Terms of Service:

Size guidelines: I excel at morbidly obese characters, but I gladly go up to blob and immobilized sizes that you'd see in my gallery. However, I am not a fan of drawing thin characters and I do avoid doing so, unless they're in a feeder setting or at the beginning of a sequence! I will, however, gladly make a fat to fatter sequence~

I do prefer working with SFW references but if you don't have one that's fine.

When it comes to canon characters, I might not want to draw them fat depending on who they are.

I reserve the right to not add one of my characters into a picture you commissioned, since I do have ideas for them that might not align with it, though it never hurts to ask!

I will steadily update you with the process of your commission and you're always welcome to ask for WIPs, my delivery time tends to never go above a month, and will usually be resolved in a few days. For repeat customers, you may pay after receiving the sketch, for new customers, I'd prefer for the payment to be upfront.

Rules:

You are allowed to post the commission you got from me! In fact, I'd be very grateful! Just make sure to credit me :>

I might charge characters which are very detailed extra, especially if its includes designs that aren't easily grabbable(for example, if your character has tattoos, but the reference sheet does not have them individually available for easy access)

I retain the right to reject your commission offer, I am always grateful, but some ideas I am either not skilled enough to handle or downright wouldn't want to.

I will never, ever work with any pictures that are AI generated that you'd like to use as a reference and as an extension of this rule, my artwork is not to be used to feed said AIs.

If you aren't sure about anything, simply ask me! :>
