

Hi John,

Hope you're doing well!

Just wanted to say that I was blown away by the tremendous amount of free value in your '5 Tips for a Better Swing' video, from the bat swing movement to the hand-to-eye coordination, it was all easy and fun to comprehend.

While exploring your website after watching the video, I noticed something that had massive potential to grow - your lead generation process.

Collecting leads is a tedious time-consuming task but have you considered the possibility of every person who visits your website automatically becoming a lead, regardless of whether or not they make a purchase?

Now imagine a flow of 20 to 200 people going through your website every day, and every one of them becomes a lead automatically - endless people ready to change their lives thanks to your advice.

So now It's time to take your lead generation process to the next level.

Specifically, there is one lead magnet type that will help you gather leads, improve the bond with your followers and streamline the sales process.

If you're curious and want to learn all about this, feel free to shoot me an email back.

Take care,
Gurminder
