

Subject Line: Creating A Cultivating Garden

Hey <Name>;

I found your website while I was looking for a way of creating a self-sufficient garden. I appreciate your effort to teach them the way of producing their own food. It's especially essential nowadays. Because somebody deliberately raged a war against the people who produce their own food. Global cartels.

After finding your website. I took a look at your '<product>' all descriptions. I think it shows a clear road map for the ones who want to produce food for themselves and keep them from making deadly mistakes along the way. It must be too costly to figure this out by themselves.

Then I looked at your Facebook, and LinkedIn pages, and an idea came to my mind. I think you can use your social media accounts more effectively to put some content and direct people's attention to your website.

I prepared a quick example for you. If you're interested in taking a look at it, let me know and I'll send it right away.

Take care.

Adrian