ABSTRACT

An abstract is a concise, self-contained summary of a research article, designed to allow readers to quickly grasp its core content, assess its relevance, and decide whether to read the full document. A well-prepared abstract should be both informative and completely self-explanatory. It must provide a clear statement of the research problem, the study's proposed approach, its main findings, and its major conclusions. It should begin with a brief introduction to the topic, followed by a specific problem statement that identifies the knowledge gap. The abstract must then clearly articulate the research purpose. A concise overview of the research methods used, including the design and analytical techniques, should be included. Finally, it must present the brief research findings by highlighting the most significant results. The entire abstract should be a single, cohesive paragraph with a word count between 150 and 250 words. To adhere to formatting guidelines, it should be in Times New Roman, 11-point, single-spaced, and italicized. References should be avoided. The accompanying keyword list should contain 3 to 5 words arranged in alphabetical order and separated by commas (,), to aid in indexing and searchability.

Keywords: Alcoholic Beverages, ... (3-5 words, Times New Roman, Italic, 11)

INTRODUCTION

[The introduction should be a single, cohesive paragraph or a series of paragraphs, using Times New Roman 12, 1.15 line spacing, and justified alignment. The first line of each paragraph must be indented by 1 cm. A well-structured introduction should guide the reader through the background of your research, the specific problem you are addressing, your research objectives, and the significance of your study. All statements should be supported by references to a wide range of relevant and up-to-date literature. Begin with a broad overview of the research topic and gradually narrow the focus to the specific problem or gap in existing literature. Clearly state the purpose of your study and outline its main research questions or hypotheses. Finally, explain the contribution your research makes to the field.]

Investment is one of the factors that affect economic growth.<sup>1</sup> One of the social issues is the specialized trade in alcoholic beverages. The existence of alcoholic beverages has always generated pros and cons in society. Behind the positive impact on the investment sector, there are negative impacts that threaten physical and spiritual health, threaten the future life of the nation's generation, and trigger security, peace, and public order disturbances as a result of alcohol consumption.

RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

[The methodology section should be a single, cohesive paragraph formatted in Times New Roman 12-point font with 1.15 line spacing and justified alignment. The first line must be indented by 1 cm. This section provides a comprehensive overview of the research design, detailing the approach used, the research specifications, the types and techniques of data collection, and the methods for data analysis. It serves as a blueprint for the study, allowing readers to understand how the research was conducted and verify the findings.]

The research method used in this research is the empirical legal research method. In this empirical legal research, the law is conceptualized as a social institution in real terms by being linked to other social variables as a legal reality.<sup>2</sup> The data sources used in writing this thesis are data sources derived from primary data and secondary data with data collection techniques carried out by interviews, questionnaires, and observations that can either be carried out simultaneously or separately, which will then be analyzed qualitatively by connecting and examining

RESULT AND DISCUSSION

[This section should be written in one or more cohesive paragraphs, using Times New Roman 12-point font, 1.15 line spacing, and justified alignment. The first line of each paragraph must be indented by 1 cm. The research results and their discussion should be explained in a scientific, analytical, and critically descriptive manner, linking the findings to relevant theories and literature. If this section contains subsections, the sub-headings must be in Times New Roman 12-point font and bold.]

[Every table and figure presented in the article must be accompanied by a clear sub-heading, such as Table 1. Table Title or Figure 1. Figure Title. This sub-heading, along with the source, must use Times New Roman 11-point font, center alignment, and 1.15 line spacing. Ensure that all visuals and supporting data are presented neatly and are easy to read.]

Buleleng Regency Local Regulation No. 9 of 2016 regulates the supervision of the distribution and sale of alcoholic beverages. This regulation aims to maintain order and protect public health because Buleleng Regency, as one of the cities of education and also a choice of tourism destinations in the North Bali region, should pay attention to the circulation of alcoholic beverage sales. Therefore, it is necessary to supervise the circulation and sale of alcoholic beverages to not violate the existing provisions.

CONCLUSION

[The conclusion section should be a single, cohesive paragraph, using Times New Roman 12-point font, 1.15 line spacing, and justified alignment. The first line of each paragraph must be indented by 1 cm. This section contains a brief summary of the research conclusions, summarizing the main findings and their implications.]

Supervising the distribution of alcoholic beverages in Buleleng Regency according to Buleleng Regional Regulation No. 9/2016 is conducted through guidance, field supervision, and enforcement. The local government implements supervision through an integrated team of several related technical agencies. Supervision of the distribution and sale of alcoholic beverages in Buleleng Regency has not been maximized since the purpose of supervision based on Buleleng District Regulation No. 9/2016 has not been accomplished. This circumstance is evident from the fact that violations in terms of the responsibility of business actors to the provisions of business administration still remains, such as the location and/or place selling alcoholic beverages adjacent to schools, places of worship, and hospitals; not to mention that numerous business actors do not hold any business licenses. This portrays that business actors have not fully complied with the provisions of business requirements.

REFERENCES

[The composition of the bibliography must consist of 80% primary sources, such as national and international journals, theses, dissertations, and national and international seminar proceedings. Other sources (20%) may include books or other reference materials. All references should be to the most pertinent, up-to-date sources. A minimum of 10 (ten) references is required, and only references that are cited in the manuscript should be included in the reference list. The use of a reference management tool such as Mendeley is recommended for consistency in formatting. All references must be written using the Turabian 8th Edition format. Please use a consistent format for references and see examples for guidance.]
