

Lee Doyle

General Introduction:

A graduate of Michigan State University and The University of Detroit, Lee Doyle's career has spanned from legal practice, work for Ford Motor Company in government relations and insurance product creation and her final role as Chief of Staff for University of Michigan's communications division. In that role she was responsible for business management, employee relations, oversaw the University's Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) Office, as well as other matters of regulatory compliance. When movies were made in Michigan, she started U-M's Film Office and coordinated the filming on campus of many high profile films. Lee has now turned to creative work, painting oil on canvas, fiber work and gardening.

CCC Participation:

As a member of Christ Church Cranbrook for several years, it has been my joy to get to know congregants, working on the Flower Guild, Prayer Shawl ministry, singing in the Parish Choir, serving as an Ecumenical Minister and enjoying membership in the Women's Spirituality Group.

Describe a time when you were engaged in Meeting Jesus, Finding Joy, Sharing Beauty, or Serving others:

I find joy when I immerse myself completely in something that I am painting and I lose all sense of time. My paintings are of atmospheric landscapes that evoke peace through color. Through them I share beauty that I hope serves others. I am endlessly grateful that this church has helped me to begin to form a deep relationship with Jesus. When I serve and sing I feel Him close.
