13-Year-Old Twins with Unidentifiable Disabilities are Attempting to Change the Negative Stigmas on Hip-hop through Their Music

The Dowe Twins are Youth Who Are Using Their Music to Uplift and Empower.

New York, NY October 10, 2022. The Dowe Twins, Princeton and Brazil, are thirteen-year-old Hip-hop musicians that are on the rise. As young teenagers, they have begun to formulate their own opinions about life and are using their original music to express themselves. The twins are sharing their own personal stories in order to help combat the negative stigmas around people with learning challenges, IEPs, and unidentifiable disabilities. The twins have received praise from multi-platinum producer Antwan "Amadeus'' Thompson, Power 105.1 host Ahmed Rodriguez, and recording artist/Instagram model Sweet Te. They are the only female male twin rappers in the world at their age spreading inspirational dialogue through hip hop music.. Their positivity is a welcome shift in the world of Hip-hop.

In a world that is full of negativity, the twins are creating lyrics that are intentionally uplifting, encouraging, and empowering. "Music is one of the best ways to express emotions," Princeton explains. The twins are taking music back to its essence by using it as a vehicle for true expression rather than allowing themselves to be influenced by trends. A lot of the music that is played by their age group revolves around violence and hypersexuality, the twins hope that by providing messages of positivity that they can influence their generation to make music that can bring people together rather than divide them apart. https://youtu.be/iHztthXvmLw

This summer the twins have been busy performing their music and spreading their messages of positivity. The twins have recently opened for acclaimed rapper Doug E. Fresh as well as performing at the "Nipsey Hussle Celebration of Life & Music" showcase with New York's iconic Hip-hop station Power 105.1. The twins have also spread their infectious positivity by performing at the New York City Police Foundation's "Camping in the Park" event, the Harlem Fashion Week for Kids, and the EmblemHealth ``Healthier Futures Wellness Expo." The twins love performing and are looking to perform as much as possible, spreading their messages along the way. The twins have been busy but are only getting started, planning to go global, one region at a time.
