

Harassment Policy

This zine does not accept or condone harassment of any kind.

Any contributors found to be engaging in behavior that is abusive will be kicked from the zine and have their pieces removed.

Any user harassing people in our zine will be blocked from purchasing the zine.

What Defines Harassment?

The Monochrome Mod Team defines harassment as any intentionally abusive behavior. This includes big things like Doxxing, and smaller things like spamming someone's inbox with cruel comments. Sending death threats, sharing art with the intent to mock it, leaving multiple cruel comments, and instigation or participating in dogpiling are all examples of abusive behaviors that are not tolerated.

I Am Being Harassed / Witnessing Harassment

Please fill out this form. The mod team will do everything in their power to stop the harassment and hold the abuser responsible. The victim's needs and voice will be prioritized in this process. We will act on your report as soon as we receive it.

Why Are We Doing This?

While most zines are not normally this upfront or strict with anti-harassment, due to the current climate of fandom, the mods think that it's important to create clear boundaries. Harassment of any form, for any reason, is never okay. We will not tolerate any behavior of that kind. We want our contributors to feel safe and have fun! We want our consumers to confidently be able to support this zine knowing that the zine is a positive experience for all. Fandom should be fun, and it's up to us to make it that way.
