

My dream state copywriting campus challenge: 5 minute clock

To have the ability to do just that, have the same abilities as my sleeping dream state. Where you can create anything, do anything, go anywhere and be anything without limitations. Translating that into this waking dream state would be the ultimate experience.

Like achieving the same calmness and supporting power as the bottom of the ocean, unaffected by waves in any situation. To constantly exude inspiring and contagious masculinity.

This I could only guess would cause my ancestors to awaken with proud excitement. Creating a growing potential for positive and abundant worldly domination of good in the world.

This removes all past bad karmas while stacking endless meaning and influence for the human race.

To have the mental capacity and skill to take on a new task or challenge without hesitation. Lead by example and be the example inspiring others to lead.