

I have a dream

That we stand here as One

All parts of this Whole,

United in the heart

Each of us knowing our uniqueness

Each of us knowing our own special part.

Cells of one body

Resonating together

Creating coherence

United in Love

A luminous field

We radiate this out

Blessing our community, blessing our world....

Fragmentation, polarisation, discord and conflict

Can only be healed through our willingness

To begin anew

Set aside our differences

See ourselves and each other

With the eyes and heart of love

Weaving together a fabric of unbroken wholeness

A tissue of healing

In rainbow colours...

I feel the light within as it rises

I feel how it shines when our hearts are united

The power and presence

Of this community

Singing one song

In a thousand different voices

This is my dream.

Sara Trevelyan