

Krashen Sample – Changing the Register

“Acquisition requires meaningful interaction in the target language – natural communication - in which speakers are concerned not with the form of their utterances but with the messages they are conveying and understanding.” Stephen Krashen

Learning needs real talk in the language being learned-natural talking-in which speakers aren't worried about how they speak but with what they're saying and hearing. Stephen Krashen