Note. [italic, font 8, full stop at the end of the word 'Note', align left] A general note qualifies, explains, or provides information relating to the table as a whole and explains any abbreviations; symbols; special use of italics, bold, or parentheses; and the like. The general note also includes any acknowledgments that a table is reprinted or adapted from another source. Explanations of abbreviations and copyright attributions for reprinted or adapted tables appear at the end of the general note, in that order (see notes below for copyright attribution). Example: Factor loadings greater than .45 are shown in bold. M = match process; N = nonmatch process [shift enter]

[shift enter]

*A probability note (for p values) appears as a separate paragraph below any specific notes; subsequent probability notes follow in the same paragraph.

Figure's name [Title Case, italic]

[Legends or keys explain symbols, styles, patterns, shading, or colors in the image. Words in the legend should be in title case; legends should go within or underneath the image rather than to the side]

Note. [italic, font size 8, full stop at the end of the word 'Note', align left] A general note should explain units of measurement, symbols, and abbreviations that are not included in the legend or defined elsewhere in the figure. Explain the use of shading, color, and any other design element that carries meaning. If a graph includes error bars, explain in the image or general note whether they represent standard deviations, standard errors, confidence limits, or ranges; it is also helpful to provide sample sizes. Also include within the general note any acknowledgment that a figure is reprinted or adapted from another source. Place explanations of abbreviations and copyright attributions for reproduced figures last in the general note. [shift enter]

Position any superscripts for specific notes near the element being identified. [shift enter]

It is preferable to report exact p values; however, if statistically significant values are marked with asterisks or daggers in the figure, explain them in a probability note.
