Cannabis Flower

BUD BAR

The Cannabis Flower category may include dried flower from several licensed producers in different package sizes and cannabinoid profiles. Customers can compare products using information such as listed THC and CBD content, producer, package weight, terpene details where available, and price.

Some products may be marketed as premium cannabis based on cultivation, processing, packaging, brand positioning, or price. Individual experiences vary, so these descriptions should not be treated as guarantees.

Pre-Rolls

Pre-rolls offer a ready-to-use format for eligible adults who prefer not to grind and roll dried flower. The selection may include single pre-rolls, multi-packs, strain-specific products, mixed packs, and infused formats where available.

Customers should review the product label, quantity, ingredients, package size, and cannabinoid information before purchasing.

Edibles

Cannabis edibles may include gummies, chocolates, chews, capsules, baked formats, and other regulated products. Products should be consumed only according to the label instructions and serving information.

Edibles may take longer to produce noticeable effects than inhaled cannabis and may remain active for a longer period. Adults should avoid consuming additional servings too quickly and keep all cannabis products secured away from children and pets.

THC Gummies

THC gummies are regulated cannabis edibles sold in compliant packaging with labelled cannabinoid content. Customers should carefully review the serving information, total package content, and storage instructions before use.

Individual responses can differ considerably. Customers should avoid driving or performing safety-sensitive tasks after consuming THC products.

CBD Products

Vape Cartridges and Vape Pens

The Vape Products category may include compatible vape cartridges, disposable vape pens, and other legal formats supplied by licensed producers. Customers should confirm compatibility before purchasing a cartridge for an existing device.

Only regulated vape products should be used. Unlicensed, modified, or improperly handled cartridges may present additional risks.

Cannabis Concentrates

Available cannabis concentrates may include hash, resin, rosin, shatter, wax, or other legal extract formats. Concentrates may contain higher cannabinoid levels than dried flower, making careful package review especially important.

Staff can explain product format, listed cannabinoid content, package size, and storage information. They cannot guarantee a specific effect or provide medical advice.

Hash

Hash may be available in several legal formats depending on current inventory. Customers should review the package information, cannabinoid content, producer details, and handling instructions before purchase.
