New York Women in Communications (NYWICI) is the premier organization for female communications professionals. Our mission is to empower women in the communications field at every career stage to help them reach their full potential and navigate the ever-changing landscape of communications. At NYWICI, we promote professional growth and inspire members to achieve and share success by actively encouraging leadership and professional development, as well as networking opportunities that connect women who connect the world.

NYWICI is proud to partner with Stony Brook University, strengthening the bridge between academia and the professional world of communications. Through these valuable partnerships, NYWICI provides Rising Stars (ages 18-26) with unparalleled opportunities for growth, learning, and real-world experience. Our collaboration with educational institutions includes offering a scholarship program, a mentorship program, and hands-on workshops led by industry experts. Additionally, we facilitate networking events, and volunteer opportunities, ensuring that students are well-prepared to excel in their careers. By working together with colleges and universities, NYWICI is committed to nurturing the next generation of communications professionals and fostering a community of innovation, creativity, and excellence.
