Vacation Travel Deals Tips - A Few Ideas for Saving on Future Travel Expenses

Any savvy traveler knows to use comparison shopping websites to find vacation travel deals. It's very easy to combine every leg of a journey online these days, without having to hire a travel agent to search for deals on your behalf.

You can start the planning process by getting organized. Determine your budget, come up with some dates (the more flexible, the better), and make a list of destinations you would like to consider. Find out when the tourist season is for each of the destinations and look for deals during OFF season, when airfare and hotels will be a lot cheaper.

Another way to find vacation travel deals is to wait for last minute discounts to pop up. This can be a great way to save if you are not particularly picky about where and when you are going. Many of the leading travel discount sites offer apps and free newsletters that will alert you of all of the best deals daily, weekly, or monthly. You can also use apps to track plane ticket and hotel prices.

Always take advantage of free membership programs, like frequent flyer programs, credit card points, military discounts, student discounts, group discounts, Triple A programs, and so forth. Even if you're not sure if you qualify for any special discount or reward, it's still worth looking into.

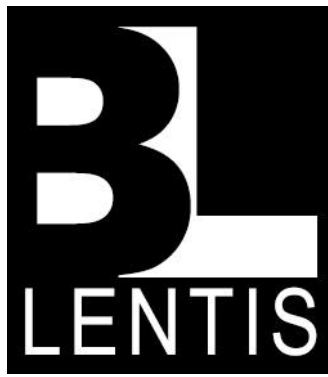

If you want to go on a cruise, check into repositioning cruise offers. Since cruise lines move their ships around different regions during the season, there are short periods of time when they offer discounts to tourists. These are referred to as one-way repositioning cruises, and are significantly less than the regular high-season cruise. The only problem with this type of cruise is that your journey will end at another city from where you started out at - in another region of the country or even continent. Because of this, you will have to make sure the one-way airfare back home is worth the discount of the cruise.

Additional Tips for Cheaper Vacation Travel Deals

Wednesdays are typically the cheapest days to fly domestically, followed by Tuesday. Be on the lookout for popup deals right after midnight on Wednesday mornings and just after 3 PM on Tuesdays.

If you will be traveling with family, one of the very first things to look for is a hotel that offers free meals for kids. Also, don't rent a car right at the airport because airport car rental rates tend to cost a lot more than the rates of off-airport rental offices - even if it's the same company. Book your room at a hotel that is easy to get to from the airport. Some even offer free shuttles back and forth.

When shopping online for vacation travel deals, carefully read over the details so you'll know exactly what the price covers.
