Law of Attraction Course

E-Mail 1:

Subject: This is one gift I hope you'll consider for yourself—or someone you love

Body:

Gift-giving is a beautiful tradition.

But sometimes, in the rush of material things, we lose sight of what this season is really pointing toward.

Across spiritual traditions—there is a shared insight:

That what we attend to, believe in, and embody quietly shapes what unfolds next.

“As a person thinks in their heart, so are they.”

Not as doctrine—but as understanding.

Long before it had a name, this intuition described what we now call the Law of Attraction.

What's changed is that science has finally caught up.

Today, we know that:

- The brain functions as a prediction engine—and those predictions can be reshaped
- Visualization works only when it engages the body and emotional systems, not the mind alone
- Mindsets that integrate different levels of thinking outperform willpower
- Emotions act as signals—and while changing feelings directly can be difficult, changing the conditions that generate them is possible

These are not beliefs.
They are mechanisms.

And they form the foundation of Dr. Srini Pillay's course,
Implementing the Science Behind the Law of Attraction.

If you're looking to give yourself—or someone else—a gift with real staying power this year, this is an invitation to do something different:
to invest in alignment, clarity, and a way of working with your mind that lasts far beyond the holidays.

👉 Begin the Course
(for yourself, at your own pace)

This course can also be gifted.

For a limited window, Dr. Pillay is offering 30% off when you purchase the course as a gift—for as many people as you'd like, after you purchase it for yourself.

It's a way to offer something that doesn't collect dust but quietly supports clarity, confidence, and momentum over time. You'll see a pop-up with this special offer after you checkout.

Because Dr. Pillay respects people's intelligence—and does not believe in selling without substance—here's one brief scientific insight that reflects how this work actually functions.

Scientists studying identical twins found that learning improves when the brain is flexible, information is connected rather than fragmented, and change happens naturally instead of being forced.

What matters is why.

The brain doesn't work best by pushing harder. It works best when information is linked and coordinated all at once—more like a living network than a checklist. In the study, learning accelerated when signals were synchronized rather than isolated, mirroring what physicists call quantum entanglement: separate elements influencing each other instead of acting alone.

People talk about the “quantum mind.”

Almost no one explains how to use it.

Dr. Pillay created this course to close that gap—not with beliefs, but with science you can practice.

And this is what the science shows: when you stop forcing change and start working with how the brain naturally aligns, learning deepens and action flows.

That’s what this course teaches.

A simple reflection for today:
instead of pushing harder, ask yourself—

What inner conditions am I creating that shape how my mind responds to life?

If you’re curious how science is reshaping the Law of Attraction in grounded, practical ways, you can explore more here:

You don’t need to rush.

After this window closes, the course will remain available—at $197.

But rather than living life reactively, introduce:

a natural pause, an opening, a chance to choose deliberately rather than impulsively—and to take advantage of this special discount now.

Subject: Have you heard about miracles examined by medicine?

Body:

For more than 150 years, a small town in southern France has been the site of something unusual.

It's called Lourdes.

Thousands of people have reported unexpected recoveries there—but what makes Lourdes different from almost every other place associated with “miracles” is this: From the very beginning, physicians of any faith—or no faith at all—were invited to investigate each claim.

Not symbolically.

Not casually.

But medically.

Over time, this evolved into a formal process run by the Lourdes Medical Bureau and later the International Medical Association of Lourdes. Doctors review medical records, imaging, lab results, and long-term follow-ups. Most cases are dismissed. A very small number remain classified as medically unexplained—not because science was ignored, but because it was applied rigorously and still came up short.

An American medical student, Travis Dichoso, wrote about participating in this process in a peer-reviewed medical journal—describing not belief, but method: careful observation, documentation, and humility in the face of uncertainty.

👉 Explore the Science Behind Alignment

Here's why this matters now—in the final days of the year.

As the new year unfolds, many people start preparing resolutions: do more, try harder, be stricter, push further.

But most resolutions fail not because people lack willpower—they fail because they're built on force, not alignment.

Lourdes isn't evidence of magic.

It's a reminder that change doesn't always happen by pushing harder—sometimes it happens when systems come into coherence.

Modern neuroscience is beginning to show the same thing.

The brain doesn't change by stacking intentions on top of old patterns.

It changes when something clicks—when insight, emotion, and readiness converge at the same time.

In those moments, progress feels less like effort and more like alignment.

That's what Dr. Srini Pillay's course teaches.

👉 Begin the Course

This course can also be gifted.

For a limited window, Dr. Pillay is offering 30% off when you purchase it as a gift—for as many people as you'd like.

It's a way to give something that doesn't collect dust, but instead supports clarity, confidence, and forward momentum over time. You'll encounter this option after you checkout.

As the year closes, there's a quiet decision most people don't realize they're making.

They either carry the same internal patterns forward into January—or they change the conditions that produced those patterns in the first place.

One path relies on motivation.

The other relies on understanding how the brain actually updates itself.

That gap is exactly why Implementing the Science Behind the Law of Attraction exists.

Not to promise miracles.

Not to bypass reason.

But to teach how to start the new year aligned instead of exhausted—by bringing attention, emotion, perception, and action into the same direction. And to open the door to miracles—otherwise known as exponential and unanticipated positive change.

This isn't about setting another resolution you'll abandon by February.

It's about changing how your brain orients toward possibility.

👉 Enroll at Sales Pricing (Price goes up from $97 to $197 after January 14)

As this year closes, think of this as a different kind of reset.

Not "new year, new you."

But new orientation to reality.

And because this season is also about generosity, you can also:

👉 Gift This Experience

After this promotional window, the course will remain available—but at the standard $197 price and without the current bonuses.

You don't have to rush.

But if you've ever felt that pushing harder isn't the answer, this may be the right moment.

E-Mail 3: MUST BE TIMED FOR JANUARY 6TH - the video on sales page changes to one of Ellen Langer

Subject: The Study That Challenged What We Believe About Aging

Body:

You hear this message everywhere:

Embrace your age.
Grow old gracefully.
We're all going to die someday.

These are certainly options.
But are they really the best options?

When Harvard psychologist Ellen Langer conducted her now-famous Counterclockwise Study, she made a startling observation:

when people changed the psychological context they lived in, their bodies began to change too.

Participants didn't just feel younger.
They saw better, moved more fluidly, remembered more, and showed measurable signs of reversed physical aging.

Dr. Srin Pillay frequently references this work, and he's sharing a short clip of Ellen Langer herself this week on the course enrollment page.

👉 Click here to listen to the short video in the top fold and enroll in the course

Now pause for a moment and consider this:

Do you know how to create a younger version of yourself—not through denial or fantasy, but through your mindset?

Is there something you could actually do with your mind that might improve your vision, memory, energy, or physical health?

Most people would say no.

But Langer showed that it is possible.

At first glance, this can seem implausible—until you realize how many studies now confirm the same principle.

When people internalize negative stereotypes about aging, they don't just think differently—they walk more slowly, behave as if they are older, and even experience worse health outcomes.

Most people simply roll forward on autopilot.

That's exactly what this work challenges.

Dr. Pillay's course, Implementing the Science Behind the Law of Attraction, is not recycled motivation or rebranded wishful thinking. It introduces neuroscience and psychology that can fundamentally change how you think about aging, health, and what is—and is not—inevitable.

You can see this as a sales email.

Or you can see it as an invitation—to invest in yourself and learn how to age successfully.

Because your life is not meant to be spent drifting into fragile aging.

Vitality is not reserved for the young.

Youthfulness is not the absence of years—it's a state of engagement.

👉 Click here to learn how to work with your brain to support lasting vitality

If someone in your life could benefit from this work, the course can be gifted.

For a short period, Dr. Pillay is offering 30% off all gift purchases, with no limit on the number of recipients. You'll encounter this option after purchasing the course for yourself at the current discounted rate of $97.

I hope you'll pause for just a moment and ask yourself:

Is it worth having access to a course that could change how I age?

If the answer is no, that's perfectly fine.

But if the answer is yes,

👉 Click now, and let's begin.

Your vitality matters—at every age.

E-Mail 4:

Subject: Are You in the Driver's Seat of Your Life—and Going Where You Want to Go?

Body:

Most of us are never fully in the driver's seat of our lives.

And the usual advice doesn't help much.

The headlines tell us: take control, assert yourself, say what you want, do what you were meant to do.

But for most people, those techniques don't work.

Why?

Because there's something beyond "being in the driver's seat" that almost no one talks about.

It's the capacity to live as if you're in a self-driving car.

No constant effort.

No grinding.

No forcing.

Just a life that's programmed in alignment with what you genuinely want.

👉 Explore how brain science makes this possible

Being in the driver's seat does not mean you have to drive the car every moment. It means you're sitting up front—aware, intentional, and aligned—while life moves forward with less resistance.

The real art of living isn't control.
It's learning how to integrate control with surrender.

That's what the Law of Attraction is actually about—not wishful thinking, but guided surrender:
making clear commitments while allowing your beliefs, attention, and nervous system to align with the direction you've chosen.

👉 See how this approach works in practice

So what does alignment really mean?

It means letting go of old narratives and learning how to create new ones.

It means becoming clear—almost laser-focused—without being hijacked by distraction.

It means embodying energy rather than chasing outcomes.

And it means reconnecting with the belief that no matter where you are right now—health, wealth, purpose, or peace—you can move toward what matters.

👉 Learn what alignment looks like for you

This course is also available as a gift.

For a limited window, you'll receive 30% off when gifting the course to others.

Rather than another item, it offers something lasting: clarity of mind, renewed confidence, and direction.

If you're still unsure, ask yourself this:

Wouldn't it be a relief to stop feeling like everything requires struggle?

These are not abstract ideas.

They are learnable, trainable skills grounded in neuroscience and psychology.

The course is self-paced, intentionally light (about 5 minutes a day), and includes lifetime access.

👉 Take a closer look at the course here

There's nothing more liberating than finding your rhythm in life.

And it's especially meaningful when you can explore this work at a discounted price—from $197 to $97.

Subject: A sample of inspirational ideas to brighten your day

Body:

If you're still on this email chain, it's likely because something about this work resonates.

Today, instead of explaining concepts, I wanted to share a few short passages that beautifully capture the spirit of Dr. Srin Pillay's approach—not as wishful thinking, but as self-recognition and alignment.

From Marcel Proust:

"Every reader, as he reads, is actually the reader of himself..."

This course is designed as a mirror—

a way to see yourself more clearly beneath habit, noise, and old narratives.

👉 If this resonates, you can enroll here—and return afterward for the next passage

From E. M. Forster:

"Let yourself go. Pull out from the depths those thoughts that you do not understand..."

How often are we guided to do this—carefully, without fear?

This work encourages clarity without overwhelm, and curiosity instead of self-judgment.

👉 Commit to that kind of self-knowing here

From Emily Brontë:

"If you ever looked at me once with what I know is in you, I would be your slave."

That aliveness—that sense of being fully awake to yourself—is cultivated, not accidental.

👉 Learn more about how this works here

And finally, Leo Tolstoy:

"Everyone thinks of changing the world, but no one thinks of changing himself."

The science is clear: the brain can change.
And when it does, your future opens.

👉 Commit to a life of deeper engagement and vitality here. And take advantage of the discounted price of $97 (down from $197).

You can also give this course as a gift.

For a brief period, Dr. Pillay is offering 30% off all gifted enrollments. You'll be able to take advantage of this offer after you purchase.

E-Mail 6:

Subject: Looking for Love in All the Wrong Places? It's Not Where You Look—It's How (Discounted price for this window ends today)

Body:

In his clinical work, Dr. Srinii Pillay has met many remarkable people—deeply capable of loving and being loved.

And yet, many feel stuck.

They wonder why they're still single.

They try dating apps, bars, introductions from friends.

For some, it works.

But for those who remain single, the issue is rarely where they look.

It's how they look—and who is doing the looking.

To truly find love, you don't just search for it.

You open yourself into resonance with it.

👉 Learn how to begin developing this kind of resonance

Resonance is more than feeling loving.

It involves curiosity instead of reactivity.

Observation instead of projection.

Honoring what you truly want.

Love isn't about an external checklist.

It's about an inner one.

👉 Explore how the course supports this inner clarity

This course may also be gifted.

For a limited window, all gift purchases receive 30% off. You'll be able to purchase as many as you'd like after you enroll.

Even for those already partnered, this work often deepens the quality of love.

Because this isn't about settling—or chasing intensity—it's about connecting with the deepest version of yourself.

Over this series, you've seen how this work supports purpose, relationships, clarity, vitality, and direction.

The discounted price ends now. The course will continue at $197.

👉 Click here if you're ready to say, "I'm in."
