

- This is what teamwork looks like.
- Had 303 visitors, not including vendors and volunteers and extension staff.
- People were happy to be here, many repeat visitors
- Room looked great.
- Plant sales did well - $782 - great variety of new varieties. Labeled signs were helpful.
- More than one former master gardener expressed interest in joining.
- Calling people who left to pick up plants was successful. All but two prizes were picked up by the end of the Expo
- Having someone to provide relief was a good idea
- Great local vendors
- Great agents who helped out
- Giving begonias and other giveaways at the end was a good idea to give Etter Lane Gardens a break

Things to improve

- Raised beds may be overdone, perhaps starting seeds, composting, rain barrels, pest notes
- 3 who didn't come were education – need more education
- Realize that we compete with Franklin and Harrison Counties
- Need Home Vegetable garden books
- How do people know: FB (younger), road sign, repeat visitors & after softball game
- May need another site next year if construction interferes
- Assess best spot for plant sale
- Need card with info on Master Gardeners

Order of events

- Arrange tables
- Cover tables
- Bring in plants

Next garden spot articles for the newspaper

- May - Hazel & Carol - (Zinnias and Expo follow-up)
- June – Steve - pollinators
- July – Milton - begin your fall garden
- August – Steve - Fairy rings

Consider using some of the fund-raising proceeds to replace the raised beds at Extension
