

MY NEW IDENTITY

The Ideal Version of Myself in 3-6 Months From Now

My Power Phrases

- My feelings do not influence my actions in any way. It is my indomitable will that makes me able to conquer the world.
 - Every word I speak is a steel-plated promise to myself and the whole world. By breaking said promise I bring disgrace upon my entire bloodline.
 - I strive to be the best at everything I partake in. Even if I've already mastered a given realm, there are always more records to break.
-

My Core Values

- Professionalism
 - Veracity
 - Persistence
 - Ambition
-

My Daily Non-Negotiables

- Achieving each step of my plan for the day, written every evening.
- Any form of exercise. Nothing can stop me from doing simple 5 sets of 20 pushups even if I'm sore or ill.
- Learning something new, that's going to help me achieve my goals. It may be done through reaching out to new clients, picking up new skills in The Real World, or any other viable merit.

My Goals Achieved

- Making at least $2000+ with one client in one deal:

After weeks of relentless practice, I'm finally ready for my first big fish. I compose an absolute masterpiece of an outreach, instantly getting the attention of my future client. Navigating with speed, I leverage his awoken curiosity to arrange the Zoom call. During my pitch, I feel like God Himself is guiding my tongue to model flawless sentences that grip my client by his heart, push him over the edge, and make him agree to my offer. At this precise moment, I realize how superior I've become over these few months in comparison with my past self, and wash in pride while I proceed to generate astonishing revenues for every business partnering with me.

- Becoming THE Rainmaker:

Each day I'm one step closer to becoming a wizard of words, with every single sentence in my copy having a defined purpose and achieving the intended outcome. Finally, my mastery makes me eligible for The Rainmaker status. But not just Rainmaker like any other. I become a figure, bringing daily motivation to everyone around me, while others strive to follow my steps. I infect everyone in my circle with the spirit of winning, each day mastering my craft more and more, to become the top 1% of the top 1%.

- Getting To A $10k Income Per Month:

BOOM! Another month ended with $10k+ money-in. I bathe in pride as numbers on my bank account click into place. My indefatigability allowed me to finally breach the walls of the Matrix, and become the freest I've ever been. There's no time for rest - future goals lie before me, new mountains arise, waiting, tempting to be conquered. I give in to the temptation and face future challenges head-on, without looking back even for a split second. Bridges - burnt. Money - made. My new life lies before me.

My Rewards Earned

- Long-desired revving of my first car, while I turn the keys for the first time with a giant smile and a raging mind. Ready for war, ready to tame this beast for myself, I take it for a ride around Warsaw, laughing at all of the challenges I had to face to get to this point, with my favorite music blasting from the radio in the background. The smell of new leather on the seats, the unimaginable speed, the ease with which the machine adapts to me and I to it. Everything falls into place.
- Unforgettable 14-day adventure in Dubai, fully paid for with my hard-earned money. The sun shines bright, making the view from one of the top Burj Khalifa's floors more delightful than ever. Looking at the islands in the distance, I smile as my girlfriend massages my stiff shoulders, bringing a short, yet long-awaited relief from all the stress, even if it's just for a few, split seconds.

- The smile on my mother's face, as I come out as a family hero, saying that she doesn't have to work a single day of her life from now on if she wishes to. Her eyes light up with all of the dreams that she never got to experience because of her grueling and tedious 9-5 job. Now it's the time for her to finally enjoy her life. We hug each other, knowing that our family doesn't have to worry as much about the Matrix anymore, and we finally get to enjoy our free life.

My Appearance And How Others Perceive Me

- My hair is always styled impeccably, which works in tandem with perfectly matched clothing in a sleek yet modern style. People associate me with always wearing dark glasses, a relatively tight shirt, and trousers, which suit my powerful, masculine, muscular physique. A watch from a good brand, such as AP, is always present on my wrist. Women can't take their eyes off me, even though they have to go without, as I am a monogamist.
- My character commands a great deal of respect. When there is a dispute I am quick to take the initiative and solve the problem, and others usually give way, accepting my opinion. Rarely does anyone try to undermine my experience, and if they do, my eloquence and competence allow me to quickly deal with adversity and devote my attention to more important things. This ensures that people always listen with interest to what I have to say.
- Wherever I am heading, I always give the impression of having a clear, lucid goal. A focused businessman who does not give way, pursuing his ambitions at all costs. Others often feel obliged to join me, and if they don't, they just get out of my way. Sometimes this results in fear, sometimes in devotion and respect, but nevertheless each of these two groups admires me for my dedication to my goal.

My Day In The Life Stories.

- With the first rays of dawn peeking through the curtains, I stir from my slumber, embracing the day with a sense of purpose. With unwavering discipline, I begin my morning ritual with a bracing cold shower, invigorating both body and mind for the challenges that lie ahead.
- Emerging from the icy cascade, I retreat to my sanctuary, where the soft glow of dawn bathes my workspace in a warm embrace. With a steaming cup of tea in hand, I immerse myself in the art of copywriting, my fingers dancing across the keyboard as I weave tales of intrigue and persuasion.
- As the morning sun ascends to its zenith, I set aside my craft to embark on a journey of physical labor and self-improvement. At the gym, amidst the clang of weights and the rhythm of exertion, I hone not only my body but also my mind, cultivating resilience and determination with each rep and each step.
- With muscles fatigued and spirits buoyed, I return home to replenish my strength with a nourishing dinner, savoring each bite as fuel for the challenges that lie ahead.
- As twilight descends and the world is bathed in the soft hues of evening, I once again return to my desk, ready to dive back into the world of words and ideas. With the silence of the night as my companion, I delve deep into the recesses of my imagination, crafting prose that captivates and compels with every keystroke.
- As the clock ticks towards midnight and the world slips into slumber, I finally give my fingers their desired rest, while my mind ablazes with inspiration and my heart alights with possibility. With a contented sigh, I succumb to the embrace of sleep, knowing that tomorrow holds infinite promise for those bold enough to chase their dreams.

My Lifestyle:

My Identity:

