What is Photovoice?

Photovoice is a type of participatory action project that engages people in the process of naming, capturing, and strengthening their community through photography. The essence of photovoice is that the perspectives, knowledge, and expertise of those often not heard within communities are valuable to inform and enact policy, social, and/or community change.

In summary, it puts cameras in the hands of volunteers to enable them to share their experiences, perspectives, feelings, and stories of volunteerism and service.

There are three main goals of photovoice:

1. To document and reflect on community assets and areas for growth
2. To use small and large group discussions to critically analyze community issues through photography
3. To influence decision makers to enact policy, community action and/or change

Each participant is invited to fully participate, attend each session and take photos and will receive:

- Camera to use throughout the project (cameras must be returned at the end of the project on the last session).
- Participant Payment Stipend: Each participant will receive a gift card of $0.00 (Add amount). Stipends will be distributed on (Add date and details of distribution).
