarot cards properly, I just don't want to "try" to do it and get it wrong. Are you the one that is interested in helping me develop this modern tarot program by using your psychic expertise to interpret each card for a accurate reading? If so, please contact me via pm.

Thank you so much for reading my story, sorry it was long but I hope I got it all out.

Hi everyone! I have been doing my meditations mostly focusing on my guides and chakras. Today I tried a new meditation where I state explicitly that no low vibrational beings be allowed in. Within the first minute I heard a man right at my ear say "get up".

This startled me a bit and I am wondering why this would happen. Is it possible that this voice came from the place I stated that nothing come from? All of my previous meditations have been with music and today's was not. Maybe he is always there and I just can't hear him because of the music?

This is something that kept me from meditating in the past, does anyone have any ideas on this?

There may be a deeper meaning for that advice to "get up".

Why are mediums predominantly women?

This, I think, will prove to be a good discussion prompt. Why are psychic mediums predominantly women? (In fact, women are more prone to possess greater intuition overall, I'd say) I think most here could agree they are. I'm interested to hear some responses.

I have been developing my own theory. I feel women, who possess obviously a feminine energy, are more prone to possess the ability to communicate with the other "realm" because of their very nature. As opposed to men. Women are the bearers of life. We all were conceived and came into our literal beings inside a woman. If and when we attained a soul, it occurred in the womb of a woman. I am lead to think that this correlation between women and life force is the same correlation that allows women to more easily act as conduits for Spirit.

Well, where does that leave men? (Part two of my discussion prompt). As a man, I'm interested in how I fit into the picture. I'm not trying to start up some gender-theory debate. Nor am I trying to promote gender roles. (I'm a social scientist, remember 😊) Men are certainly part 2 of the equation. I think men have an equal importance in Spirit somewhere along the line, I'm just not sure where.

Thoughts? Ideas? Go!

V.

Some interesting points there Vronsky. I wonder if it is something more simple though. Could it be that, until recent years, some men still thought it wasn't macho to even show their emotions in public never mind admit to the ability of communicating with spirits. Where as most women don't have a problem with, either, showing their emotions or, admitting that they are in tune with their spiritual side. Times are changing though and it has become more fashionable for males to show their more sensitive side with less ridicule than in the past.

I do not think that the majority of psychics/mediums are women. It is more the opposite actually. The majority of the best psychics/mediums around are in fact gay men. This is true here in the UK where most of the tv psychics/mediums are gay men. Colin Fry, Tony Stockwell, Gordon Smith and David Wells are just some of them off the top of my head. I do not know much about psychics/mediums in the US but but i do know that James Van Praagh born in New York is also gay.

I think the question been asked here really should be why are most top psychics/mediums gay men.

So maybe I should rather ask, why are the minority straight men? Reagrless, let's discuss it all!

maybe gay men are more in touch with their feminine side and have more of the feminine attributes.

I am 100% a straight male and believe me when i say this i love women but i do think that Legna has a point about psychic men been in touch with their feminine side. My intuition/psychic senses have been growing stronger an stronger now for quite a few years and strangely enough i have been getting more and more feminine in lots of ways. Been in to things like angels,crystals,meditation and developing spiritually are seen as girly things to do around here where i live. Actually it was only last week that my father was having a go at me,asking me in his broad Yorkshire accent if i was turning queer and that was only after seeing a multi colored crystal beaded bracelet that i was wearing. He then teased me asking if i wanted a handbag.

Getting rid of my father's ghost

Hello everyone,

I have a big problem which has been going on for a long time and no matter what I've done I can't get any result. The thing is that since I was a child I had these so-called psychic gifts and they have matured over time now and are out of my hands. That would be much of a problem by itself, but my ability (read "curse") to communicate with the dead has turned my life too miserable for words to describe. My father died a few years ago, without going into much detail I can tell you that I didn't mourn and hardly ever felt sad. But now his cursed ghost appears before me talks to me and I even feel his touch. He mocks me; it's disgusting and it takes a lot of energy and focus to banish him back to wherever he belongs ("hell" I hope).

But his ghost keeps coming back and this is getting intolerable. I haven't met anyone who even believes what I say let alone anyone able to help me get rid of him for good, so i'm helpless and all I can hope for is to find someone here who can help me or at least give some useful advice.

These souls come to me and I never invite them for communication, although not all of them have been so annoying, for example my grandmother and my aunt. I have tried to cast a circle of protection, ask the friendlier ghosts to keep my poor excuse of a father away, but nothing has worked so far and I've only received temporary results, if any.

To be honest I've lost all belief in the reward and punishment in the afterlife as every time he appears he is happy! Smiling and even enjoying all the hatred I direct toward him, and he was no saint in life! He was a neglectful, abusive and useless psychopath who, if there's any heavenly justice, should be suffering and if he appears he should be in pain and agony, that's what he deserves, but from what I see it's quite the opposite and this is baffling.

Please, all advice and opinions are welcome. Bless you all

Hello and Welcome.

Reward and Punishment are not part of my belief systems either. The reason for your dad visiting so often may be to make things better between you and him. If you can envision that likely hood, then those visits may go more smoothly. I suspect that they will vanish once you appreciate the value(s) from that relationship. In my view, those that have caused the greatest misery in our life have been our greatest teachers.

Blessings

I wish my father would "pester" me the way yours does. I've been told he is quite busy where he is but he manages to appear in my dreams every once in awhile. Then again it seems I had a better relationship with my father than you have with yours. He seems to be hanging around until you resolve your animosity towards him. You might as well work towards doing so because from what you described he's doing well so you should find peace also. Life is too short.

Thank you both for your replies, I feel better now, maybe as you say it's some complicated lesson that I have to learn for some reason; learning to forgive my father even as he keeps pestering me, though I think I might have eventually done it and it would have been easier if he didn't come back. But I can't help thinking about the more likely alternative; that he's just pure evil and something must be done to get rid of him, curse him, exorcise him or something!

Hi, A circle of protection won't really help if you are seeing and hearing and apparently feeling spirits, the circle only holds off energy from the outside. What you need is to block your receiver, put a spanner in the communication works so to speak. At the moment you are an open receiver and those that have passed and that are familiar with you are tuning in far too easily.

The idea of a curse isn't any good because then you would have a cursed ghost bugging you lol. Exorcism etc wouldn't work because you are not possessing these ghosts they are just appearing, least that's what you seem to be saying.

So back to the spanner idea. Do you meditate?

If you do then you will understand more easily the idea of an energy 'spanner' you need to change your openness and frequency so that the unwanted ghosts cannot tune in to you so easily. See what I mean?

One way to do this is with psych medication from a doctor, have a checkup and tell them all about what you are experiencing and go from there.

Another way is to use psychic exercises to train your energy to block these unwanted elements. Using protection exercises and picking a charm that suits you perhaps a cloak of invisibility (a bit like Harry Potter, then disappear within it) or a mirror shield so no-ghost can see you. Get the idea?

If your destiny is before you then your fate must be behind you.

Destiny I meditate regularly and I get what you mean but not sure exactly how to do it, how to control my "communication centre" although sometimes I manage it (mainly by shifting my focus elsewhere until sometimes I totally forget the whole ghost thing and then I realize their gone but it's not easy) I still need to improve my technique. Thanks for your advice by the way 😊

Hello and Welcome.

The authentic expert will always be You. My thinking is that it is best to not make assumptions. Calling your name is a way of getting your attention. With your parents it meant one thing with your husband most likely something else.

A phone call to your niece, just to say hi, may give you an opportunity to read her energies and determine why she might have shared a dream with you.

Update:

Okay figured out why my husband called my name. We found out yesterday that his oldest sister is in the hospital - sadly she may have cancer - the prognosis does not look good. I'm not close to her so I would not know her voice, but hearing my husband's got my attention:) So the connection was sickness for someone connected to him.

Well Guys and Gals,

Sadly it was my husband that was sick. He just got out of the hospital yesterday, he had a mini stroke. We are home now and doing fine but the next 2 weeks will be crucial. I was hoping that my sensitive self was wrong this time!! Times like this makes me wish I was normal:) But on the other hand I knew something was wrong just not the WHAT. So, it was not his sister.....it was my husband. I really have to learn to listen to inner self more!!

Thanks for letting me vent.

Have a blessed day!!

Hi all!,

First off I'd like to say hello!, I'm new here so I'm sorry for any thing I do wrong but in not very good at the whole forum thing. So my query is that I used to be very good at communicating with animals and was very sensitive to spirits but because "ghosts" scared the sh*t out of me when I was younger I kind of "switched off" my abilities with people but not with animals, which I was pretty happy about because I didn't really want dead strangers turning up in my house whenever they please, but recently I haven't been able to communicate with any animals. It's almost as if there is something blocking me, the only thing I've been able to do is feel when they are sick . This really upsets me since I always enjoyed being able to talk to, and help, animals that are in need and it's even more frustrating since I also recently got a new mare who is very nervous and fearful but I can't communicate with her to figure out what is wrong. Has anybody got any tips on how to gain back my "ability", any help appreciated 🐝

Hi Restless Rider. Welcome, I'm new here too 🐝 I think this will give you a starting point to help you get your abilities back.

First, a little background. I used to have the ability to know whether someone could be trusted, how things would turn out for me or others within a split second of seeing them. I had a lot of "I told you so" moments with my friends as a kid. I was then taught in school that you shouldn't base people off of 1st impressions and I took that to heart. I would ignore the things I felt or saw or knew. Pretty soon that ability disappeared.

I've worked on it however and I now get instincts like that again. Sometimes I consciously realize it and acknowledge it as quickly as I used to. I might look at someone's picture and think - this person is a troublemaker - and then I later learn through being with them that they drink too much and their friends do drugs and have been to jail a few times haha. My impressions don't always make their way to my conscious awareness that quickly. Sometimes it takes a few days, others a few weeks. So I'm not quite there yet, but almost. Its come back.

I also talk to animals, its so uplifting. I talk to nature. I don't see spirits but if I want to talk to someone who has passed on (someone in my family, a leader or historical figure I never met, etc.) I can connect with them and get information that I can later validate.

The way I communicate and pick up on information is more process oriented these days. I have to get my mind and body in a relaxed state whereas when I was a kid, I don't remember having to do that. But the more I use my process, the more natural instincts I start to get back too. I have moments where I don't have to try to relax and the information just flows which are wonderful moments. I hope my process can get you started in the right direction!

When I want to connect with animals, people, spirits, nature, anything, I spend 30-60 seconds or so relaxing my body and breathing in, feeling energy run through my body. That energy is "my energy," how I feel. Once I can feel it, I focus on who/what I want to communicate with. I think about becoming one with them and I breathe them in. Once I notice a shift in the way the energy feels, or if I start to get images or thoughts (I'm clairsentient, clairvoyant and claircognizant - if you are cliraudent you may get information coming to you that way instead), I know I have connected and I start talking to them. That's it! If the response from them isn't clear, I just breathe that response/message in, remain calm and allow the interpretation to come to me.

Let me know if you try it and how it goes! I think the process will bring back your other abilities over time. And the great thing about a process is, once you've learned it, you can never lose it. You will forever be able to read/communicate with anything 🐜

Hi guys!

Sorry I haven't replied sooner but I've been pretty busy of late 😊

Thank you txs I tried this about 10 minutes ago and it worked! I was upstairs in my bedroom and relaxed my body, focused on the fact that I wanted to communicate with an animal and after about 10 seconds I heard very kind of distant voice of a woman so I went downstairs thinking that the TV had been left on in the living room but it was off and there was a little sparrow there huffing and puffing at the window. It turns out she'd flown in the conservatory door by accident when it had been left open for the dogs and got stuck in the living room when my boyfriend shut the door without even looking!, I swear he's constantly sleepwalking lol, at first she was scared to death of me but after I reassured her that I wouldn't even dream of harming her she allowed me to pick her up and put her back outside. I'm going to see to the horses in about an hour so hopefully I will be able to get through to my new mare! 🐾

I thought I'd add that the reason I thought that the TV was on was because I've never actually heard the animal talk so to speak, they've always just sent me images of what they wanted me to see and used energy to send me how they feel, do you think that this could be me going to the "next level" so to speak?? I know it sounds odd but hey anything is possible 🤪

That's very cool that you can hear the voice as well as the gender of the voice as if it is external from yourself. Maybe you are going to the next level and you're opening up your audience channel now too!

How'd things go with your new horse?

Hi!,

Thanks for replying I hope your right lol. It was actually really strange because all I could get out of her was an image of a bully type black and white puppy and the feeling of sadness, I think I'm going to contact her old owner tommorow and see if it rings a bell to him. She just constantly seems really mopey but nervous at the same time if you get what I mean?

Hi, and welcome 😊

I am a fellow horse owner and I just wanted to add my 2 cents worth. Sounds like this is a new acquisition? Have you had her vet checked yet? It is always best to rule out any physical cause. I take it she is not lame? Is she eating well? Is she stable or grass fed?

Moving home is far worse for a horse than for a human, horses are herd animals, they are prey animals and rely on the structure of the herd to keep them safe.

What is she like in the stable? Have you ridden her yet?

Hi!,

I have owned her for about 3 weeks now and I made sure that as soon as I got her that she got a clean bill of health from the vet and farrier since she was used as a broodmare pretty much all her life before I got her and was left in the field with very minimal handling and veterinary/hoof care. She is not broken in but I intend on bringing her on after she is desensitised, it is very much one step forward to steps back with her though and just when I think we're having a breakthrough a plastic bag comes along and ruins everything lol. She is turned out all day and then brought in at night but she also has to be brought in when it rains since we haven't yet mastered wearing her rug. She is much better now though than when I got her since she wouldn't let me anywhere near her feet at first but now more than willingly picks them up and allows me to brush her tail. Thanks for the reply 🐝

It is a huge step from an unbroken brood mare to a riding horse. Some of the time there is a reason they are left as a brood mare, always make me crazy when people say that they have a mare with a physical problem and that they will just breed from her. It's easier to re-hab racehorses than brood mares! You don't say how old she is but I would be very watchful when she is in season, she will be expecting to be covered and she may be really cranky or flirty. And the rug thing will instantly remind her of being covered so needs to be approached very sensitively. Some mares never accept a rug willingly. What made you buy her, what made them stop breeding from her? Is her age true?

Oops sorry 🤔, she is 8 years old and was kept as a broodmare since her owners bought her as a 3 year old backed and bitted filly but weren't experienced enough to bring her on she was used as a lawn mower for a year or two until they figured that they could make money from breeding her since she is a registered Arab pb. They sold her since they were moving and couldn't keep all their horses (they also had a Welsh sec b, a gypsy cob and two Shetlands) and since she was unable to be ridden their wasn't really much reason to keep her. I bought her since I knew I was looking for a big project and viewed tons of horses but I "clicked" with her and we have bonded very deeply in the short time I've had her. I've never actually owned a "beginner horse" and taught myself how to ride on my grandads horses, he was a broker who would buy problem horses from auctions train them up and sell them on for more mainly young stock, stallions and ex racers, so I kind of followed in his footsteps and have always done this sort of thing, I get where your coming from though since broodmares are defiantly not great candidates for rehabilitation but I have had many that have turned out to be amazing horses although I defiantly wouldn't recommend anybody going out and buying a broodmare without mounds of experience since they are extremely hard to handle, more so than any stallion I've ever met, and need to be handled with care 🐝
