Dear Mr. Sawan,

You claim to support the Paris Climate Agreement and plan to achieve net-zero emissions within your own operations by 2050. Yet you continue to invest in new drilling and fossil fuel infrastructure, with no end in sight. And last year, you spent nearly 8 million dollars on lobbying the US Congress. So we know you have influence and could be using it to further internationally agreed climate goals.

The continued burning of fossil fuels poses an existential threat to the planet. It must be stopped. Your company needs to be at the forefront of making this transition as swift and effective as possible.

Investors and financial institutions representing trillions of dollars in assets have already divested from fossil fuels. Global public condemnation and reputational risk will continue to drive more companies to leave the industry. It might be beneficial, for both profit and survival, to convert your remaining resources to effective climate solutions.

[add your additional statements here. I intend to ensure that I have no funds invested in your company or any fossil fuels until you use your enormous power and influence on Congress and the White House to end this addiction to fossil fuels. …]

Yours sincerely,
