Text 1

A Strange Shop

Aaron opened the door to the strange, old shop on Harrison Avenue. When he went inside he was greeted by the even stranger shop owner. Looking around, Aaron saw lots of old books. He wanted to browse through them, but he had to meet his mom in ten minutes. He will have to come back tomorrow.

1. Who greeted Aaron?
2. What was inside the shop?
3. When will Aaron return to the store?
4. Where was the shop located?
5. Why did Aaron need to leave?

Text 2

Shoe Sculpture

Sarah started collecting lost shoes when she was ten years old. She always thought they looked lonely lying by themselves on the side of the road. So whenever Sarah sees a lost shoe, she takes it home to add to her collection. Now she has over one hundred shoes, and plans to make them into an art sculpture.

1. Who collects lost shoes?
2. What does Sarah plan to do with the shoes?
3. When did Sarah start collecting shoes?
4. Where does Sarah find shoes?
5. Why does Sarah collect shoes?

An Announcement

I got our warehouse's safety report from the city inspector this morning. The inspector, Mr. Yang, was here last week, and I'm happy to report that he only noted a few things we should fix so they don't become problems. Mr. Yang had one major suggestion, to replace the railing on the stairway. After the meeting ends, I'll email a list of the other issues we need to address.

1. What is the main topic of the talk?
2. Who is Mr. Yang?
3. What will the speaker do after the meeting?

An Appointment

Welcome, Mr. Gallagher. According to our records, you're a new patient. Before Dr. Chung can see you, you'll need to fill out these patient information forms. Please include the date of your last dental exam and any dental problems you're having now. If you need x-rays, he'll take those after he's had a first look at your teeth. I'll be at the front desk in case you have any questions.

1. Who is the speaker?
2. What information should be included on the form?
3. What will happen after the forms are filled out?
