

Dialogue Solving a Problem

You've got into trouble and now you don't know how to solve the problem. You need to get a piece of good advice from an adult. Whom would you like to ask for help:

Discuss with your friend which option to choose.

- your parents
- a psychologist
- a teacher
- a social network

Make up 1-2 arguments for and against for each option

Parents	<ul style="list-style-type: none">· they're the closest people and know us better than others, so they can give us the best advice· all parents love their children and will do their best to help them solve the problem	<ul style="list-style-type: none">· I don't want my parents worry about me· My parents are too strict and won't understand my problem.· My parents are too busy with their work and don't have time to listen to my problems, they think I have to solve my problems on my own.
Teacher	<ul style="list-style-type: none">· She is very experienced, has been working with teenagers for a long time and know how to find the solution for different problems· has her own children of the same age so it will be easy for her to help us	<ul style="list-style-type: none">· I'm embarrassed to speak with a teacher about the problem· The teacher will connect with the parents but I don't want them to know about the problem
Psychologist	<ul style="list-style-type: none">· They're professionals, know how to help people in difficult situations· They have to keep a secret, so we can take them into confidence· they must be impartial (непредвзятый, объективный, справедливый)	<ul style="list-style-type: none">· It's difficult to find a good psychologist, who can really help· qualified psychologists are very expensive· the office can be far from our house
Social networks	<ul style="list-style-type: none">· the people who have had the same problems can share their experience· There are usually a lot of comments, so we can choose the best advice/the solution that will suit us	<ul style="list-style-type: none">· There can be unpleasant or even rude comments and it will make the situation even worse· It will take a lot of time to read all the comments/posts to choose the good solution
