

SL: Anna, Rising Spirit needs these tweaks!

Hello Anna,

Your Facebook post on the "3 reasons why you shouldn't postpone a hard conversation", has opened my eyes on why it's important, great advice!

No wonder you have a big following on Facebook! I saw some big opportunities to increase your client base and conversion rate from FB!

You are missing out on a large number of customers by not using social media to its maximum potential!

Medock, for example, constantly uses these strategies I'm going to tell you about, and they're the most prominent relationship counselors in Hungary!

They have reached 6k + followers on FB, using eye-catching images and relatable text that leads people to their website.

I'm confident that if you were to implement these onto your social media pages, that it would enhance people's curiosity and send them straight to your website.

I wrote a description for you to try out on your next Facebook post, using the persuasive language that Medock uses!

Do you like the emojis I put in the text?

Best regards, Adam

Check it out below:

💔 Having affection for your husband differs significantly from being romantically in love with him.

You are experiencing a decline in emotional connection with your husband, and this is causing you feelings of fear, heartache, and bewilderment.

You might sense that you've been contemplating a decision - whether to remain or depart.

And you have been preserving the appearance of "normalcy."

😓 Housework gets done, bills are paid, and conflicts might even be avoided... However, your issues remain unresolved.

True happiness cannot be attained by only keeping up the appearance of normalcy, but achieving it by:

- ✔ Discussing with your partner all the burdens you're carrying.
- ✔ By seeking professional help.

You need someone who will tell you that everything is alright, nothing is lost.

Someone to guide you into reigniting the spark in your marriage.

It is achievable for you to:

- ✔ Feel the fire reignite between you and your husband. 🔥 Attain a level of intimacy like never before.
- ✔ Resolve conflicts without arguing and fighting.
- ✔ Have harmony in your living environment and navigate as a cohesive team.

Tap on the link provided to discover the secrets to cultivating an ideal marriage and rekindling your love for your husband once more!